Camp Falls

Cong Hordes Swamp 'Alamo'

SAIGON (UPI) — Hordes of Viet Cong overran an American Special Forces camp near the Laotian border Thursday and inflicted heavy casualties on an outnumbered American Green Beret and Montagnard tribesmen's garrison that battled gallantly down to its last bullets in an Alamo-like defence.

It was reported that some of the Americans and their allies, the wiry mountain tribesmen who make their home deep in Communist-controlled country, had been evacuated as the Viet Cong swept through the flaming outpost. There were no immediate details.

The Special Forces camp, at A Shau, situated astride a major infiltration route into South Viet Nam from Laos, about 325 miles north-northwest of Saigon, had been under heavy attack all day Wednesday and reported ammunition and medical supplies desperately low.

THROUGH WIRE

Up to two Communist battalions—between 1,000 and 1,200

Herbicides Join War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department reported Wednesday an estimated 20,000 acres of South Vietnamese crops had been destroyed with herbicides to deny food to the Viet Cong.

The 20,000-acre figure, however, does not include jungle and underbrush defoliated — treated with chemicals so the the leaves fall off — to deny cover to the guerrilla forces. Officials said they could not estimate the acreage involved in the defoliation program.

Blast Rocks Three States

CORNING, Ark. (AP) — At least one car of a munitions-packed freight train mysteriously blew up near Corning early Wednesday with a thunderous shock felt in three states.

A metal and concrete grain elevator, dimpled by shrapnel, battered and shredded in spots, shielded the town of 2,565 from the full force of the blast.

Authorities report only one injury, not serious.

Enlarged Glands Cancer-Free

By HARRY NELSON

No cancer has been found in a group of children with enlarged thyroid glands living in the path of fallout from the Nevada nuclear test site, it was learned Wednesday.

The children live in Washington County, Utah, an area said to have received during atomic tests in the 1950s the highest amount of fallout of any part of the nation.

Last Oct. 27 the U.S. Public Health Service reported that twice as many children living in the area in southern Utah have lumps on their thyroid glands as do children living in a region that has received no fallout from the Nevada tests.

The lumps are not due to cancer, it was reported, but the cause is not yet known.

The thyroid gland is the centre of concentration of iodine in the body. Radioactive iodine, one constituent of fallout, is known to concentrate in the thyroid.

Forces to Go Below 100,000

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Strength of the armed forces is expected to fall to 100,000 or fewer but basic defence commitments will continue to be met, officials said Wednesday.

Basic commitments means Canada's contributions to the ground, air and sea commands of the North Atlantic Alliance and to North American air defence.

Since July 1, 1964, the armed forces have experienced a monthly net manpower loss of some 600 personnel.

RATE SPEEDED UP

This rate increased in January to 810 when manpower strength fell to 108,157 from 108,967 at Dec. 31, 1965.

Officials said losses are expected to continue for several months though the re-engagement bonuses announced Feb. 18 should slow the exodus.

NO END YET

Authorities said they don't know at what point the losses will be halted. One source said strength may drop off to some 95,000 by summer. February figures are not yet available.

The defence department attributes the number of drop-outs to good economic conditions. The Conservatives attribute it to poor morale brought on by the uncertainties surrounding integration of the forces command and trades structures.

BOOMERANGED

When Defence Minister Hellyer took over the defence portfolio in 1963, manpower strength was 123,270 servicemen. When integration began it was 119,098 and Mr. Hellyer said some 10,000 would be cut from the roster to make administrative savings. This reduction was achieved far ahead of schedule but hasn't stopped.

Officials said pay increases, especially for pilots, will be granted soon.

Honeymoon In Canada For Beatrix?

A source close to government and royal house said Wednesday they are going westward. He refused to confirm it was Canada but denied it would be the United States.

The princess spent her early childhood in Ottawa during the war years, when the royal family went into exile.

One unpleasant note was sounded when an angry mob of about 500 youths screaming "fascists" battled with police outside the Dutch royal palace only hours before the wedding.

The gaily-decorated square was cleared within about 20 minutes. There were no reports of arrests.

'Liberal' Cap For John D

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, after holding forth at a press conference Wednesday night on indecision within the Liberal cabinet, was presented with a deerstalker cap.

He donned the double-peaked, Sherlock Holmes-type headgear for photographers and termed it a "Liberal minister's cap—when you've got it on nobody knows which way you're going."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday night that dissension within the Liberal cabinet — such as that concerning the George Victor Spencer spy controversy—could bring about the fall of the government.

He arrived by plane for a few days of fishing before speaking at the British Columbia party convention here Saturday.

Bandits Nab $500,000 In Gems

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Four nattily-dressed, pistol-brandishing bandits held up a downtown jewelry firm Wednesday and escaped with an estimated $500,000 in gems.

The men, all wearing gloves and sunglasses, entered Davidson & Licht jewelry store and ordered all employees to file downstairs to a basement office. No customers were in the store.

The gunmen directed credit manager Emil Frederick, 57, to open the basement safe. They took about $300 from the vault.

The robbers forced owner Arthur Licht to go oupstairs and open a vault there. They stuffed hundreds of gems into a valise and went back downstairs. One of the bandits discovered that Licht had not opened all of the safe compartments.

They ordered him back upstairs to the vault where they took the rest of the loot.

Pearson To Go?

MONTREAL (CP) — Le Devoir says Prime Minister Pearson assured a caucus of Liberal MPs and senators in Ottawa Wednesday that he will resign as party leader within three months, and improve his ways of running things in the meantime.

Still Disagrees

Cardin Saves Pearson

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Justice Minister Lucien Cardin scrapped his resignation to save Prime Minister Pearson from immediate retirement and the country from another general election.

In an interview Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin, who could smile again after his five-day ordeal, was asked why he withdrew his resignation.

"If I had left," he replied, "It is my view that Mr. Pearson would have left. And others. And the government would have fallen.

PARTY HAPPY

"Nobody wanted that to happen.

"That is why the party was so happy with the decision I took not to resign.

"I don't think the government can afford another election, nor do I think there is any alternative to our continuing to govern the country."

Mr. Cardin still disagrees with Mr. Pearson's action in allowing a partial judicial inquiry into the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

NOT RIGHT

But he was sure that Mr. Pearson thought it was the right decision when he took it.

"He was trying to satisfy public opinion that the government had nothing to hide in the case," Mr. Cardin said.

"I knew this, and so did anyone close to the problem. But I don't think it is right that we are pushed to set up all sorts of royal commissions and inquiries every time the opposition doesn't like our decision."

Mr. Cardin sent his resignation by messenger to the prime minister at noon Tuesday.

NOT OPENED

Mr. Pearson did not even open it. He knew what was in it. The two men had met the night before and they met again on Tuesday night.

Ottawa Can Pay Salaries

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

Parliament had finally approved the expenditures for 1965-66 and the financial crisis was over.

At precisely one minute before the House was to adjourn Wednesday the House approved the last estimated expenditure of the department of fisheries, ending a 22-day tumultuous debate of expenditures.

RUSHED THROUGH

Government House leader George McIlraith had warned that if the estimates did not go through Wednesday the civil servants could not have been paid on time.

So in spite of untimely delays in past debates, members of all parties rushed through the last multi-million dollars.

In about two hours they approved spending of the secre-

Cruelty Charges Prepared Against Baby Seal Hunters

By HARRY CALNEK

HALIFAX (CP) — A humane society officer said Wednesday he will lay criminal charges against three Magdalen Island seal hunters for "deliberate, sadistic, stupid cruelty" in killing seal pups.

Tom Hughes of Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society, said he did not consider the incident indicative of the entire seal hunt. But he said it involved 59 baby seals that were being skinned alive.

Another humane society officer, Brian Davies of Fredericton, and veterinarian Dr. Elizabeth Simpson of Ottawa, said they "could not conceive" of the hunt ever being humane.

SKINNED ALIVE

They said they observed seals being skinned alive and even when the pups were properly killed, they suffered "mortal terror" before their death.

In another development Andre Fleury of Montreal said in a telephone interview from Cap-aux-Meules, Que., that part of a film he produced on the hunt had been staged before the season opened and with permission of a federal fisheries officer.

The scenes staged before the season showed adult seals being shot with high - powered rifles, he said. The scenes showing pups being skinned alive were shot by cameramen accompanying hunters on the ice.

He said, however, that he felt these scenes were outdated and did not represent the hunt as it is today with government control and a quota of 50,000 pup skins. Fisheries officials stopped the hunt at 6 p.m. Wednesday when the quota was reached.

Mr. Hughes said he found nine seal pups "obviously alive and bleeding profusely from the nose and head and only partially stunned."

"We found another 50 not skinned but cut and bleeding from the throat and neck. They were alive. There was no need for it. It was just bloody, stupid, sadistic, cruelty.

PUPS TORPID

"At this time of year the pups are torpid. Many of them have been deserted by the mothers and are living on their blubber. You can roll them over with your foot."

Dr. Simpson, 26, a petite blonde who leaped from ice floe to ice floe to follow the hunt, said 95 per cent of the pup skulls she examined where the hunters, known as swilers, were being observed had been crushed and the brain damage was irreparable.

DIFFERENT STORY

"But when we went a half-mile away where they weren't being observed, I found 50 per cent of the skulls were not crushed.

"I definitely saw a baby seal being skinned alive. It lifted its head and looked at us. I don't think the hunters know it. I talked to them and most of them are very gentle men. They admit freely that they find it repulsive."

Dial-a-Taxman Proves Big Hit

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax collector at times is like the fat kid at school.

He tries to make friends by making little jokes or offering to help with homework, but all he gets is hollow laughter and suspicion.

"It makes you cry, almost," an official of the national revenue department's taxation division said Wednesday.

But some of the officials of this tax-collecting department are starting to smile through their tears at the success of an experimental service begun in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa, and soon to be extended to Brampton and Quebec City.

Taxpayers in these centres can call up their tax office on certain nights and pour out their hearts to a sympathetic expert.

"It's part of a long - range plan to take away the hesitation and fear that people have," an official said. "We want people to come to us with their problems."

Folks have been dropping into the tax office during day business hours for years, but it's hard for office workers to lick the lineup in their lunch hour and not everyone has access to a phone.

* * *

"We schedule the night services for the early part of the week—Monday to Wednesday—because it's usually during the weekend that the taxpayer has started to do his return."

The program has been a smash hit. In Calgary, where it ran for three hours on three nights last week, office staff had to be increased to 10 from three to cope with all the questions.

In Vancouver, 720 taxpayers rang up the first night. Ottawa's squeezed 178 calls into two hours.

Officials hope the phone service and the over-the-counter counselling stations to be opened in Brampton and Quebec City shopping centres will reduce the number of wrong returns—there were 1,018,998 for the 1964 taxation year.

The government refunded $14,000,000 last year to 350,000 happy people, many of whom were confused in making their returns and made mistakes in the government's favor.

The others who made mistakes in their own favor? Well, the tax fellows are more embarrassed, really, than mad at them.

men—participated in the attack on the camp manned by some 13 Green-Bereted U.S. advisers and 300 to 500 Vietnamese Montagnard irregulars about three miles east of the Laotian border.

Bad weather curtailed vital air support for the besieged camp.

'PUFF' SHOT DOWN

During the intense fighting Wednesday, Communist anti-aircraft weapons situated on mountains flanking the camp on three sides shot down an air force AC-47, the awesome 'Puff the Magic Dragon,' that fires 7.62 mm rounds at a rate of 6,000 a minute.

Three crewmen, and possibly a fourth, were killed in the crash. Three others were rescued by other helicopters before they were driven off by intense ground fire.

The defenders could only listen as the Viet Cong moved to within 300 feet of the camp's perimeter early Thursday and prepared for the final all-out assault.

It came about 3:30 a.m. Within an hour, the Communists had breached the defence. A flare ship circling overhead at 4:35, reported the camp in flames but some resistance from the communications bunker.

ALL ABLAZE

By 5:05 a.m. Thursday, the camp radio operator reported that everything he could see on the ground had been destroyed or was burning.

The operator, possibly one of the last defenders still holding out, asked for immediate air support.

With a ceiling of about 1,500 feet, American planes struck at the Communists around 6 a.m. in a desperate attempt to save the camp.

HAND-TO-HAND

At 6:15, the radio operator was still directing the rocket fire of the planes overhead. Then the radio went out.

A Vietnemese military spokesman reported that radio communications with the camp had been re-established once again about 10 a.m. and that hand-to-hand fighting was raging inside the camp.

While the heavy fighting raged, a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon disclosed that American forces had suffered more than 1,000 casualties—killed, wounded and missing—in a single week for the first time.

The record number of casualties was reported for the week ending Feb. 26. Revised figures reported Wednesday raised the original casualty report for the week from 109 killed and 747 wounded to 129 killed, 916 wounded and three missing for a total casualty count of 1,048.

In heavy new air raids against North Viet Nam, air force fighter-bombers used super-sensitive radar to pinpoint targets as they unloaded bombs and high-explosive rockets Tuesday on a half-dozen targets 80 to 135 miles west of Hanoi. Targets blasted included an ammunition dump, a petroleum storage area and a military area.

tary of state, the RCMP and the fisheries department.

Then the whole bundle went to the Senate—the house of sober second thought—for approval and royal assent.

"This is an outrage to the Senate," complained Senator Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Que.). He objected to the Senate being forced to do in two hours what it had taken the Commons so long to do.

Conservative Senator Wallace McCutcheon said the estimates would be held up until next week if the Senate gave them proper consideration.

In spite of other half-hearted objections, the Senators rubber-stamped the estimates and they were passed.

Consequently the log jam which had blocked all new bills and resolutions in the Commons had finally been smashed.

Already some $2,000,000 in pay cheques for casual employees and people working for contractors working for the government have been delayed.

In order to get the final estimates through the Conservatives waved their rights to talk on fisheries and the RCMP.

TALK LATER

However, they served notice that they would have plenty to say when these estimates come before the Commons and committees for the next fiscal year in a few months.

So ended one of the diciest money problems the government had faced in years.

Mr. McIlraith served notice the government intends to call several routine resolutions this week and have a supply debate—for this year's money—next Monday.

Following the supply debate the House is likely to tackle capital punishment.

Cardin Stays to Save Prime Minister

After the meeting with the prime minister, and a conference with Walter Gordon, Maurice Lamontagne and Rene Tremblay, Mr. Cardin began to weaken in his determination to quit.

He finally decided that he wouldn't go after a chat with Toronto Liberal Jim Walker wednesday morning.

Mr. Walker came with a "stick-with-us" message from the Ontario caucus of the party.

PARTY HARMED

The position of Prime Minister Pearson after the crisis is not as clear as that of Mr. Cardin, whose political star is rising.

The headlines of the past five days have harmed the party and Mr. Pearson, who humiliated his minister.

At the caucus Wednesday, Mr. Pearson declared he would "stay on and fight."

But the affair, according to reliable speculation, has hastened his departure from politics.

'BELIEVE IN HIM'

Of Mr. Pearson, Mr. Cardin said Wednesday night: "I like him and I believe in him.

"He is not going to let the ship down. No one is going to let the ship down."

In his office Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin, who had been silent for five days, gushed out answers to all questions.

This is the office where the drama was played out, where the key characters came and departed via a secret spiral staircase that leads from the corner of the third-floor office to the ground floor.

It's called the Sir John A. MacDonald staircase because Sir John used it for reasons only he knew.

The two ministers, talking over a crisis that could have wrecked the party and thrown the country into an election, sat in a booth in a downtown delicatessen called the Party Palace.

It was midnight. And they talked until one a.m. Mr. Sharp was the last minister to speak to him.

Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin was asked how he felt.

'GOOD INSIDE'

"Sometimes you feel tired and downhearted, but you feel good inside. That's how I feel today."

Mr. Cardin talked freely of the crisis.

If he had gone ahead with his decision to quit, it might have provoked a very serious split in the party involving other things than his resignation.

At least three Quebec ministers said they would not be able to stay in government if he quit.

Mr. Cardin was asked if he really believed that Mr. Pearson faced the danger of a general election in the Commons Friday when he reversed his decision on the Spencer probe.

"Yes," he replied.

Mr. Cardin said he did not know what was going on behind the curtains at the back of the Commons during the critical hours on Friday.

He had his hands full handling the Tory onslaught against his department during the justice department estimates.

"Mr. Pearson had information and was getting opinions from one and the other," Mr. Cardin recalled.

"I think he really felt that if there had been a non-confidence vote, we might have lost it.

RESPONSIBILITY

"He was concerned about his responsibility as prime minister, as well as leader of the party, to all the people.

"I don't think he could afford to have another election at this time. I am quite sure he was deadly serious about this."

Mr. Cardin was asked why Mr. Pearson was so concerned about the possibility of defeat, when he had won other votes in the Commons.

He replied that there were some Liberals (reports say six) who would not have voted with the government, unless it allowed an inquiry.

NOT SATISFIED

"Some of our own people," he said, "didn't understand what the issue really was.

"And the whole Spencer case, which is a very strange one, had not been explained to their satisfaction.

"No matter how hard you try, you can't always explain security cases to people."

Mr. Cardin said he withdrew his resignation, because he did not want to put Mr. Pearson in an awkward position.

"It is so easy to judge, in retrospect," he said.

"But when you are right in the middle of the battle, it would be very unfair to put Mr. Pearson in such a position."

Only on Tuesday night, Mr. Cardin said, was he made to see the real consequences for the party if he resigned.

In all, he had talked to more than half the cabinet about his predicament.

When he was alone, late on Tuesday night, he analyzed what he had heard. But he had always made a point of not making decisions at night, when tired.

MORNING DECISION

So it was Wednesday morning before he finally made a decision—to stay.

Mr. Cardin was asked how the crisis would affect his future in the cabinet.

"I don't think it will affect my future," he replied. "I propose to go on doing my job as best I can."

He said he was absolutely convinced that his original decision in the Spencer case was right.

He was the "Last person in the world" to try to guess the kind of treatment he can now expect from Tory leader Diefenbaker, who had called for his resignation.

TREATED BADLY?

Mr. Cardin was asked point-blank if Prime Minister Pearson had treated him badly.

"Well," he replied, 'It was a bit of a crisis, a bit of a panic. I don't think the prime minister handled me badly. He was trying to do the best thing in the interests of everyone, particularly the country.

"I think it would be pretty small, under such conditions, if I felt personally hurt."

Mr. Cardin claimed that the Liberal party is now more united than it has been since it took power three years ago.

NOT PLANNED

He said he had never seen the party caucus like it was Wednesday.

"For an odd reason I believe there will be more co-ordination, more fighting, more spirit, a better understanding than we have ever had.

"Sometimes it takes a crisis to bring you together. But, believe me, this wasn't planned."

Mr. Cardin was asked about his political ambitions and the impact of his increased stature in the party.

NO AMBITIONS

"Political ambitions? No, I haven't any," he replied. "I would just like to finish my job.

"I wanted to go back home, if I had resigned, but I had nothing definite to go back to. I would have had to open up a law office."

His decision to stay did not mean he was counting on a long political career.

"Younger, more enthusiastic men are required for the new era, he said.

'TERRIBLE PERIOD'

But, at 47, wasn't he one of that breed?

"No," he replied. "I have been here for 14 years, during a period when Parliament has become cynical.

"We will go back to normal debates and practices and we are going to need imaginative young men who have not lived through this terrible period."

Mr. Cardin said he did not mean to say he was against strong speeches in Parliament.

People like David Lewis, Andrew Brewin and T. C. Douglas made strong speeches, and he did not object to them at all.

CYNICISM

"They are part of our parliamentary process and we accept it.

"But that isn't what has been happening in the Commons in the past few years."

Without mentioning Mr. Diefenbaker and the Tories by name, he clearly meant them when he said that cynicism is destroying parliament.

"The only way t fight it," he said, "is to do it yourself, though you may detest it.

"That is what Parliament has become. But I believe it will change."

CHEERED AT CAUCUS

Earlier, at the party caucus, Mr. Cardin, widely cheered by the members, kicked off the session, followed by associate defence minister Leo Cadieux, speaking for the Quebec caucus, and Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Cardin re-stated his reasons for not wanting an inquiry in the Spencer case and appealed for strength in government.

He also said that he could understand Mr. Pearson's decision, and the responsibility he had to make that decision in the spur of the moment.

NOT EASY

He conceded that it wasn't an easy decision for the prime minister to take, to retreat, and perhaps it was the best one.

In his speech, Mr. Cardin said he would not resign.

The heat was off the prime minister, who spoke third, and gave a rally-round-the-flag speech.

He was going to stay on and fight.

Your Good Health

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 70 and was discharged from the hospital with lymphatic leukemia. The doctor says it is just a mild case.

Could you relieve my worry by giving me some information about this disease? What is a mild case? What causes this? Improper diet, not enough rest, etc.? — J.H.G.

As you doubtless know, lymphatic leukemia, when it occurs in children, is usually acute, and is an extremely dangerous disease. Why should I mince words? It is a terrible disease because we do not know of any way to cure it, and we are only beginning to be able to be able to postpone its ravages for a time.

But when it occurs in an older person, it is not likely to be in the acute form. Rather, it more likely will be in the chronic type. While I dislike saying that leukemia is never "mild," I still can assure you that chronic lymphatic leukemia in an older person is quite different from the acute form which is so savagely rapid in a child.

For the older person with chronic leukemia, medication and when indicated the use of X-ray can keep the disease within bounds for years.

Diet and the amount of rest have nothing to do with the disorder, fundamentally. Naturally, with this, as with any number of other chronic ailments, an ordinary, healthful diet and adequate rest keep up the patient's strength. That's true for everybody — with or without a chronic disease. No fancy diet does any good. Rest, beyond the normal amount each night to restore one's energy, isn't required.

At 70, practically all of us have some sort of chronic ailment that needs to be cared for. We can't live forever. Just regard this chronic leukemia in that sense.

The cause of it? We do not know.

Dear Dr. Molner: I used to pare oranges because the inner peel contains rutin, which works with Vitamin C to help the capillary blood vessels. Recently I heard that rutin may have cancer-producing properties, so I've discontinued paring oranges. Is there anything definite about hisassertion. — C.V.T.

I am familiar with the rutin content of orange peel, but am aware of no evidence concerning the cancer factor. I strongly doubt that there is any. Some eye specialists recommend rinding the entire orange in a blender to provide the rutin-Vitamin C factor for patients with fragile eye capillaries. It seems to me that we should have definite facts, not a "maybe" before sacrificing the usefulness of rutin.

Armada Moves Shelter

Armada of trucks and private cars Wednesday moved between 60 and 70 dogs, 17 goats and pile of furniture from old Metchosin home of Good Shepherd animal shelter to new Mill Bay location. Said Mother Cecilia last night: "Only a couple of dogs, a couple of sisters and a few bits of odds and ends remain and they will be gone today." Move to larger premices, hampered by bad weather, has taken three weeks. "We still have a lot to do, getting pens and runs up," said famous mother. ### Orange Trial Told

Rate Cut, Supply Cut

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver retailer says he was told by a wholesaler that mandarin oranges would be difficult to get if he sold them at reduced prices.

He also said in court Tuesday that the same wholesaler suggested the retail price to him.

Mervyn Mulldoon was testifying at a preliminary hearing of 10 companies charged with conspiracy to prevent or lessen free competition in the mandarin orange trade.

Also charged with the companies is Leslie F. Burrows, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association.

Mr. Mulldoon, owner of four food stores in the Vancouver area, said he put on a mandarin orange special in 1961.

RAISED AGAIN

He said a salesman from Slade and Stewart Ltd. suggested the supply of oranges would be difficult to obtain if the special price remained. He then raised his prices.

Mr. Mulldoon said he lowered his prices again in 1962 but raised them at the suggestion of Slade and Stewart.

Charged in the case are Slade and Stewart, Birks-Crawford Ltd., Kelly Douglas Co. Ltd., W. H. Malkin Ltd., David McNair and Co. Ltd., and Chess Brothers Ltd., all of Vancouver, Consolidated Fruit Co. Ltd. of Calgary and MacDonald's Consolidated Ltd., and Canada Safeway Ltd. of Winnipeg.

Test Hits Rights

VANCOUVER (CP) — Compulsory breathalyzer tests for impaired drivers would contravene the Canadian Bill of Rights, a lawyer said here Wednesday.

Sidney Simons told University of British Columbia Law students during a panel discussion that compulsory tests would require a driver "probably to incriminate himself—or prove his own innocence."

"The bill of rights says no man is required to prove his own innocence," said Mr. Simons.

FEW DRINKS RELAX

"If a person is impaired, he's necessarily impaired in his ability to reason whether he should consent to take the test," said Mr. Simons. "I'm a better, safer driver for having had a few drinks during a hard working day to relax myself."

However, Judge Stanley Remnant said the test protects the innocent as well as condemning the guilty.

UBC law professor Anthony Hooper said the present physical exercises police use to test for impairment is worst of all, because many illnesses make a driver appear drunk.

Teachers' Raises Highest Ever

VANCOUVER (CP)—Teacher salary increases will average 6.2 per cent in British Columbia this year and add more than $6,000,000 to the provincial teacher salary bill which now will total about $106,000,000 across the province.

The figures were compiled by the B.C. School Trustees Association and showed that the increases gained this year were the highest on record.

Salary scales in the northern areas of the province are highest.

Powers to Probe Firm

Court Rules Bonner Went Too Far

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Court of Appeal has ruled that Attorney-General Bonner exceeded his authority when he gave an accountant wide powers to investigate International Claims Brokers, Ltd.

The court ruled Wednesday that the appointment if William Kinsey was illegal because it gave him the right to investigate for possible violations of the Criminal Code of Canada.

The high court granted the company's appeal against appointment of Mr. Kinsey and ordered him to stop using any powers given him by the attorney-general.

ACCOUNTANT APPOINTED

Mr. Bonner's Aug. 1, 1964, order appointed the accountant to investigate the companies to determine whether several persons or companies had violated the B.C. Securities Act or the Criminal Code in connection with any trade in securities.

Parties named in the order were Walter Link, Wilbur Bird, Thomas Williamson, Isaac Schulman, Lionel Setter, William Murray, International Claims Brokers, Copper Ridge Mines Ltd., and Corona Drilling and Exploration, Ltd.

HEARD APPEAL

Mr. Justice M. M. McFarlane, Mr. Justice H. W. Davey and Mr. Justice Angelo Branca heard the appeal in Victoria last month.

Mr. Justice McFarlane said in his ruling "I am greatly influenced in arriving at this conclusion by the very drastic nature of some of the powers vested in the appointee—powers the exercise of which is traditionally not available to investigators of crimes."

He said powers delegated to the attorney-general by the legislature under Section 25 of the Securities Act were "not for the purpose of discovering whether offences of the Criminal Code of Canada had been committed."

Windsor Suburb Whiter, Brighter

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Mysterious fine white dust which has blanketed adjacent Sandwich West Township has been found to be the by-product of a gleaming grin.

Residents have complained for weeks about the dust which has been blowing in from an island in the Detroit River where a U.S. chemical firm has a dumping ground. The dust was sent to various bodies for analysis.

Tuesday night the Metro Windsor-Essex County health unit delivered its report to Sandwich West Township council. The solution: harmless calcium carbonate ash, the residue from toothpaste manufacturing.

The School Vote

THERE IS EVERY reason to think that one reason why the Greater Victoria school building bylaw failed to win the required 60 per cent approval in December—and then only by the tiniest margin—was that the vote came as the culmination of a period of protest over provincial-municipal cost-sharing arrangements. Education was not even at the centre of this dispute. The proposed hospital construction levy was the core of the matter. But for many, the antagonism generated in the latter connection must have spilled over to school costs too. The ratepayers also were being asked for a great deal at one time: the hospital tax, and in Saanich a capital budget, as well as the school borrowing.

The regional hospital scheme having been rejected, the minister of education having promised an adjustment of the school cost-sharing formula which will be to the benefit of the property-owners, and the premier having allocated a considerably increased amount of provincial revenue to the municipalities in this year's budget, an entirely different mood should prevail when the ratepayers go to the polls on Saturday to vote again on borrowing the supplementary funds required to complete the school expansion program they approved two years ago.

But if for some these changes in the situation since December are not enough incentive to cast a favorable ballot in the referendum, it is important to note that there are two other excellent reasons for approval of the bylaw.

One is that the new accommodation is pressingly and increasingly needed, and without it many of the children in the Greater Victoria district would suffer, or continue to suffer, a distinct educational disadvantage. Shift classes for instance would be in prospect for some, and it would be to the shame of the district were the ancient and dismal North Ward School long retained in service for lack of funds for a replacement.

The other is that delay costs money. That rising prices and wages have so much outstripped the estimates of two years ago is the very cause of this supplementary request. The facilities must be provided to keep up with the population—of that there is no question—and the most economical way of meeting the need is quickly.

Ottawa Circus

HOW MUCH LONGER can this three-ring circus that is our federal Parliament continue its non-stop performance that is providing so much hilarity to the outside world and so much shame to Canada?

Certainly it appears to suffer from no dearth of clowns and fire-eaters, no shortage of lion-tamers and strong men and no lack of contortionists and double-talkers.

And more's the pity. For the more performers who try to get on the sawdust the less entertaining the act becomes to its owners—the rank and file citizens of the country.

Between them the ringmasters seem dedicated to staging one great death-defying finale: that of tearing a nation apart. Isn't it time to end the spectacle?

Courageous Leader

IT MAY BE significant, and it certainly must be encouraging to Mr. Edward Heath's Conservative party in Great Britain, that the left-of-centre Sunday Mirror has applauded the Opposition leader's manifesto on the eve of a general election, and specifically his labor relations reform program.

In 1965, the newspaper points out, industrial output in Great Britain rose by just 1 per cent while industrial wages rose by 9 per cent.

"This," says the Mirror, "is what the general election is all about. It is about whether Britain can afford the standard of living she is giving herself. Which political party has the guts and the ability to get our balance of payments out of the red? It is by yardsticks such as these that any party manifesto must be judged."

The party which attempts to narrow the gap between the 9 per cent increase in wages and the 1 per cent increase in output is obviously concerned with the national welfare, and willing to run the risk of Labor's disapproval. That is what Mr. Heath is doing. And, surprisingly, he seems to have won support and sympathy from quarters expected to oppose him.

Britons have long been aware of trade union immunity from the law, indicated by the way a union can break a collective agreement without even acknowledging the agreed procedures for settling disputes.

Mr. Heath, in his manifesto, declares he will make these procedural clauses in collective agreements enforceable upon unions, unofficial individual strikers and their leaders.

Such a declaration takes courage. And Britons love a courageous leader.

Moreover, in a country where nine out of ten strikes are admitted to be unconstitutional even Labor cannot deny that reform is overdue.

The astonishing thing is that the British prime minister, Mr. Harold Wilson, either did not have the political wit or wisdom to seize the opportunity, but rather allowed his adversary to make a decision which properly belonged to the government.

The outcome of Mr. Heath's daring tactics will be watched with interest far beyond Great Britain's borders and might well provide a pattern for others who contend that reforms in the field of collective agreements are pressing.

Welcome Question

MR. Choquette: Mr. President—

Mr. Fulton: Mr. President? This is not a republic.

Mr. Choquette: Mr. Chairman, I want to ask the hon. member whether he is aware of the fact that Dr. Marcoux is not taken seriously anywhere and that Dr. Marcoux lost his deposit. Did the hon. member take note of that?

Mr. Woolliams: Is that not a wonderful question? Because a candidate loses his deposit he is never to be taken seriously. That means that we shall never take the Liberal party seriously again in western Canada because most of their candidates lost their deposits.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

AN Ottawa MP has been wondering if a prime minister isn't too powerful. He should listen-in to James Bay; there the opposition isn't in any doubt.

Mr. Bennett is a premier and Mr. Pearson a prime minister, you say. They are one and the same. It's only a convention that titles a provincial first minister the former and his national vis-a-vis the latter.

The Ottawa member questions whether the prime minister called the last election off his own bat, or via cabinet decision.

It doesn't really matter, you know. If a PM couldn't carry his cabinet with him he wouldn't be captain of his ship. And in any case his crew was picked by him and any one of it could always sign off if he didn't like his skipper's orders.

It has been the conceded thing, for a long time, that calling an election is the ace a PM holds up his sleeve. He can produce the threat of it at will, either to bring his party following into line or upset the applecart of his political opponents.

Strangely enough perhaps, Mr. Pearson touched on a related aspect of elections recently when he wished our political system contained some features of American governance. He doesn't for instance like being subjected to daily questioning in the Commons. Whereas across the line cabinet ministers don't suffer such slings and arrows day after day.

True enough they don't, even if on occasion they appear before Congress to explain some things away. But then they're not elected, and so not directly responsible to a parliament.

I daresay it's a nuisance having to account continuously for what one's administration does, but this is government by the people for the people.

There could be a way out, for PMs and their harassed shipmates. One U.S. practice worth adopting would be to have stated election times, one every four years for example. This would rob a prime minister of the ace in his sleeve, but it would have compensations.

The electorate for one would be spared five polls in eight years, as has been its recent portion.

There could be more "free" votes, too, which at present indicate by their infrequency that normally parliamentary votes are certainly not free. If election periods were fixed governments wouldn't need to fear being ejected if majority House opinion went against them. This would let them off the hook on many a knotty problem.

It would also, or should do so, loosen a bit the chains that bind MPs to their party and let Parliament as such speak its mind better.

Nor would the questions of who called an election arise if the test at the polls was automatically scheduled.

I doubt a prime minister, or a premier, would like this however. The ace he holds is too precious to give up. As captain of the ship he wants when it suits him to be able to shout "everybody overboard," and that's what follows when an election is called, no matter by whom.

On India Frontier

Tribes in Revolt

By CYRIL DUNN from New Delhi

INDIA stands today on the verge of serious trouble in tribal hill territories all along the frontier between Burma and Assam.

In Nagaland, the prolonged guerrilla war in which the Nagas tried to assert their sovereign independence, suspended 18 months ago by an uncertain truce, is in danger of renewal, with opposition members in the Delhi Parliament demanding that the "rebels" should be "put down."

In neighboring Manipur a sizable battle was reported recently between Indian security forces and hostile Nagas operating there.

New Delhi has been startled by news of a rising — skilfully planned and executed and backed by a broadcast declaration of independence — by Mizo tribesmen in the hills lying between Manipur, the Chin Hills of Burma, and the Chittagong hill tract of East Pakistan.

Evidently anxious to save the peace talks in fitful progress between Naga leaders and the India prime minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the Indian authorities insist there is no connection between the troubles in Nagaland and the Mizo rising. They are also hoping that armed frontier police will be enough to subdue the Mizos, and that it will not be necessary to call in units of the Indian army lately released by the Tashkent peace agreement from active duty on the East Pakistan border.

The Mizo hill district thrusts down between Burma and Pakistan like the forelegs of a leaping tiger. Covering some 8,000 square miles, and mostly dense jungle, it has a population of about 200,000. But, as in the rest of this frontier region, the border laid down for tribal areas by the imperial British bears little relevance to tribal reality. The Mizos claim that their people are also to be found in Manipur, Tripura, Burma and Pakistan.

Described by the 19th-century British, who first encountered them, as intelligent and merry, the Mizos today have a higher literacy rate than exists in many of the Indian states. Like the Nagas, many of them were converted long ago to Christianity by missionaries who did a great deal towards bringing them into the modern world.

It is, for example, significant that one of the Mizo complaints against the Delhi government concerns its failure to build a university for the region.

But, again like the Nagas, they have always been brave and aggressive, a continual source of trouble to the British when they supported the imperial burden in these parts. They stoutly resisted British commercial aggression — the steady southward spread of tea gardens—by making counter-raids from the jungle into the cultivated tracts. When the British made punitive expeditions against them they also used psychological warfare to deter and delay the soldiers. For instance, they threw across the jungle tracks a kind of tree which, when stabbed by a bamboo spear, bled a thick red sap uncommonly like blood.

Indian Home Minister Nanda has dismissed the Mizo demand for independence as "absurd" and has promised "quick and stern" action against the rising. Indian officials in Assam are pointing to the fact that the Mizos are defending a dead end, hemmed in on one side by Pakistan, with whom India has just reached a non-interference agreement, and on the other by Burma, who lately agreed not to help rebellious tribesmen in the Indian frontier hills. The Indians say the bottleneck leading from the Mizo district into Assam can easily be closed and it will be simple to starve the rebels — already suffering from food shortage — if they continue the struggle.

Immense Debt of Gratitude

I WONDER how many people realize the loss that Victoria has encountered in the death of Mrs. H. C. Macdonald who so tragically lost her life in the recent crash of an aircraft at Tokyo Airport?

The Smile Show, but one organization, will always be indebted to her. During the many years when few people came to see our annual production, Norma, as she was known to so many, brought groups of from ten to thirty friends every week, sometimes twice a week! People from all walks of life, from archbishops and Hollywood impressarios to members of her own staff. She paid for all her guests and would never accept an offered discount.

She encouraged people in every phase of the arts—musicians, singers, actors in legitimate theatre, choirs, sculptors, painters . . . and comedians. Many of our well-known Victoria artistic personalities owe an immense debt of gratitude to her.

There is a large number of European emigrants in Victoria who were fortunate to have met her on her world-travels. Not only did she encourage them to come and enjoy the amenities of living in Canada but Norma gave practical assistance by offering them jobs and making sure that they were established before finding their own way in their new homeland.

Comparatively few will ever know what Mrs. Macdonald did for worth-while charitable organizations and many unfortunate individuals. Even fewer know that in her own earlier life she experienced hardships and difficulties which eventually enabled her to understand, encourage and help others who experienced similar adversity.

There are many who mourn her loss but, thank God, we all have wonderful memories which help to ease the blow of the death of a fabulous woman.

Road to Peace

Communists openly proclaim their freedom from belief in God, in religion, and in the Christian ethic.

Americans in South Viet Nam, caring for other people, not only for themselves, are helping a little people to save themselves from subjection to the opposite of all that Christians profess to hold most dear.

Yet a preacher of Christianity is recently reported to have proclaimed from his pulpit in Victoria that Americans aim to "keep Viet Nam as a dependency" — a message that would elicit cheers from the world's chief enemies of freedom.

Plain though it be that by steadfast adherence to Christianity's ethic (not to its traditional doctrine) all mankind can progress towards "peace on earth," which is the cry from the lips of multitudes today (who are still speeding blindly in the opposite direction). It is also true that it is mockery of God and His word to man that is the real reason for the crucial crisis of our age; in which man is passing sentence upon himself, whether to be, or not to be, or how to be, for all the future.

With the Winds of Change A Whiff of a New Freedom

By CASSANDRA from London

THE wind of change in Africa has blown many things away — place names as well as politicians.

Tanganyika and Zanzibar are now Tanzania, Northern Rhodesia is Zambia, the Gold Coast is Ghana, and the latest of the rechristened newcomers is Botswana, which until last week used to be called Bechuanaland.

I have been looking at a copy of Harmsworth's Universal Atlas and Gazetteer, which must be about sixty years old when the heroes of those days had names like Stanley, Livingstone, Rhodes, Smuts — and not Smith.

At least a third of Africa was then daubed red, showing that it had been acquired, inherited, pinched, swiped or stolen by the British.

The Germans were there in great force in East Africa, in South West Africa, in Togoland and the Cameroons.

The Italians had Eritrea and ruled their part of Somaliland, while the French and the Belgians did their best — and their worst — in the Congo. The Spanish had a foothold in Guinea, while South Africa was as loyal as the Marylebone Cricket Club.

Only the Africans had no legitimate holding in their vast native continent and wilted under the strong arm of that form of colonial benevolence known as "protection."

Things have certainly changed.

The other day, I was mourning how it was too late to save certain words from being worked to death — words like "imagine," "escalation," "grass roots" and so on.

If they are caught in time and banished it may be possible to save them for future use.

Within the last ten days there are two comparative newcomers that may be saved if we take a pledge not to use them for a year.

They are "presence" (as in "our military presence East of Suez") and "cost efficiency" (as in "the problem of new aircraft must be worked out on a cost efficiency basis").

These words are of current American origin.

"Presence" (or, as is more often favored in Washington "posture") means military forces.

"Cost efficiency" means value.

The moral is when you belong to a bureaucracy never use one word where a dozen will do — preferably if they are all threadbare through over-employment.

I am in favor of anything that maintains the fragrant myth of all that stuff about Juliet on the balcony and Romeo having the big yearn down below. From Lorna Doone to Annie Laurie we must preserve the sweet mystery of fragrant femininity at all costs.

Anybody who has seen the female crossing-sweepers at work in Moscow will know precisely what I mean.

There is now a big threat to all this moonlight and roses stuff in Britain.

It is the announcement that women may soon be at the wheel of double-decker buses.

Our sensitivity was strained at times in the earlier part of this century when a particularly powerful baritone used to bawl:

"Come into the garden, Maud,
For the black bat, night, has flown;
Come into the garden, Maud,
I am here at the gate alone."

But when the woodbine spices are wafted abroad and the musk of the road is blown and Maud turns up in a huge double-decker diesel-engined bus, then it'll be her turn to be at the gate alone.

Sir David Luce, the First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, has resigned, and no one who has heard the surf booming and watched the swinging sea and seen the North Star arcing across the rigging will be anything but sad.

The Royal Navy is very near the hearts of the British.

You can't fall in love with a tank and it is hard for most people — except for the military family professionals — to have affection for a regiment.

A bomber flying in the central blue would be an inspiring sight if you could see it from the ground — but you can't. Neither the Army nor the Air Force has such a hold on public sentiment as the Navy and not for nothing is Horatio Nelson standing higher than any other military figure in London.

Sir David is in good company.

Spring, beloved spring, is stirring here again, and I am at one of my favorite pursuits — hoeing among the seed catalogues.

I will grow me "Princess Goldstrike" and "Waltztime" — asters to you metropolitan gnomes.

There will be "Ladybird" and "Red Cap" and "Starfire" and "Cardinal" to set the flower beds ablaze.

I will grow me "Chantenay" redcored carrots, "Sparkler" radish and "Avon Resister," too. There will be "Chinese Rose" and "Kelvedon Glory" and "Outdoor Girl."

All will be better and brighter and bolder this year in the garden. The rose glancing at the humble leek, and the double-flowered cyclamen curtsying to petite parsley.

Last year I told the little melancholy tale how Dobies', the famous seedsmen, had explained with exemplary frankness in their catalogue how their famous strain of "Showmaster" onion had failed and I praised them for their candor and ended hoping that although "Showmaster" was not with us in 1965 "it will soon be back in force to lie down sizzling and chuckling alongside the grilled steak."

It is not to be.

Dobies', rocklike in their integrity, have gritted their teeth and told us on page 31 of this year's catalogue how sorry they are "to report that we have again been unsuccessful in harvesting a satisfactory crop of this new variety for exhibitors."

Never fear, dear Dobies'.

Adversity shall not daunt us and come the soft rains and the pale sunlight of the spring of 1967 there will be a rustling in the rich warm ground; a bustling and a shoving; a muttering and good, bulbous boasting as "Showmaster," cracking his horticultural whip, shows his broad, golden shoulders for all to see.

CFL Challenge

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE CLF is at it again.

The CLF being, of course, the Canadian Liberation Front, as it calls itself.

It's the leg-pulling, tongue-in-cheek answer to the QLF, which, as everybody must know by now, is the Quebec Liberation Front.

From its pamphlets, the CLF appears quite clearly to be a sort of English-speaking "underground" that is using the barbed chuckle as a weapon of defence against the more militant of the Quebec extremists.

It aims its laughs squarely at the Quebec practitioners of the new political art of "opting out," as it's known, of governmental undertakings shared by the federal and nine other provincial governments.

Its leaders apparently have decided that it's better to make a joke of the Quebec advocates of what might be called "separate statism," than it is to worry and wail about it.

It refuses to take seriously the "quiet revolution" . . . except that there's this . . . there wouldn't be such a thing as the CLF and its sly and wry approach to the problem if there basically wasn't cause for concern.

But perhaps in the long run, the light touch could turn out to be the best way of handling such prickly personalities and problems as Quebec Welfare Minister Rene Levesque.

In its latest communique, the CLF takes off its hat to Rene Levesque for his claim that federal family allowances are rightly provincial responsibilities, and wonders when he's going to make his bid for a Quebec take-over of the old age pension and unemployment insurance.

"But there are broader fields which must be considered, though perhaps their actual implementation might be postponed for a year or so," says the CLF, breaking new federal-provincial jurisdictional ground.

"For example, national defence.

"Rene Levesque at his Ottawa press conference was quoted (by the Canadian Press news agency and the CBC as well as a large number of individual newspapers) as seeing 'little Quebec interest' in national defence since he considered the Navy, Army and Air Force, as he phrased it, 'largely make-work propositions.'

"How short-sighted that is.

"Doesn't Rene Levesque realize that nearly $2 billion are spent annually on defence and veterans' benefits.

"Thirty per cent of all Canadians are of French ethnic origin . . . so Quebec would be entitled to nearly $600 million for defence alone.

"If the provinces take over this field of defence, instead of one large and rather unwieldy and widespread armed force (after integration, of course) we would have 10 mobile compact tri-services: the Black Watch of Newfie, the Black Watch of PEI, the Black Watch of Nova Scotia, and of New Brunswick, and of Ontario, and of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Black Watch of British Columbia and Les Fusiliers de Quebec."

But basically, the CLF reminds Rene Levesque, the problem is taxes, how to raise and divide them.

The federal and provincial governments have been arguing this since Confederation, with Ottawa winning in the first 90 years and Quebec picking up more and more of the pot in the last nine.

Helpfully, the CLF has the solution.

"The ideal would be for each province to tell the federal government how much it wanted and that's it—except that we must be practical since the economists insist there's only so much to go around.

"Another thought is for the federal people to raise what it can and divide it among the provinces on a per capita basis. (But that would make Quebec only second best.)

"A third way might be to divide it on a square mile basis, but think of the inflation that would cause in the Northwest Territories.

"It is our recommendation (that in the name of national unity) French-speaking civil servants assess and collect all taxes from non French-speaking taxpayers, and English-speaking civil servants assess and collect from the French-speaking taxpayers.

"In other words (and to make it perfectly fair for Quebec) the French-Canadians would assess, collect (keep and spend) from the CNR, CPR, GM, Ford, GE, CIP (and all the rest of the Anglos' corporate structure) and the English-Canadian would repay a bilingual tit with a bicultural tat by assessing and collecting from Hydro Quebec, Du Puis Freres and Credit Foncier."

One of the encouraging things about this newest of the CLF exercises is that some of the French-Canadians are grinning.

So maybe all isn't lost after all.

Deception Still Easy

From The Edmonton Journal

THE picture of the federal health department struggling for "almost two years" with the bacon packaging problem is a touching one.

This is particularly the case since it is clear that love's labor will be lost: the "solution" is not going to please the housewives who complained in the first place.

The problem is really much older than two years. First, it was the red stripes on the packaging film which were, of course, deliberately designed to give a false idea of the contents.

After years of protests, the packers were ordered to stop using red stripes. Then they came up with a package that was not much more revealing. Starting May 1, they will use still another type of package that must show two-thirds of the length of the contents and the full width of one strip. The Consumers' Association has been quick to point out that deception will still be easy.

The plain fact is that so long as bacon is sold sliced and in sealed packages, and so long as packers have huge quantities of poor-quality bacon to sell, housewives are going to have a buying problem.

But they have a solution in their own hands. If enough of them will take the trouble to march back to the store with unsatisfactory bacon, the pressure on the packers will finally become irresistible. Then the packers will put the pressure where it basically belongs: on the producers.

Only the proper feeding and marketing of a sufficient number of satisfactory hogs can end the glut of bacon really not fit for anything much but larding pork and beans. And who could eat all those pork and beans?

Yugoslav Sees Peking Returning War to Korea

MUNICH (UPI)—The official Yugoslav radio said Tuesday that China may be plotting to re-open the war in Korea, Radio Free Europe reported Wednesday.

Belgrade radio said Peking's idea would be to counter-balance the Viet Nam war with more trouble for the West.

Milika Sundic, Moscow correspondent for Belgrade radio, said Peking had failed to pressure Moscow into raising tensions in Europe.

As a result, Sundic said, the possibility that China would ask North Korea to renew hostilities "should not be excluded now."

NATO Talks Useless—Paris

PARIS (CP)—France has announced it can see no possibility of useful discussions on effective NATO reform and, therefore, is going ahead with plans to withdraw its troops from the Atlantic Alliance's integrated military command structure.

France, it was announced Wednesday, also will act to "re-establish full sovereignty on her territory" — meaning apparently that some 26,000 American and 2,120 Canadian military personnel on French soil will have to submit to French authority by 1969 or leave.

Both Canada and the United States have rejected French national command over their bases in France.

A cabinet spokesman also said for President de Gaulle France is willing to have talks with Allies on the consequences of the actions and to make mutual defence pacts.

The spokesman emphasized France will not formally renounce the NATO treaty when it becomes possible to do so in April, 1969. A NATO clause allows any member country, after April, 1969, to give a year's notice it is pulling out of the Alliance.

De Gaulle outlined his plans in a letter Monday to President Johnson and the U.S. leader said the insistence that foreign bases on French soil should come under French command is striking at the heart of NATO and should be discussed within NATO.

A French government source said notes similar have been sent by France to Canada, Britain and West Germany and that all NATO members will receive the notes.

The permanent council of the 15-country Atlantic Alliance met here, meanwhile, and heard a report on the note de Gaulle sent to Johnson.

In Washington, Robert J. McCloskey, the state department's spokesman, declined to make any comment on Wednesday's French announcement.

McCloskey, however, denied a London report which said the U.S. administration has suggested a special meeting of NATO foreign ministers to consider de Gaulle's plans.

Thant Renews Demands: Halt Bombing, Invite Cong

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—For the second time in a month, Secretary General U Thant Wednesday laid down three conditions for Viet Nam peace talks, including cessation of bombing, a reduction in the ground war, and a place in negotiations for the Viet Cong.

Moved by heavy casualty reports announced by Washington, a correspondent asked Thant's spokesman for the secretary general's reaction to the speed-up tempo of the fighting.

"The secretary general is deeply concerned over the escalation of fighting in Viet Nam and the destruction there," the spokesman said. "He feels that any move to bring the parties close to negotiation must include the following:

- "The cessation of the bombing of North Viet Nam.
- "The substantial reduction by all parties of all military activities in South Viet Nam.
- "Participation of the National Liberation Front (political arm of the Viet Cong) in any discussions for a peaceful settlement."

The spokesman would not say whether Thant was continuing personal efforts to end the Viet Nam fighting, advising newsmen to wait for information until the secretary general holds a news conference in the last week of March.

Viet War Bill Passes Minus Phone Proposal

WASHINGTON (LAT) — The U.S. Senate approved a battle-scarred war-financing tax bill Wednesday after handing President Johnson a sharp slap by rejecting his proposal to increase taxes on local telephone calls placed from a taxpayer's home.

The measure, approved by a 79-9 vote, would net the administration an additional $4.8 billion in the next 15 months, about $1.2 billion less than Johnson had asked.

Communist Hunted

10,000 Students Storm Offices

JAKARTA (Reuters)—Slogan-chanting right-wing Indonesian students went on the rampage here again Wednesday, ransacking Peking's New China news agency office and storming an Indonesian education minister building.

The attack on the agency was the first on a non-government building since students began demonstrating against the Indonesian government 11 days ago.

They partially burned the roof of the agency building, overturned a car and smashed another parked in a garage. The agency's two Chinese Communist correspondents and large staff of Chinese translators were reported unhurt.

Earlier, about 10,000 high school students stormed the education ministry building and also another building used by the ministry in a five-hour demonstration.

They chanted "get out Sumardjo"—a reference to the education minister, whom they accused of being a Communist.

They are also demanding dissolution of the Communist party and lowering of commodity prices.

REVEAL TAKEOVER

Meanwhile, oil company officials were informed by Indonesia's oil and natural gas ministry that the American - owned Standard-Vacuum Oil Company (Stanvac) would be taken over by the government within the next few days.

Stanvac and another American company, Caltex, are the only privately-owned foreign oil firms still operating in Indonesia on a profit-sharing basis.

Elsewhere in Jakarta Wednesday, hundreds of other students roamed the streets. Some stopped passing cars and scribbled anti-Communist slogans on them. Others piled aboard trucks and sped through the streets to the vicinity of President Sukarno's palace.

INSPECTION

Approaches to the palace were barred by barbed - wire roadblocks manned by troops.

"If some people say that this is not the work of counter-revolutionaries," said the president as he viewed the damage, "then whose work is it?"

Bombing Suspects Released

DUBLIN (UPI) — Police Wednesday night released the last two of eight men held for questioning on the dynamiting of the Nelson's pillar monument in Dublin. Fears persisted that the bombing might be only a prelude to more anti-British violence.

Six men questioned in the destruction of the 134-foot-high memorial to England's greatest sailor were released earlier Wednesday.

Canada Rejects French Command

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has already rejected French national command over its two bases in France.

Prime Minister Pearson said in the Commons Feb. 23:

"It (NATO) is a coalition which involves questions of collective security, and Canadian troops are in Europe as our contribution to this collective agreement.

"That is the only reason they are in Europe. They are not under national command nor would they be under national command in the future."

NO BARGAINING

Mr. Pearson also indicated that Canada would not bargain bilaterally with France concerning future of the Canadian bases in France.

Canada has two jet reconnaissance squadrons at Marville, France, and the headquarters for the RCAF European Air Division is at Metz, France.

The defence department's intention has been to close the Metz quarters and eventually move the two squadrons to Canada's two air bases in West Germany.

However, the Marville base also serves as an advance field for many Canadian United Nations operations.

Cubans Picket Philip

'That Has Nothing to Do with Me,' Says Prince

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban exiles picketed Prince Philip after his arrival here Wednesday to start a children's charity fund-raising tour of the United States and Canada.

The exiles were protesting British trade with the Cuban regime of Premier Fidel Castro.

Queen Elizabeth and Philip completed a tour of the Caribbean earlier this week, the queen flying back to London.

A Cuban exile labor spokesman said the hotel's Cuban employees — about half the work force — asked management not to require them to serve the prince.

'ENGLAND HELPS CASTRO'

The pickets carried signs saying "We will continue war against British ships" and "England helps Castro stay in power."

As some 20 Cubans — members of Miami's large exile colony — marched outside, the prince was asked at a press conference in the hotel: "Do you favor grade with Viet Nam or Cuba?"

"That has nothing to do with me," Philip replied.

RETICENT PRINCE

Blinking before camera bulbs, the prince was reticent about answering questions.

Asked when he last visited the U.S., he replied: "The first time was during Truman's reign and the second time, General Eisenhower was reigning."

'HAVE TO STOP'

After nearly 15 minutes of mostly evading questions, the prince remarked: 'You will have to stop asking questions, for the cameramen are running out of film."

Outside, some signs displayed by the Cubans were in crude English, often misspelled.

TOURISTS SEE PRINCE

Another: "United States is helpin Englan in boycott against Rodesia. Why Englan does not help United States boycott aginst Castro?"

Tourists jammed the lobby of the resort hotel as the prince arrived wearing a dark brown suit, brown fedora hat, squarish brown shoes, a white shirt and green tie.

After visiting Variety Children's Hospital and attending a $100-a-plate charity dinner, the prince flies to Houston, Tex., today, then to Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, Toronto and Ottawa.

He will be in Toronto March 20-21 and Ottawa March 22-23.

Rhodesian MP Urges Black Birth Controls

SALISBURY (UPI) — A white member of parliament Wednesday called for a nationwide birth control campaign aimed at slowing the black African population growth in Rhodesia.

Urging government support for his plan, B. Owen-Smith told Parliament the problem of ever-increasing African families was more frightening than the possibility of a nuclear war.

There are about four million black Africans compared to around 217,000 whites in the rebellious British colony in Africa. Last November, Premier Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence after talks in London on the role Africans should play in government collapsed.

'AGAINST GOD'

Owen-Smith's proposal sparked heated debate with African opposition members who claimed birth control was "against the commands of God and African customs."

"The proposal is nothing else but an unworthy and racialistic approach to a problem — which is not a problem at all," said Shad Chipunza, an African member.

Owen-Smith said he was loath to recommend legislation to control the size of families but he asked the government to consider whether:

- Polygamy should be made illegal among Africans as it is among whites.
- Illegitimacy should be penalized.
- New tax laws should be introduced to hit couples with large families.
- Small families should be encouraged by economic pressures such as increased health, education and housing costs.

African members said the birth control proposals were "nothing more than manslaughter," "a transgression of the rights of man" and "an indirect form of abortion."

Ark Royal Watches For Tankers

LONDON (UPI)—The British aircraft carrier Ark Royal has been ordered to watch for any tankers trying to smuggle oil to Rhodesia through the Mozambique port of Beira, informed sources said Wednesday.

The sources emphasized that Ark Royal will only attempt to identify ships which might be making their way to Beira and then will simply signal this fact to Whitehall in London.

No attempt will be made to stop any tanker in accordance with the British government's decision that no force will be used in connection with the Rhodesian situation, the sources said.

Sharper Than Women

Pigeons Patrol Pill Production

WASHINGTON (LAT) — Two pigeons have been trained as pill inspectors for a leading pharmaceutical firm.

The birds developed more than 99 per cent accuracy in detecting imperfect capsules as they came off the drug maker's production line, according to Thom Verhave, a psychologist.

The pigeons did not come in contact with the capsules.

One day Verhave observed that about 70 women were employed in checking for flawed items. Especially troublesome were capsules which somehow received an extra cap.

Watching women at their monotonous work, Verhave says, "I said to myself, 'Hell, a pigeon can do that!' "

Each capsule passed through a bright, narrow beam of light. If a capsule was not flawed, a single spot of light would glow inside it. But if it was double-capped, there would be two spots. Thus, the pigeons learned to discriminate between pills having one and two spots.

In training sessions, the birds were rewarded with food each time they detected a double-cap skag. When they saw one, they would peck twice at the window, which was rigged to activate a reject mechanism.

Pesticide Threat Shunned

Richter

Haggen

Agriculture Minister Richter was bitterly criticized in the legislature Wednesday for not taking comprehensive counter measures against the threat of pesticide contamination in B.C.

The attack was launched by Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP, Grand Forks-Greenwood) who accused the minister of being more concerned with "glorifying" his own position in the cabinet than in assisting the owners of three farms in her riding which were temporarily closed because of contamination.

Leo Nimsick (NDP, Cranbrook) said that if there was danger of contamination elsewhere in the province, "we should stop using pesticides until we know where we stand."

WANT 'FAIR DEAL'

In the debate which raged most of the afternoon before the agriculture minister's salary vote was finally approved, Liberal leader Perrault said, "What the opposition is fighting for today is merely a fair deal for these farmers."

Randolph Harding (NDP, Kaslo-Slocan) repeatedly hammered the minister with questions about who was studying the pesticide problem, how many were at work on it and where they were conducting research.

David Stupich (NDP, Nanaimo-The Islands) told the House that all the minister had done in the Grand Forks agricultural crisis was to "urge the member (Mrs. Haggen) . . . not to say anything and maybe the problem would go away."

Mr. Richter shouted into his microphone: "There is no place in the world where there is knowledge of how to dissipate this from the soil.

'HACK, HACK, HACK'

"This is a far bigger problem to me than to you, because I have the responsibility. And all you've done is hack, hack, hack at me for the past 24 hours."

The minister said there was not a great deal of information about how the pesticide contamination, which affect's an animal's fat tissues, could be dissipated from the soil.

RESEARCH UNDERWAY

Trade Minister Loffmark told the House that the contamination problem "has to be attacked on a continental basis" and that the United States had given a grant toward pesticide research being carried out by the B.C. Research Council.

Opposition Leader Strachan charged Mr. Richter was "being hamstrung into taking no action by the pinchpenny attiude of the minister of finance."

'A MATTRESS'

He said the department of agriculture "has been used for years and years as a mattress into which to stuff surplus funds."

Recreation Minister Kiernan, a former minister of agriculture, rebuked the opposition: "I'm not going to sit here quietly and see this type of misinformed abuse heaped upon the minister."

FARMERS 'VICTIMS'

Dr. Pat McGeer (L. Vancouver Point Grey) said the Grand Forks dairy farmers were "victims of incomplete knowledge and inexact science" and were entitled to compensation.

Mrs. Haggen told the House that the information which she presented and which touched off the fiery debate could be found in the agriculture department's files as well as her own.

De Gaulle Trip Set for June

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle's official visit to the Soviet Union will begin June 20, informed sources said. The itinerary for the trip, to last about 12 days, has not been definitely arranged.

Island Dayliner Fate Awaits CPR Study

Fate of the E & N Railway's Dayliner service from Victoria to Courtenay will be determined by a study just started by CPR officials.

A spokesman in Vancouver said Wednesday it was much too early to determine what action would be taken with the diesel cars that make the return trip daily between Victoria and Courtenay, except on Sunday.

Another company official said it was difficult to figure the number of passengers carried aboard the Dayliner. "Let me put it this way: it is never crowded," he said.

A spokesman for the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said the volume of up-Island shoppers in Victoria was continually growing, but merchants believe the shoppers drive to Victoria by car or bus.

One man with relatives living up-Island said they used the Dayliner often when travelling, and almost always had it to themselves.

An up-Island resident suggested it would be a pity to scrap the service, as it was an excellent way to get to Victoria during the bad weather in the winter.

"We carry copies of their schedule and each year quite a lot go out," said Victoria Visitors' Bureau chief Mike Heppel.

Announcement of the study was made from Ottawa by CPR president R. A. Emerson, who said the line was one of several under study with a view to closure.

In addition to the engineer and conductor, about eight railway employees sell tickets for the line at its various stops. They are also employed on other company work.

'Discrimination Learned —Like Table Manners'

Parents are responsible for prejudices held by their children, a Victoria man told a Kelowna adult education group recently.

The speaker was Robert W. Dudley, former executive director of the Canadian Mental Health Association, now director of personnel and rehabilitation services of Goodwill Enterprises in Victoria.

"We had to be taught," he said. "We had to be taught to hate, to fear and to react with violence toward others who are different from ourselves.

"Children are not born with prejudices and biases," he said. "Mom and Dad provide the training in this regard, in much the same manner as they provide the training for good table manners."

But, he pointed out, the parents themselves are victims of the same conditioning process.

Dudley

Mr. Dudley said he considers discrimination "a community disease."

NO COLORED FACES

Its symptoms are unfair employment practices, unequal education opportunities, pockets of hard-core poverty, unfair accommodation practices and recreational gatherings "in which one can search for hours and not find colored faces."

He said the time had come when people could no longer talk about brotherhood in pleasant abstract terms.

URGENT ACTION

"We must now regard brotherhood as a suitable object for urgent and militant action," he said. "The community of nations is sick with discrimination, and the general public is the doctor.

"To fail can mean an end to civilization.

"Learn to live together, or we shall die separately."

Children Entertained On Buenos Aires Visit

By T. A. IRVINE

There are 60 Argentinian children from the Escuela Canada—the Canadian School—in Buenos Aires who, I'm willing to bet, won't forget the Canadian Navy for some time. Stettler and Antigonish threw a party for them and sailors the world over give the best children's parties.

A few days before, Stettler's Yeoman of Signals—PO T. Wyber, 263 Niagara, Victoria—had been cajoled into providing old flags to make clown costumes.

PO R. Tiffany, 1159 Chapman, Victoria, the ship's chief cook, and others had somehow found a cosmetic department in Buenos Aires that sold greasepaint.

SIGHT TO BEHOLD

The result of all this was that on the day of the party, Saturday, Feb. 19, the Petty Officers' mess in Stettler was a sight to behold with various members struggling and cussing as they climbed into their homemade clown suits.

PO S. J. D'Amico, 255 Meade, a very convincing Davey Jones at the Crossing the Equator ceremonies a few weeks earlier, now appeared as a doleful-looking clown.

PO J. P. Balfour, 207 Virago Crescent, Victoria—all 6 feet 6 inches of him—gave me a bad scare in yards of flags and an Emmett Kelly face.

BOSUN'S CHAIR

On the quarterdeck, a high line and bosun's chair had been rigged and PO J. P. Pearson, 3560 Shelbourne, and PO A. Nowle, 4201 Glendenning Road, were giving the rigging a final check while the Go-Go group tuned up the electric guitars and AB G. Shaw tightened up his drums.

In the gunroom the executive officer, Lt.-Cmdr. Wally Brain, 2837 Gorge View, and our Argentine Navy Liaison Officer Lt. Jorge Troitino were fussing over a movie projector loaded with cartoons.

The ensuing party was a bang-up affair—Argentine children are very well behaved and they trooped on board, under the watchful eyes of their teachers and embassy representatives, as a long, quiet, well dressed parade.

HIT STRIDE

It didn't take long for the clowns and guests to hit their stride and soon kids were whipping up and down the high line, the power-operated Bofors guns were whirling around with a young gunner in the seat, and ice cream and coke were disappearing by the gallon.

As each child left he or she was given a Canadian nickel, and flags and balloons by AB D. E. Woolgar, 849 Fleming.

It was all summed up by one of the clowns: "That was a helluva good party—haven't had so much fun for a long time."

Canadian Sailors Successful Hosts

INCREDIBLE WELCOME

HMCS St. Croix, Stettler and Antigonish, along with five Halifax-based destroyer escorts, visited Buenos Aires for five days from Feb. 16 to 21 and the welcome we got from the Argentine Navy and the civilians ashore was really incredible.

Sailors were stopped in the street by Argentinians anxious to assist in locating a certain item for a wife or girl friend back in Victoria. Tours were provided and numerous Asados were organized by companies and private individuals. An Asado is a barbecue—Argentine style at which pounds and pounds of prime steak are consumed accompanied by excellent wine with a swimming pool nearby to assist digestion.

LIKE CANADA

Dances were available, and of course there was the exciting, vibrant city of Buenos Aires with some of the finest restaurants in the world.

Beyond the city, and some managed to get there, are the great estancias—the vast cattle ranches on the pampas.

The Argentine is in many ways like Canada and so are its people. Most speak English and their way of life appears to be very like ours.

The Libertad — the Argentine Navy's three-masted square rigger—was in port fitting out for her next cadet training cruise. This ship is only three years old and it is significant that the Argentine Navy would build such a ship in this day and age to provide training for cadets in sail when they first go to sea.

On Sunday of our visit, church was held on the quarterdeck of HMCS St. Croix with Chaplain Joseph Titus of RR No. 2 Victoria officiating and the Roman Catholic service was held on board HMCS Antigonish by Father J. A. Lehouillier.

While the lesson was being read by Capt. W. M. Kidd, commander, Second Canadian Escort Squadron, an ambulance arrived alongside and I cast a furtive glance as its cargo was unloaded and carted up the gangway on a stretcher.

It was one of Stettler's officers—Sub. Lieut Ed Redshaw of Reston, Man., being returned from HMCS Bonaventure berthed in Montevideo after his appendix had been removed.

On Monday, Feb. 21 we began the long 120-mile passage down the shallow waters of the River Plate.

Stettler passed within five miles of the entrance to Montevideo and a wreck buoy still marks the grave of the German pocket battleship "Graf Spee," scuttled after the River Plate action.

Nothing is visible except a buoy but even this solitary sentinel brought the years rolling back until some 20-year-old Stettler sailor innocently remarked: "I read a book about that once but the guy who wrote it must have been off the beam. He said the captain blew up the ship and then blew his brains out. The story was OK until then but I gave up when I read that!"

Imbibing Students Suspended

PENTICTON (CP) — Nine high school students at Penticton Secondary School have been suspended for drinking before class.

All are aged 18 or 19 and are in Grades 12 and 13.

School board secretary-treasurer Norman Hyssop said Wednesday the trouble began Feb. 24 during a week-long Mardi Gras winter carnival celebration, when students were permitted to attend classes in fancy dress.

He said a group of students met before school opened Feb. 24 and consumed alcohol.

Mr. Hyssop said the students were dismissed by school principal Richard Pritchard a few days after the incident. The principal's action was approved by the school board this week.

Dollars Await Charity

The provincial government employees' community services fund committee has some money to give away.

This group, which mails cheques monthly to several local agencies, raised $25,144 in 1965, $4,144 more than the previous year.

A spokesman announced Wednesday the group would interview heads of charity organizations which they supported last year "and all newcomers who might qualify."

Charities wishing an interview should apply in writing, giving a general outline of the organization, to the committee chairman: N. Richards, c/o Postal Branch, Parliament Buildings, Victoria.

French Frigate Visits Halifax

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — The French navy frigate Commandant Bourdais fired a 21-gun salute as it entered Halifax harbor during its annual visit to the eastern port.

The frigate makes a regular call to Halifax during its yearly tour of servicing the French fishing fleet in the areas off the North American coast.

Britain Lures More Tourists

LONDON (Reuters)—Tourism became Britain's fourth largest export industry last year when 2,750,000 overseas visitors spent more than £300,000,000 ($900,000,000), says L. J. Lickorish, general manager of the official British Travel Association, said Wednesday.

then you can tell her you want the 390 V-8

Use a little psychology. Let your wife see the '66 Fairlane in one of its shining new colours. Settle her into a bucket seat and show her the extra room and stylish new appointments. Let her feel the deep padded comfort and the thick-pile carpet. Then say, "...We can have our XL with the 390 V-8...and a special paint stripe...a console-mounted stick shift, bucket seats, AM-FM radio." She probably won't even hear you.

Brenda Stages Lone Advance

VANCOUVER — Brenda was a lone bright spot in a dull mining market. It rose to 8.70 after trading earlier at 7.90. Pyramid was soft at 12⅞ but Dynasty held firm at 17⅞.

Westcoast at 26⅜ and Doman com at 8.00 were active on the industrial board.

Drops in Golds

TORONTO (CP) Stocks moved higher in most sections but failed to regain Tuesday's losses.

In the industrial list, Nova Scotia Power advanced 1¼ to 27 and Massey-Ferguson and Stelco ⅜ each to 33⅛ and 24⅞. Toronto-Dominion Bank fell ¼ to 62½.

Murphy Oil and Hudson's Bay Oil each gained ⅜ to pace western oil issues. Canadian Industrial Gas and Oil and Pacific Petroleum were ahead ⅛ each. Central Del Rio lost ⅛.

Among base-metals, Denison added 1 at 39 and Rio Algom ⅝ at 20⅛. Hudson Bay Mining declined ½ to 81⅛.

Stocks Turn Higher

MONTREAL (CP) — The downward swing in stocks ground to a halt as prices settled into an irregularly higher pattern.

There were no pronounced group trends, as papers, banks and senior metals were the only sections to lose ground.

Dominion Glass climbed ⅛ and Chemcell ⅛.

Technical Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged its sharpest rally in months, but on lighter-than-usual trading.

Market analysts called the rally "technical" since it was not sparked by any particular kind of news. Stock prices had apparently reached an "oversold" condition, at least temporarily, said experts.

The rally included coppers, rails, motors, airlines, electrical equipments, aerospace issues, color television stocks, other electronics, rubbers, steels and chemicals.

Unlisting Unlasting

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Directors of the Vancouver Stock Exchange this week decided that their experiment of permitting an unlisted board on the floor of the exchange had not been a success.

The board is to be removed June 6, giving the companies using it an opportunity of making alternative marketing arrangements.

The VSE said that originally the unlisted trading facilities had been introduced as a means of getting a better market on this type of security, and also to safeguard the interests of the investor.

WORKED AGAINST

Experience, however, had proved that with a number of the promoters also holding trading licences the privilege was not always working in the shareholders' favor.

Jack Van Luven, VSE president, said that on occasion promoting companies had used the VSE unlisted board to post ficticious quotations'

It was pointed out that although trading facilities were made available, the Vancouver Stock Exchange did not hold itself responsible for the policing of the unlisted securities.

SOME UNLISTED

Some 30-50 mining stocks have been trading on the unlisted section, and many of them are now accepted for regular trading.

"We hope that before June 6, all those companies which can conform to VSE regulations will have applied for a regular listing on the exchange.

The companies which did not, would come under the direct aegis of William Irwin, superintendent of brokers in Victoria.

"What it boils down to is after June 6 the market in unlisted shares will be established by the various brokerage houses by telephone or other communications," said a director of the VSE. "This is the way it was operated before the VSE provided the facilities, and, of course, it wasn't a very satisfactory arrangement either."

ACTIVITIES STOPPED

The Ontario Securities Commission has stepped in to stop the publication of a stock market advisory service through the registration suspension of Southern Brokerage and Holding Inc. The order has been appealed.

The company published the Forecaster which has recommended purchase of shares in Ganda Silver Mines Ltd. and Victoria Algoma Mineral Co., both of Toronto and Columbia Mines Ltd. of Vancouver.

Richard Roy Angle, president of Southern Brokerage until last October, recently lost a court case in which he claimed he was threatened when he failed to turn over Ganda shares to three defendants who were acquitted.

The Quebec Securities Commission, and later the Ontario Securities Commission, stopped trading in the shares of Victoria Algoma because of prospectus irregularities.

Last year the shares of Columbia River were temporarily barred from trading by the B.C. Superintendent of Brokers after they had risen from $1 to $7. Mr. Angle was listed as a director of Columbia River.

HALF GOES TO WAGES

Over half the total revenue of Johnston Terminals and Storage Ltd. of Vancouver during 1965 was paid in wages, salaries and benefits to the company's 1,222 employees.

Net income increased to $319,562, ($2.03) against $184,866 ($1.00) in 1964. Revenue increased 13 per cent to $12,433,574.

Capital expenditures during the year were $1,143,902 and R. Murray Brink, president, forecast the continued need to provide at least $1,000,000 a year for new automotive equipment and for warehouse expansion.

MILL GRINDERS ORDERED

A contract for fifteen grinding mills and four crushers worth $2,500,000 has been placed with Canadian Allis Chalmers Ltd. by Texas Gulf Sulphur Company's new mining operation at Kidd Creek in the Timmins are of Ontario.

The milling equipment will be made at Lachine, Quebec, and Texas Gulf expects the mill will be in production late next year. It will have a capacity of 3,000,000 tons of ore a year.

Mrs. Viola MacMillan Committed for Trial

TORONTO (CP)—Viola MacMillan, well-known Canadian stock promoter Wednesday was committed for trial on two charges of wash-trading in the shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines Ltd. in July, 1964.

Two charges against her husband, George, were dismissed by Magistrate Joseph Addison. No date has been set for Mrs. MacMillan's trial.

The Crown contends Mrs. MacMillan placed buy and sell orders for shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow with the intent "to create a false or misleading appearance of active public trading" in the stock.

Special prosecutor Roderick Cormack produced a document from a Toronto stock broker, Robert James Breckenridge, which said that on July 10, 1964, Mrs. MacMillan placed orders with his firm to buy and sell 44,000 shares of Consolidated at 25 cents a share.

Why Look Older
Because of Greying Hair?
There was a time when men accepted greying hair as inevitable. Nothing could be done about it. Many men still think that way. For them we have good news: Greying hair can be eliminated! So natural, so near perfection that nobody will ever guess that it is colored. The best modern dyes do not cover the grey from the outside; they are absorbed by the grey hair and crystalize inside of it. Nothing will wash it out or fade it. The new natural color is there to stay. Only newly-grown hair needs to be retreated. Why not phone for a haircut appointment and discuss it in privacy?

School's Open House Packs 'Em In

By JERRY BOULTBEE

Hugh Mooney has found a way to pack 'em in.

It being Education Week, the principal of Gordon Head Elementary school sought the best way to show parents how the school is being run, and what ground it covers.

Mr. Mooney put it to the staff, and Wednesday's "open house" was the answer — drawing more than 300 interested parents with their children.

The gymnasium was used as a gigantic "fairground," with each grade preparing booths displaying specialized studies.

The only school activity that wasn't indulged to full effect was a gymnastic display, or team game.

On stage, students sang and danced — not just to amuse those present, but also as a sampler of what they learn day by day.

"If we can get this number of parents out to a gathering of this kind, we're obviously getting across," he said.

He explained that in past years the school had been thrown open during school hours for parents to wander in and out of classrooms as classes were in progress.

The teachers also preferred the present idea, he said.

As one teacher commented: "It's practically impossible to carry off a good lesson when every two minutes the door is opening and a parent wandering in to see how little Johnny is doing.

"It disrupts both teacher and pupil."

Parents were able to view not only their children's work, but get a full idea of what they are being taught, the equipment used for teaching, and how.

Teachers were free to answer questions and demonstrate use of aids.

Kamloops' Social Whirl

Plush Ballroom Packed By Tuxedos—and Bulls

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The elite of Kamloops society packed the plush ballroom of the Stockmen's Hotel Tuesday night to rub elbows with royalty. It was a highlight of the social season.

Mayor Peter Wing, resplendent in his gold chain of office, was formally presented to Gunnar of Euston, while aldermen and businessmen dressed in tuxedos looked on approvingly.

Royalty? Gunnar and two of his friends, Pacific Cordova and Knollcroft Domino Lad, have bloodlines so solid they're probably pretenders to a throne somewhere.

The three bulls minced daintily around the ballroom led by tuxedo-clad herders, sniffed at flowers and listened to the strains of soft music, then retired for the night to their quarters in the stockyards.

Free Drug Cut Hits Program

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO — Reduction in the number of mental patients eligible for free drugs has been criticized by a mental health official.

Dr. Alan Hourston, president of Nanaimo branch, Canadian Mental Health Association, wants to know why the service has been "cut off arbitrarily without so much as a public explanation."

Two years ago the mental health clinic on Fitzwilliam Street, adopted a policy of providing free drugs for mentally ill patients of any doctor in the area.

SMALL INCOME

This was done providing the patient's income was small enough that payment for the drugs would have meant hardship for the family.

Dr. Hourston, a scientist at the Nanaimo Biological Station, said everybody who could pay, paid.

"This program was pioneered by the Nanaimo Mental Health Clinic, and was certainly not usual.

"Everything was going along fine, then suddenly two months ago it was cut off.

HIGHER COST

"Moreover, this change in policy, apparently instigated by the department of health services and hospital insurance, under whose jurisdiction the mental health clinic operates, will probably result in far greater expenditure of public funds," Dr. Hourston said.

Since the Nanaimo program was initiated the committal rate to the provincial mental health hospital, and the suicide rate for this area, have both shown marked decreases.

SUICIDE RATE

The present policy has limited free drugs to patients of the clinic psychiatrist and ex-patients of the provincial hospital.

"It would be a practical impossibility for the clinic psychiatrist to attend to all the many people that require this type of treatment.

"It has been proposed to extend the number of psychiatric beds at Nanaimo Regional Hospital. Will these patients be denied free medication following their release because they are not committed to the provincial hospital?" he asked.

Dr. Hourston maintained if only a few of the patients who formerly received free drugs are admitted to the provincial mental hospital, then the cost to the taxpayer will be much greater than the drugs formerly supplied by the clinic.

"Many of these people require professional help, which if secured at an early stage, enables them to carry on or return to their regular status in the community.

Restaurant Destiny For Ferry

The coastal ferry Princess Louise will be put back into service again after two years' retirement from the CPR—only this time she will serve as a restaurant in California.

A company called Princess Louise Corp. has purchased the Louise.

She will be taken to Terminal Island, where the Los Angeles Harbor Commission has given the company a 25-year lease to a permanent mooring.

BIGGEST

The owners will spend $400,000 to refurbish her and install dining accommodation for 2,000 people.

Space for retail shops will also be available board.

The Louise was built in Vancouver in 1921 at Wallace yard, now Burrard Drydock, at a cost of $1,500,000. She was designed for the Alaska run and during the winter months made the night triangle run to Victoria and Seattle. She was the biggest passenger vessel built in Vancouver.

Grant to Help Musical Tour

The tour is under the auspices of the Jeunesses Musicales offices in Vancouver, which will pay musicians' salaries.

CENTENNIAL PLAN

"Jeunesses Musicales is an organization for promoting music among the young people of outlying areas," Jack Barraclough, society president, said Wednesday.

Mr. Barraclough said the tour, to visit 10 to 14 Interior centres, would be made as part of the society's centennial activities.

Expenses for the trip will come to $3,500.

Mr. Barraclough said the society was sounding out municipal councils of Interior centres for contributions toward the remaining $2,440.

He said the tour would be done in two phases, the first this spring, the second probably in the fall.

Noted Jurist Is Buried

AGASSIZ (CP)—Funeral services have been held for Lt.-Col. Andrew Naismith, lawyer, retired magistrate, sportsman and soldier who was the youngest lieutenant in the Canadian Army in the First World War. He died in a Vancouver hospital at the age of 72.

Flu Fatality Suspected

NANAIMO—The flu may have claimed a victim at Extension, six miles south of Nanaimo.

Coroner Russ Inkster said an autopsy will be carried out to determine the cause of death this afternoon, but Mr. Senini had been confined to his bed with the flu.

Apparently he had attempted to get up when he was found.

Mr. Senini was a native of Italy, but had resided in the Nanaimo area for the past 56 years.

He is survived by a brother and sister in Nanaimo.

Outdoorsmen Oppose Town

A delegation of Vancouver Island outdoorsmen opposed to location of the Western Mines townsite inside Strathcona provincial park will present a brief to a special legislative committee at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Sparkplug for the group is Keith Morton of Comox, head of the Comox District Mountaineering Club.

A caravan will head toward Victoria early Friday morning, picking up along the way delegates from the Courtenay and Campbell River Fish and Game Club, the Island Mountain Ramblers, and Nanaimo, Duncan and Victoria outdoors groups.

COLOR SLIDES

During the same hearing, Colonist outdoors editor Alec Merriman will give the committee a 20-minute showing of color slides taken at Buttle Lake and Strathcona Park.

Committee chairman William Speare (SC, Cariboo) said Wednesday the committee would go into an in-camera session after meeting with the outdoors groups and Mr. Merriman, to deliberate recommendations to the legislature about the townsite location.

Australian Hits War Movie

CANBERRA (AP) — Australia's Prime Minister Harold Holt has promised to check into the U.S. movie King Rat, a bitter portrayal of life in a prisoner-of-war camp in Singapore. A member of the House of Representatives, Winton Turnbull, who was a prisoner of the Japanese, suggested the film is detrimental to Australians.

Toronto Contract Scorned

Fight All Off Says Terrell

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Ernie Terrell said Wednesday night he will not fight Cassius Clay for the heavyweight title in Toronto March 29 under the terms of the new contract he has just received.

The 26-year-old fighter, who is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Association, came into the city room of the Atlantic City Press and dictated his statement to reporters. He has been training at nearby Pleasantville, N.Y.

Terrell said the new contract from the Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens which accepted the orphaned fight, offers him no guarantee and stipulates if he defeated Clay he would have to defend the title against Canadian George Chuvalo two months later in the Gardens in Toronto.

He said under the original contract he was to have received $50,000 from the live gate and $100,000 for the ancillary rights.

GIVE ANYTHING

The statement read:

"I would give anything to fight Clay to clear up the heavyweight muddle, because whether or not Clay is unpatriotic or a lot of other things that he might be, if he's barred from fighting anywhere in the world, there will always be boxing fans that feel Clay still is the champion.

"For that reason, I would fight Clay anywhere in the world for 30 cents.

"But with this new contract that I have received tonight from the Maple Leaf Gardens, it makes it impossible to go through with the fight on these terms.

ORIGINAL DEAL

"In the original agreement, I had a guarantee of $50,000 from the live gate and $100,000 from the ancillary rights on closed circuit television and $12,500 was to be paid for training expenses.

"In this new contract from Maple Gardens, there is no guarantee and I haven't received any expenses.

"And Maple Leaf Gardens wants me to sign a contract where I would have to fight George Chuvalo two months later for Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto, with Maple Leaf Gardens choosing the ancillary or closed circuit promoters.

"With this kind of agreement, I would be controlled by Maple Leaf Gardens in the event I win the fight over Clay. If they would send me a contract with me just fighting Clay and no other clauses, then I would fight him tonight.

"But these stiupulations make it impossible. I have received offers from all over the world to defend my heavyweight title against a suitable opponent."

Smythe Roasts Gardens

TORONTO (CP) — The man who built Maple Leaf Gardens mainly as a base for his National Hockey League team has offered his resignation as a director of the arena because the March 29 world heavyweight championship fight will be staged there.

However, the arena management hasn't accepted the resignation of Conn Smythe over the acceptance by the Gardens of the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell fight.

Smythe, objecting to the fight because of Clay's statements about United States involvement in the Viet Nam war, announced his action in a telegram Tuesday from his winter home in Palm Beach, Fla., to John Bassett, chairman of the Gardens' board.

BY SPORTSMEN

Smythe, 71-year-old former army major and veteran of two world wars, said: "The Gardens was founded by men—sportsmen — who fought for their country. It is no place for those who want to evade conscription in their own country."

Bassett said Wednesday: "Mr. Smythe has not resigned. He has offered his resignation and we have refused to accept it."

He said in a statement that Smythe "phoned me to say that if the fight went forward, he was so upset he would resign."

"I told him we had entered into an agreement to stage the fight if it was approved by the Ontario Athletic Commission and could not break that agreement."

NO CONCERN

Clay's statements regarding Viet Nam "could be no concern to ours," said Bassett, who was a major in the Canadian Army in the Second World War.

"Many athletes and many men in all walks of public life had not served in the last war, but they had not been barred at the Gardens. This was not our role—we could not sit in judgment on other people's motives," he said.

Bassett said the resignation "should be submitted before the whole board when others with different views would have a chance to put their case."

SMYTHE ADAMANT

But Smythe, stating that "the Gardens was built for many things but not garbage disposal," said: "I intend to take proper steps to make it (the resignation) stand."

"This fight has been kicked out of every place in the U.S. and we need all the friends we can get in the world today," said Smythe. "If it's not good enough for Montreal then, by heavens, it's not good enough for Toronto."

Montreal rejected the fight last week.

NO CONTROL

Smythe said: "I have no control over the policies of present management so my only alternative is to dissociate myself from it."

Smythe built the arena during the Depression of the 1930s, offering contractors, masons and carpenters Gardens stock as part of their wages. He planned the Gardens as a home for his NHL team, Toronto Maple Leafs.

In 1961 he sold majority control of the Gardens to his son Stafford, Bassett and Harold Ballard but retained minority shares and a directorship.

Expect Henderson For Tonight

Leafs Stumble in First Road Start

Victoria Maple Leafs ran into their usual troubles with San Francisco Seals last night, starting an eight-game road trip rather inauspiciously by taking a 7-2 trouncing before a meagre Cow Palace crowd of 2,107.

MISSED CHANCE

Defeat just about wrecked lingering hopes of a Western Hockey League championship. Missed last night in the off-color performance was the chance to get within three points of the Portland Buckaroos, who took a 7-3 beating in Portland from Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League.

Leafs resume their road trip tonight in Los Angeles and expect to have a new goalkeeper for the game against the Blades.

Manager Buck Houle said last night that he was unable to close the deal yesterday but that he expects to be able to announce this morning that John Henderson has been obtained from the Seals for the balance of the season.

If the deal goes through, Henderson will replace rookie Gary Holland, who has played seven games since Al Millar and the Leafs came to a parting of the ways. Holland won three and allowed 28 goals.

"No, we didn't play very well," Houle said in a telephone talk after the game, "but if we could have got to 2-3 in the second period I think it would have gone the other way. However, the penalty totals tell the story."

That story is that the Leafs served only one penalty, in hockey almost always an indication that the losers were on the passive side.

Leafs were set back right at the start, the Seals scoring on their first two shots at Holland to take a 2-0 lead before the game was more than 82 seconds old.

THEY WERE TOUGH

Gordie Redahl got one back in short order but Al Nicholson scored the first of his three goals while Milan Marcetta was serving his first-period penalty. Then the Seals stowed it away with two second-period goals to end their scheduled play with the Leafs with a 7-3-2 bulge.

HEAD BOMBED

Shortly after Knibbs had scored his first goal, Baltimore goalkeeper Don Simmons strained a knee and was replaced by Gilles Boisvert. At the same time, Portland coach Hal Laycoe took out Dave Kelly and put Don Head back in action for the first time in weeks. Head allowed five goals and made five stops in his 14 first-period minutes.

Vikettes Win Game Marpole Takes Title

By ROBIN JEFFREY

Vancouver Marpoles lost, 44-37, to University of Victoria Vikettes in the last game of the Canadian junior women's basketball championship last night, but by one of those quirks that make women's basketball like a woman's driving, Marpoles will go home with the Canadian championship.

Marpoles went into last night's game in the round-robin tournament with a perfect, 3-0, record. Vikettes, who beat Montreal, 58-18, earlier Wednesday, were 2-1 after losing to University of Alberta (Edmonton) Pandas Tuesday.

And in last night's 7 p.m. game, the Pandas beat Hamilton, 46-29, to finish with a 3-1 record.

Vikettes' victory, therefore, left three teams tied at 3-1, and the tournament winner had to be decided on a points-for-and-against basis. Vikettes lost by two to Pandas, while Marpoles beat Pandas by 14. That meant (14 plus two) Vikettes had to beat Marpoles by 16 points to tie for the title and by 17 points to win it.

They almost did.

With a crowd of about 250 squealing its approval at the University of Victoria, Vikettes were ahead, 9-1, after three minutes and led, 17-6, at quarter-time.

NEVER RECOVERED

The shocked Marpoles never really recovered. They shot 14 per cent in the first half as Vikettes held their big scorer Pat Murdoch to one point.

Miss Murdoch, who came back to score 10 points in the second half before fouling out with 2:25 left, was selected to the tournament all-star team along with teammate Janice Zingrich, who got nine points.

June Mackay and Cathy Galusha of the Pandas also made the all-stars, but Vikettes Jean Robertson was the only unanimous choice.

LIKE A MAN

Miss Robertson paced both teams with 12 points last night, and played as well as any man — if that's compliment to a petite, attractive 18-year-old girl.

She thinks all the time. She's a terror on defence. She can drive or hit from outside.

In the third quarter when Marpoles threatened to come back, she go eight of Vikettes' nine points on three baskets. The third was a brilliant driving effort on which she was fouled. She swished the free throw, and Vikettes went into the final quarter with a 32-24 lead.

FOUR IN ROW

Vikettes got their margin to 44-32 with 2:25 left as Lee Hagglund hit four times in a row from the foul line and Marg Maysmith drove for two key baskets.

But a foul sent Marpoles' Kathy Jackson, who came in after fouls had claimed Miss Murdoch and centre Mary Claire Chapman, to the line with 1:28 to go. She scored one of two and 53 seconds later hit a field goal to finish Vikettes slim chances.

The loss was the first for Marpoles in 24 games this season in which they had beaten Vikettes three times.

HURRY BACK

Six of the tournament-winning Marpoles have to hurry back to Vancouver today to play for Winston Churchill High School in the B.C. high school championship. Their coach in that series is Alice Whitty, sister of Marpole coach Tony Whitty.

Victoria, Oak Bay Win First Games

VANCOUVER -- Outstanding individual performances carried the two Victoria teams to first-round victories in the provincial boy's high school basketball championships Wednesday night but Alberni, the third Vancouver Island contender, was beaten.

Defending-champion Oak Bay floored almost a one-man team but it was enough to take Lord Byng of Vancouver, 38-30.

Brian MacKenzie, reportedly heading for a university basketball scholarship, scored all but nine of Oak Bay's points with a 29-point effort which was the individual feat of the eight-game opening day.

Right behind him was Ollie Moilanen of Victoria High School, who scored 27 points as his club got by Prince George, 49-41. Moilanen got a neat bit of help from Al Glover, who chipped in with 13 points.

Ontario Curlers Take Lead Saskatchewan Latest Victim

HALIFAX — An unheralded Ontario rink from Cooksville, skipped by Joe Gurowka, is seriously threatening Western supremacy in the Canadian men's curling championships.

Trounced Monday in the first draw by British Columbia's Lynn Mason, the Ontarians Wednesday registered their fourth and fifth consecutive victories to grab the lead.

Gurowka's rink used three big ends Wednesday afternoon to defeat Bill Tracy's Quebec champions, 11-6. Then Gurowka came up with a big one last night to defeat Bob Pickering's Saskatchewan champions, 11-8.

Defeat knocked Saskatchewan into a four-place tie with B.C., which also split two games yesterday, and left Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario the only rinks with only one loss.

Ontario and Alberta meet this afternoon, Alberta and Manitoba meet this evening and Ontario and Manitoba tangle on the last draw tomorrow afternoon.

Ron Northcott's Calgarians, now rated as favorites, had a bye last night after breezing to a 15-5 win over Northern Ontario in the afternoon. Hersh Lerner's Manitobans got by Nova Scotia and Quebec yesterday.

British Columbia stayed with the leaders until last night, when Vic Snarr's Nova Scotians scored a 9-7 victory. Mason just sneaked through in the afternoon against New Brunswick, making a last-rock triple to hold his opponents to one point on the last end for a 9-8 win.

Yesterday's split left Mason with a 3-2 record but the schedule gives the Burnaby skip a good chance to get back into the picture. He has to get by Quebec, Saskatchewan and Northern Ontario today and gets Alberta tomorrow morning before winding up against Newfoundland tomorrow afternoon.

Johnny Longden Bows Out

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden has announced for the third time he is retiring from horse racing but the 59-year-old jockey said Wednesday this time he means it.

The man who has ridden more winners than anyone else in turf history said he will take his final mount Saturday at Santa Anita in the $125,000-guaranteed San Juan Capistrano Handicap.

Longden, however, has more than enough victories to remember—6,030 to be exact. Included were wins in the Triple Crown on Count Fleet in 1943.

Longden, born in England but brought up in Taber, Alta., indicated he will stay in the game and said a prominent eastern stable, now in Florida, has been in touch with him concerning a position as trainer.

He would not divulge the name of the stable, but training has been almost as much as part of Johnny's career in recent years as riding.

His two sons, Vance and Eric, are trainers and naturally John has been a counselling influence for many years.

There have been many milestones in the Longden story.

Indestructible, Longden has survived innumerable mishaps. He has broken both arms, both collar bones, both legs, one five times, both feet, his back and most of his ribs.

Cars Invade Sandown After Speedway Split

Racing is scheduled to start on May 7 at Sandown Park this year and continue into October, but the first four months will be devoted to car racing and the thoroughbreds won't start until September.

Officials of the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association, following a parting of the ways with Andy Cottyn, owner of Western Speedway, have announced that they will race in the future at the about-to-be-constructed Sandown Park Raceways.

STARTS SOON

Construction of a hard-top racing surface, of approximately three-eighths of a mile inside the present racing strip, is scheduled to start next week.

Installation of lighting facilities and extra stands will follow and everything should be complete by the scheduled date for the opening VITRA production on Saturday, May 7. Approximately $30,000 will be spent to prepare Sandown for car racing and VITRA and the Colwood Park Racing Association have entered into a five-year contract.

NEW STANDS

New stands, seating approximately 1,300, will be erected in front of and to the left of the current grandstand to bring total seating capacity to about 3,700. Twelve lighting standards will be erected around the track and the mercury color-corrected lamps, officials claim, will provide twice the lighting at Western Speedway.

"We think the facilities we will have at Sandown will be tremendous," VITRA-president Ron Midgley said.

WARMER TOO

He pointed to the seating, improved lighting and restroom facilities, the huge parking area and better traffic conditions provided by the Pat Bay Highway. And, he said, a survey has disclosed that the average temperature at Sandown is eight degrees higher than at Western Speedway and that precipitation is 40 per cent less.

Decision to strike out on its own was forced on VITRA, Midgley said, by Cottyn's refusal to renew contracts for 1966.

"It was quite a jolt to us to suddenly find that we had no place to race," Midgley said. "We tried to reopen negotiations and when this failed we went out and made an agreement with the Colwood Park Racing Association to use Sandown. We think we will be able to provide better racing with better facilities."

VITRA will operate as a non-profit organization and, says treasurer Bob Low, one of the immediate effects will be the raising of purse monies from 38 to 50 per cent of the gross.

"The quality of racing," Low said, "is always determined by the size of the purses. We will offer 50 per cent of the gross from the start and this will eventually go up to 70 per cent or higher. We anticipate being able to pay our construction costs in two years."

The move to Sandown, VITRA officials said, has made Western Speedway an outlaw track. VITRA has received the backing of all track racing associations in the Pacific Northwest with the exception of the midget groups.

However, there will be competition for racing fans. Cottyn intends to stage midget and jalopy racing at Western Speedway plus sports car races on his new one-mile circuit.

Czech Forwards Big Target For Canada's Hockey Team

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP) — The Canadians have worked out a plan they hope will stop Czechoslovakia in a key game of the world hockey championship tournament here today.

The substance of the plan is an effort to tie up forwards whom Canadian team officials consider to be the mainsprings of the Czech squad, Vaclav Nedomansky and Josef Golonka.

Wednesday's Results
Finland 4, United States 1.
Today's Schedule
Czechoslovakia vs. Canada (4 a.m. PST)
Russia vs. Sweden (7 a.m. PST)

Although the Canadians decline comment on Canada's prospects of winning the championship, they at least were not so openly pessimistic as Czech coach Vladimir Kostka, who has been saying for the last two days that nobody is capable of taking the title away from Russia this year.

"Thursday's game between the Canadians and us will decide second place," Kostka said flatly.

TOP FOUR IDLE

While the top four teams in the eight-team championship group were idle Wednesday, the fight began to determine who is best in the bottom half.

This is likely to be decided by the game between East Germany and the United States Friday.

East Germany won a sparkling 4-0 victory over Poland Wednesday, forward Joachim Ziesche and goalie Peter Kolbe playing star roles.

GET SECOND WIN

It was the Germans' second win in five games and gave them a good grip on fifth place. The Poles have lost five in a row.

Finland defeated the United States 4-1 in the day's only other game in the championship group.

The opinions of Czech coach Kostka that the Russians are unbeatable and that Sweden cannot make up the ground lost in its defeat by East Germany are shared by many observers here, who see a Czech-Canadian battle for runner-up honors as the only big question yet to be settled.

The Canadian leaders, Rev. David Bauer and coach Jackie McLeod, have consistently refused to talk about final placings or anything beyond the team's next game.

Their attitude was that there would be time to worry about the Russians after the Czech game was over.

Russians Seeking Game with Habs

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP) — The Russian national hockey team asked the governing body of world amateur hockey Wednesday for permission to play exhibition games against Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, British president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said federation rules emphatically forbid games between amateurs and professionals and he personally is doing everything he can to discourage any games between the Russians and Montreal or any other NHL team.

The Russians, world amateur champions for the last three years and overwhelming favorites at the 1966 championship here, apparently want to prove the contention of many amateur hockey enthusiasts that the Soviet national team can beat the NHL's best.

Montreal Canadiens won the Stanley Cup last year and currently are leading the NHL.

J. David Molson, president of the Canadiens, said the NHL club is not interested in an exhibition game or series against the Russian national team under present circumstances.

"As I have said in the past, the only way for the Russians and other European teams to improve is to call a spade a spade by coming right out and declaring themselves professional.

"We can't play these teams as pros against amateurs because they are not amateurs any more than any of our NHL or minor league clubs.

Hull, Hawks Blanked Again Gamble, Leafs Chasing Them

Bobby Hull is all but a cinch to get a 51st goal before the National Hockey League season ends but if he delays it much longer, Chicago Black Hawks are going to find themselves a third-place club.

The Hawks and Toronto retread Bruce Gamble are getting nothing but shutouts these days and the result has been that the Maple Leafs are now only four points out of second place with two games in hand.

| | P | W | L | T | F | A | Pts |

| Toronto | 58 | 29 | 20 | 9 | 176 | 153 | 67 |
| Detroit | 60 | 26 | 24 | 10 | 189 | 168 | 62 |
| New York | 60 | 17 | 33 | 10 | 175 | 223 | 44 |
| Boston | 59 | 16 | 37 | 6 | 168 | 237 | 38 |

Last night, continually trying to set up Hull for his record-breaking goal, the Hawks were shut out for the third consecutive game, losing to the Rangers in New York, 1-0.

Since Hull tied the record Wednesday of last week, the Hawks have been blanked by Gamble, Montreal's Lorne Worsley and Cesare Maniago and haven't scored a goal in their last 185 minutes and 58 seconds. About the only consolation they have is that they're still a long way from the NHL record of eight consecutive shutouts, suffered by the 1927-28 edition of the Hawks.

Hull spent 28 minutes on the ice last night but managed to get in only two long slap shots although he was out for three power-play chances the Hawks had.

The crowd of 13,010 started off cheering for him, then most of the fans rallied behind the Rangers, who played a strong game and took the points when Earl Ingarfield drove in a 10-foot shot to finish off a neat passing play.

Although Hull's frustrations are stealing the headlines from him, Gamble continued to star for the Maple Leafs with his third shutout in the five games he has played since being called from Tulsa of the Central League.

Gamble looked a bit shaky in the first period and was lucky once in the second when a flip shot got by him and hit a post but he settled down to play solid, sometimes brilliant goal. He beat Gordie Howe three times and was alert on a quick backhand by Andy Bathgate in four of his best stops.

In last night's other game, Boston Bruins were led by two Montreal products as they ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Canadiens, 3-1, on Montreal ice.

Goalkeeper Bernie Parent was brilliant in blocking 40 shots and Gillie Marotte, a 20-year-old junior who was turned professional in mid-season, turned in a fine game on defence and scored the trying goal in the second period.

After two rather listless periods, Canadiens came to life in the final 20 minutes. They peppered Parent with 18 shots and did everything but put the puck in the net on two power-play chances.

But Parent refused to yield and the Bruins won it in that hectic period as Murray Oliver scored in the second minute and John Bucyk made sure by getting the puck into an empty net in the last minute.

Dali's Pencil Helps Launch Epic Raft Trip

NEW YORK (CP) — Five members of a six-man international expedition have arrived here from Montreal on the first leg of a motor trip to Peru and the 5000-mile, eight-month voyage by raft to Sydney, Australia.

To obtain funds—their main concern now—they got a helping hand from Salvador Dali, famed Spanish impressionist artist who draws publicity almost as fast as he draws pictures.

Surrounded by dozens of photographers, Dali in a few seconds sketched his impression of the "Pacifica Expedition" emblem, using three feathers, women's hair spray and a crimson pencil.

Although it was intended to be fastened to the raft's sail, the crew decided to pack it safely as a souvenir since it wouldn't stand the weather much longer than it took Dali to create it.

The expedition, 3½ years in the planning, is headed by Vital Alsar, 32, handsome Spanish professor who has been teaching languages in Montreal.

The others are: Jean Poirel, 32-year-old native of France who became a Canadian citizen after he moved to Montreal nine years ago; Professor Manuel Camino, 30, another Spanish professor; Yugoslav Marco Tadinac, 29, a sea captain; pilot Jos Floch, 29, of France; and cameraman William Berlin, 26, of New York.

Poirel, a stocky man with a heavy black beard, is the most experienced explorer among them.

Next stop is Ecuador, by ship, and then Peru where they will build their raft in what they term "the natural way," without nails, cables or the like.

They hope to sail by late May, arriving in Sydney in January when it is summer in Australia.

Aboard will be 600 gallons of water from Quebec's Lake Tonnerre, said to contain natural radioactivity and no chemicals or artificial ingredients. They want to prove in a practical way what chemists have discovered in their laboratories—that this type of water will stay fresh for long periods and is a deterrent to sickness.

Outside Legislature

No Permission Sought

Rally to Rap Viet Nam War

Victoria's Peace Action League will hold its March 26 anti-Viet Nam war rally on the front lawn of the legislature—with or without permission.

Between 200 and 500 people are to hear half a dozen speakers, said organizer Bob Munro, 665 Constance.

A representative of the U.S. Consulate in Vancouver has been invited to address the rally, said Mr. Munro.

City council recently refused permission to hold the demonstration in Centennial Square, and suggested that Beacon Hill Park was a better place.

The Peace Action League refuses to go to the park because it wants the public to know about the rally, said Mr. Munro.

He said the group, which has about 30 members, hadn't asked the government for permission to use the grounds.

"We don't see why we need permission," said Mr. Munro.

Arnold Webb, deputy minister of public works, declined comment on the matter Wednesday. He said he would consult with the minister.

Support for the rally has already been given by the Victoria and District Labor Council, the Voice of Women and the student council of the University fo Victoria.

The student council, which represents about 3,000 students, made its support conditional on the invitation of speakers for both sides of the Viet Nam war.

One aim of the rally will be to urge an independent Canadian role in international affairs, said Mr. Munro, a plywood worker.

Scheduled to speak at the event are Rev. Marvin D. Evans, minister of the Unitarian Church of Victoria; William Lawson, a city social worker; a representative of the Victoria Constituency Association of the New Democratic Party; a member of the Vancouver-based Canadian Aid for Viet Nam Civilians; university student Kevin Morrison, who is sub-committee chairman of the Canadian Union of Students, and possibly a member of the Voice of Women.

Women Electors Critical

B.C. Education Policies Burden to Taxpayer

The provincial government's public education policies were heavily criticized Wednesday in a study of the school system written by the Association of Women Electors.

The report, built around a study of the Greater Victoria School Board, credits trustees with doing a good job and blames the department of education for putting difficulties in its path.

The report repeats what school boards and municipal governments have been saying for years: that the department of education's financial formulas have left local taxpayers carrying a steadily-increasing financial burden.

FOR REFERENDUM

The report, and Wednesday's meeting as a whole, endorsed the supplementary school building referendum coming up this Saturday.

". . the school program must go ahead immediately if we are to avoid serious overcrowding and classes on shifts."

A five-woman committee spent a year preparing the 34-page report. They are chairman Mrs. Leah Brown, Councillor Frances Elford of Oak Bay, Mrs. Gloria Whelan, Mrs. Joan Murphy, Mrs. Dorothy Ray, Mrs. Jane Gonnason and Mrs. Grace Shackell.

1961 FORMULA

The annual basic grant payable to the school district is based on a formula laid down in 1961, says the report.

"The minimum (teacher) salaries allowed as shareable, are, on the whole, anywhere from $900 to $2,100 less than salaries actually paid."

". . . In the year 1966, the budget of teachers' salaries to be paid by School District 61 indicates that ratepayers must pay $1,687,609 over and above their share of the basic approved salaries.

WHOLE LOAD

"In 1964 the excess was only $776,663, which indicates that for some years the entire teacher salary increases have had to be paid by the local taxpayer."

Capital expenditures here have been kept to "a bare minimum," says the report.

"The few 'local enrichments' could scarcely be classified as frills."

'PATCH-WORK'

Refusal of the government to allow school boards to plan school building and land acquisition five years ahead has resulted in uneconomic operation, the report goes on.

"Patch-work schools with three, four and five additions are the result of being able to plan and build for today only."

"The building and planning in School District 61, as far as we have been able to determine, has been carried out with as much skill and foresight as has been possible under the restrictions imposed by the government and the voters."

OMBUDSMAN

A loosely written school act permits "bureaucratic injustices" to children and parents who come into conflict with the school system, says the report, without mentioning specific instances.

It suggests an ombudsman—public protector—as a remedy.

Mainland Flu Reaches City

The flu 's here.

Absenteeism from Greater Victoria schools this week is about double average rate said medical health officer J. L. M. Whitbread on Wednesday.

20 PER CENT

But the capital region hasn't been hit as hard as Vancouver, where 20 per cent of students went down with the flu in recent weeks.

Absenteeism is hitting as much as 20 per cent in some schools, said Dr. Whitbread, but the current average is about 10 per cent.

STAY HOME

Without the flu, absenteeism runs four to six per cent on an average winter day.

Nothing can be done except to avoid public gatherings, stay home in bed if you do catch the bug, and drink lots of fluids, said the doctor.

City Waterfront

Grant Made For Study

University of Victoria geographer Dr. Charles Forward has been given a $6,500 grant for a study of Greater Victoria's waterfront and the shorelines of three other Canadian cities.

He will make a comparative study of past and potential land use in Halifax, Saint John, N.B., St. John's Nfld., and Greater Victoria from Sooke to Sidney.

The grant is being provided by the Canadian Council on Urban and Regional Research.

AN ASSOCIATE

Dr. Forward, of 3184 Woodburn, has been an associate professor of geography at the Victoria campus since 1959.

He said Wednesday that his study would suggest best uses of shoreline in relation to the whole community, not just the area which adjoins the beach.

Another faculty member, marine biologist Dr. Derek Ellis, has been granted $1,760 to study macoma clams. Donor is the National Museum of Canada in Ottawa.

The Ellis study will determine the importance of the tiny clams in sea-bottoms life. Macoma clams are not harvested commercially, but provide food for ground fish.

The study will be made over the next two years.

Elk Lake Seizure

Water Rate Increase Foreseen by Mayor

Mayor Toone said Wednesday seizure of Greater Victoria Water District rights at Elk and Beaver Lakes "can only result in increased rates to users."

The mayor confirmed Wednesday that Water Resources Minister Williston plans to introduce legislation lifting the district's water rights.

REVENUE LOSS

The City of Victoria, which owns the lands of the watershed, will lose revenue on sales of water to northern peninsula users.

Mr. Toone, who is also chairman of the water board, said he will make a formal protest to the minister.

'NO GOOD REASON'

"I don't think there is any good reason for this to go forward," he said. "The water board is operating quite satisfactorily.

"The city has maintained the properties and their water levels in the interests of the entire area."

Highway on Sea For Outsiders

Victoria and up-Island tourist trade boosters will still call it the Route of the Haidas, but B.C. Ferries will call its new Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert run the Highway on the Sea.

The system's routes are named so that potential tourists in eastern Canada and the U.S. will get the meaning, manager Monty Aldous said Wednesday.

"Route of the Haidas wouldn't mean anything to many people outside B.C.," he said.

Unionists Plan Trip

About 140 B.C. trade unionists are expected to fork out $350 each for a three-week charter flight holiday in Britain this fall.

The trip, being organized by the B.C. Federation of Labor, is the first time labor in the province has taken the cross-Atlantic trail in force.

"Members will be free to do what they want to do — but we hope some of them will take the opportunity to look in on the British Parliament in session," said E. T. Staley, the federation's president.

He added that response to the trip so far had been good.

New Uniforms Not Cached At Esquimalt

Rumors that quantities of the new integrated armed forces uniforms were already stored at Esquimalt have been denied by an armed forces spokesman.

"There are no new uniforms or material for manufacturing new uniforms here," said regional information officer Lt.-Cmdr. Ray Wormald.

GRADUAL

He said when the new uniforms come out they probably would be introduced gradually as a walking-out uniform and a date would be set to make them official.

"But any announcement on what the uniform will look like and when it will come out will be made from Ottawa," Lt.-Cmdr. Wormald said.

Validating Act Set

Centennial Stadium in the Bag

The trouble along the way to the centennial stadium is cleared up and the stadium is on the way.

An act to validate an agreement between the city, municipalities and the municipal affairs department will be introduced late in the legislative session.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell Wednesday said he would "hold off to the end of the session" so the act can include any municipalities with similar requirements.

Mr. Campbell's statement was made at a meeting Wednesday at the legislature with Mayor Toone, Reeves Hugh Curtis, Alan Cox and Ray Bryant and Dean Robert Wallace of the University of Victoria.

"We went as a delegation," said Mayor Toone. "And we just asked him directly if he intended to introduce the legislation.

"He answered in a perfectly straightforward way. So it's all settled now."

Mr. Toone described as "something marvellous" the behind-the-scenes co-operation between the four municipalities, the university and a private society (the centennial society).

"It is most gratifying that six diverse groups like these could get together and come to a $500,000 project for the community that can expand to fill a continuing need," he said.

The final agreement was signed Tuesday at City Hall.

Sewing classes of the Adult Education Division of the Greater Victoria School Board annual fashion show will be held at Oak Bay Junior High School on March 17 at 8 p.m. The show, sponsored by the Aldyen Hamber Chapter IODE, will also include floral and fancy cake displays and a chance of winning a fur stole. Mrs. Leslie R. Peterson will open the affair, which is being convened by Mrs. Herbert Barnes. Mrs. Adele Goult Lewis will commentate and David Napper will provide organ music. Two of the students who will be modelling their own creations are pictured, above left, Mrs. Douglas A. Armstrong and Miss Barbara L. Middleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frampton Married at St. Aidan's

In the presence of the immediate families and relatives Miss Patricia Henrietta St. Denis and Mr. Gordon David Frampton were married last Saturday in St. Aidan's United Church.

Rev. A. G. MacLeod performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. St. Denis and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Frampton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a blue double knit wool suit with pink flowered hat and patent accessories. For something borrowed she had her mother's crystal necklace and she carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and heather.

Mr. Lawrence Wood of North Vancouver was best man.

A reception for about 60 guests was held later at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. E. C. Warner proposed the bridal toast. A tiered wedding cake topped with sweetheart roses and flanked by white topers centred the bride's table.

Leaving for a honeymoon on the Mainland and in Seattle the bride topped her wedding suit with an off-white coat to which was pinned a gladiolus corsage.

On return, Mr. and Mrs. Frampton will live at 1746 Oak Bay Avenue.

Guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. W. Slocomb, Clearwater, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. L. Wood, North Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. J. Frew and Mr. and Mrs. J. Henricks, Vancouver; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Shulz, Alberni.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Some women get right back to their normal weight after the children come, but unfortunately my wife put on 10 pounds with each child —and that's where Brenda is right now — 20 pounds overweight.

For the past several months I have hinted that Brenda do something about the excess weight. No results. Last week I came right out told her to buy a good girdle.

This evening we were dressing to go out and Brenda put on a dress she hasn't been able to wear in a long time. She said, "This girdle is great—look." Then she handed ME a girdle and said, "This is for you, Fatso."

I thought she was kidding until she added, "You have gained more weight than I have. If I'm going to sacrifice comfort for looks, so can you."

I refused to wear the girdle and she's been mad ever since. Who's wrong? — FIGHTING MAD

Dear Mad: Never mind who's right and who's wrong. You're both too fat and girdles are not the answer.

Ask your doctor about a diet and suitable exercise. You'll both feel better, look better and live longer.

Dear Ann Landers: You are smart and I am stupid. Please give me some answers. My parents were strict and they brooked no nonsense. My sister and I felt a quick hand if we said anything out of line. We loved mother and dad but we were afraid of them. I made up my mind that my children would never be afraid of me.

My daughter is 13 and my son is 11. I got my wish. My children are NOT afraid of me. They also have no respect for me. When I tell them to turn off the TV and do their homework they ignore me.

Ten minutes ago I told my daughter to clean up her room or she couldn't go to the movies. She just left for the movies and her room is a mess.

Must parents breed fear in their children to make them obey? What's the answer, Ann Landers?—FLOP OF A MOTHER

Dear Mother: I earnestly believe that a little fear is a healthy thing. Parents who try to win a popularity contest wind up with irresponsible, disrespectful kids who are a problem to themselves and to everyone else.

Children WANT discipline—even though they may resist it. Discipline is a special kind of love. It takes strength to be firm in the face of wheedling, begging, and arguing. But the wise parents find the courage to stand fast. And it pays off.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I broke my engagement to a fellow on whom I wasted six years. I kept the ring because I had bought it.

The problem is this. How do I let people know that I am no longer Rube's girl? When we were engaged I had my picture in the paper. Would it be all right if I placed an ad in the personals section of the newspaper to let people know that our engagement is off?—NEW LEASE ON LIFE

Dear New Lease: Sorry but a newspaper ad to announce a broken engagement would be in poor taste. I have an alternative thought. Next to Telstar, the quickest way to pass the word is to tell two or three girl friends—"in the strictest of confidence."

Good Editorial Page Backbone of Paper

"The job of the press," claims a well-known Canadian newspaperman, "is to make of itself a useful nuisance."

Vancouver Sun publisher Stuart Keate, speaking on the role of the newspaper in the community at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club Wednesday, also quoted H. L. Mencken:

A good newspaper, Mr. Keate continued, should have character, and like the character of people one likes best it should have "integrity, intelligence, a sense of humor, good taste, and above all, courage."

He had words of praise for Canadian newspapers, refuting charges that they are not competitive and that they slant the news. Sharing the mechanical plant, as is done in many cases now, still allows each newspaper to be as competitive, and as far apart politically as ever, he said.

On Canadian newspapers in general, he said: "Though in character they may not always be as literate as the Manchester Guardian or as comprehensive as the New York Times, on the other hand they don't run to excesses.

"We have no penny dreadfuls and lurid scandal sheets, nor do we have the pallid dailies, composed of ready mix and blotting paper, Canadian papers have a calm and level-headed tone."

Canadian papers are free, honest and independent, he said, pointing out that there has been a startling emancipation in the past 100 years.

"An editor is free to say what he likes. A citizen cannot buy his way in or out of the news columns. There are no longer any direct political or financial ties with any political party."

By what standards should a newspaper be judged?

Is there a choice of news services for the reader?

Is the local news coverage vital, compelling and well written? Is the layout attractive?

In summing up these and other points, Mr. Keate asked "does it accurately reflect the ethos and spirit of the city in which it is published?

Commenting on Victoria papers, he said:

"For a city of its size, none other is better served in Canada."

Chapter to Buy Books for School

At the regular meeting of Royal Roads Chapter, IODE held at the home of Mrs. B. T. Shaw, with Mrs. C. C. Riach, in the chair, it was announced that the annual municipal meeting will be at the Ingraham Hotel on March 21 and the annual provincial meeting at the Empress Hotel, April 19 to 21 inclusive. Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd gave a report on the stall sponsored by the chapter at the recent festival.

Education convener Miss H. Rattray read letters from teacher and pupils of the adopted school at Kleena Klene, and was authorized to purchase eight volumes of The Making of a Nation and some children's classics, to be divided between both adopted schools. It was decided to award the George Gardiner Bursary again this year, and the sum of $10 be sent to the Commonwealth Relations Fund.

Mrs. H. T. H. Roberts, formerly an IODE member from Red Deer, Alberta, was installed as a new member.

Mrs. S. K. Hayward reported that veterans had been visited with treats. Mrs. Riach announced that June 14 had been booked for the Chapter to sponsor a comedy at the Victoria Theatre Guild and the T. Eaton Company had been approached regarding a fashion show later in the year.

Conveners appointed were:- World Affairs, Mrs. B. Murgatroyd; Commonwealth, Mrs. T. Gourlay; immigration, Mrs. W. Flowers; hospitality, Mrs. E. Hill; membership, Mrs. H. Anderson; flowers and gifts, Mrs. J. G. Marquis.

Gracious Tortoise

Vancouverite Stuart Keate had flattering words for Victoria, his former home.

It's like the story of the tortoise and the hare. Vancouver newspapers are awash with plans and developments for the city that boggle the imagination. The only trouble is nothing is ever built.

"But returning to Victoria and seeing the university, Centennial Square, and other projects, Victoria seems like a gracious lady, getting more beautiful every year."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. S. A. Nex entertained at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. V. Peddle, Craigmillar Avenue, in honor of Miss Carol Fox whose marriage to Mr. Gary Peddle takes place Saturday. ## In Fridge

Bread Goes Modern

By MURIEL WILSON

CALGARY — There can be no standing still in this fast moving world of ours . . . each day new and exciting things are happening. The go-go crowd might call the event I am going to tell you about, a "Happening". This was the introduction of a revolutionary and completely new concept of bread making.

On Sunday about 35 of Western Canada's Food Editors met in a Calgary hotel at the invitation of a large Canadian milling company. Present to announce and demonstrate a major development in bread making were two of the Company's home economists and other milling representatives from Montreal.

Called "CoolRise", because a refrigerator replaces the old fashioned method of letting the dough rise in a warm place over a period of hours. This new method, developed and thoroughly tested by home economists was demonstrated for the first time in Western Canada.

"CoolRise" is truly a modern way to make bread. No longer is there any need to search the house for a just-right warm spot to set dough to rise. Now, for the first time, homemakers will be able to adjust bread making to fit their schedules . . . rather than planning the day's activity around the bread.

The complete preparation of the dough . . . mixing, kneading, shaping and placing the dough in the pans, can be done in less than an hour. The bread is now placed in the refrigerator to rise. It is ready to bake in exactly two hours . . . or left for up to 24 hours . . . during which time it needs no further attention. Within the 24 hours it can be baked at your convenience.

The CoolRise method makes it possible for thousands of busy homemakers and working wives to provide their families with delicious home baked breads that were previously too time-consuming to prepare. (Prepare it before going out in the morning and bake it when you come home in time to have warm fresh bread for dinner).

The recipe for "COOLRISE BREAD" . . . to make 2 loaves. Important: work area (kitchen) should be warm while mixing and kneading. 2 tsp. sugar, ½ cup warm water, 2 packages dry yeast, 5½ to 6½ cups all purpose flour (either regular or Instant Blending), 1¾ cups warm milk (105 degrees to 115 degrees), 2 tbsp. sugar, 1 tbsp. salt, 3 tbsp. soft shortening or margarine. Dissolve the 2 tsp. sugar in the ½ cup warm water in a large bowl. Sprinkle yeast into water mixture. Let stand 10 minutes. Stir well. Pour or spoon flour into dry measuring cup. Level off and pour measured flour onto wax paper. Stir into yeast mixture, the warm milk, sugar, salt and soft shortening. Beat with a rotary beater until smooth (about 1 minute). Add 2 cups flour beating constantly. Add 1 more cup of flour and beat vigorously with a wooden spoon until smooth and elastic (at least 150 strokes). Scrape sides of bowl occasionally. Now stir in enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough which leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball.

Now here is an important part . . . knead for at least 10 minutes or until the dough becomes smooth, elastic and no longer sticky. It should be really shiny. Leave ball of dough on board and cover with plastic wrap and then with a towel. Let rest for 21 minutes. Punch down gently. Divide dough into 2 equal portions. Shape each piece. Place in greased 8½-x4½x2¾-inch pans. Correct size pans is important for best results. Brush surface with salad oil. Cover pans loosely with oiled wax paper then plastic wrap. Place pans of dough in refrigerator. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. Remove from refrigerator when desired. Uncover. Let stand for 10 minutes at room temperature while preheating the oven. Puncture any surface bubbles with a greased toothpick or metal skewer.

Bake at 400 degrees F. for 30 to 40 minutes or until done. Be sure to set your bread on a low oven rack for best results. Remove from the pans immediately. For a nice finish, brush the tops of the loaves with butter as soon as they come from the oven. Cool on wire racks.

I have baked this bread since returning home and find it completely satisfactory . . . beautifully shaped loaves, good texture and excellent flavor. The method may be adapted to recipes using other than white flour and for traditional bread and rolls.

If every housewife had a fairy godmother to grant one wish she would surely ask for more leisure time. In our fast paced world, the demands upon the housewife are endless. CoolRise makes it possible to serve fresh baked bread for dinner without spending long hours in the kitchen. Why not give this new magic a try . . . it has my blessing.

Canadians Follow Trend

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian women are following a trend set in the United States, where slightly more women than men invest in the stock market, says broker Norma Rogerson.

"Women are becoming more and more knowledgeable about investments," says Mrs. Rogerson, a stock broker for 10 years.

"This is only right, for eventually woman may either have money or, as widows, have to know what to do with investments."

One reason for the increasing involvement is the growing number of investment clubs in which women are active. And a male broker here adds that woman are usually successful with their investments because they are more discriminating than men and ask more questions.

Plan Tea In April

A well attended meeting of The Women's Guild, St. David's-Church-by-the-Sea, was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. E. Keddie, 4911 Cordova Bay Road.

It was decided to hold the annual spring sale and tea, Saturday, April 23.

Tea was served by the hostess, assisted by her house guest, Mrs. E. Symington and Mrs. E. Cox. The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hays, 4990 Lochside Avenue.

JAYCEE-ETTES

Victoria Jaycee-Ettes will meet at the Ingraham Hotel on March 9. Cocktails will be at 6:45 p.m. and dinner at 7:15 p.m. Guest speakers will be John Van Wees and John Halee.

Salmon with Peanuts School Lunch Treat

Mother knows she'll never be in trouble when she's got a can of salmon on the cupboard shelf!

For a quick meal, be it a school lunch, a hot at-home lunch or a quick and satisfying supper, salmon leads the way in taste appeal and versatility.

There's no denying that children relish a salmon sandwich tucked into the lunchbox. They'll like it even more when the salmon is combined with their old favorite—peanuts.

When they come home for lunch, they'll be intrigued by an entirely different version of a salmon sandwich, a hot savory version to see them through the afternoon.

Snacktime is do-it-yourself time, with tempting pizza-style salmon buns on the menu.

Supper is a filling casserole, a real "mom-saver" since it's so simple and quick that children will delight in trying it to test their culinary talents.

'Boy, He's Hard To Kill'

SEATTLE (AP) — "Boy, this guy sure is hard to kill," one teen-ager quoted the other in confessions read at their first-degree murder trial Wednesday.

Police detective Robert E. Lee told the jury of seven men and five women the statement was attributed to David Sinclair, 15, in the confession signed by Ronnie Nichols, 18.

The two are accused of the stabbing death of Torvald Vegsund, 61, in his Ballard home last Sept. 11.

ROBBERY MOTIVE

Nicholls said he and young Sinclair decided to rob Vegsund's home and then wait for him to return if they found nothing. The confession said that as Vegsund entered the door the 15-year-old hit him with a switch-blade knife. It continued:

"Mr. Vegsund said, 'No! No! Don't! You're a nice boy. Don't!' Then Mr. Vegsund hit the floor across the room and Dave was on top of him, thrusting the knife into him."

Many Dutch Cool To Wedding Today

By CAROL KENNEDY

AMSTERDAM (CP) — There was a mood of somewhat self-conscious festivity, with an undercurrent of bitterness, in this Dutch capital as preparations rolled ahead for the wedding of Crown Princess Beatrix to former German diplomat Claus von Amsberg today.

Warm, spring sunshine have brought Amsterdam residents flocking to the squares and sidewalk cafes in this 17th-century city.

Beatrix, only two years old when the Germans invaded her country, was led into exile with the royal family in Canada.

CHILDREN CHEER

The princess and her fiance got hearty cheers from several hundred school children at a gala drama and dance display Wednesday at an exhibition hall. Later the royal family held an informal wedding-eve party.

But many ordinary citizens, asked how they felt about the marriage, voiced the comment —"I don't like it," and explained that von Amsberg, 39, was regarded as a former Nazi.

Von Amsberg—who will be made a prince of The Netherlands today—served in a German tank regiment during the war but after the war was cleared of any Nazi activities.

No incidents marred the wedding eve. Heaviest-ever security precautions were imposed for the wedding day with 8,500 troops and police plus steel barriers. Police were assigned to all rooftops along the route.

The Jewish community, virtually eliminated in the war, is known to be unhappy about the wedding but does not want violence.

Crown Princess Beatrix, 28, who spent her early childhood in Ottawa, was reported by a close friend not to be unduly concerned about threats of violence in Amsterdam, centre of Holland's wartime resistance and scene of some of the Nazis' worst excesses.

"She's as nervous as any bride would be, but not especially worried about any trouble," said Mrs. Bradbrooke Smith of Ottawa. She is one of eight official witnesses, along with Princess Alexandra, at the civil ceremony that precedes the church wedding.

FORMER SCHOOLMATE

The former Renee Roell, Mrs. Smith was a schoolmate of Beatrix at Rockcliffe Park primary school in Ottawa.

Canada is being officially represented at the church wedding in Amsterdam by Ambassador W. F. Bull and his wife Marjorie.

Two weeks ago Bull presented the princess and her fiance with Canada's wedding gift — six white mink pelts which the princess is having made into a stole.

Severe Drought Growing Worse

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (AP)—The drought in Australia — already known since the days of white settlement — is growing worse.

The area hit hardest is the sheep, cattle, and wheat country of west-central New South Wales state. Water trains are running and "survival" water restrictions have been imposed along 700 miles of the Macquarie River.

Some 15,000,000 sheep and 1,360,000 cattle have died so far, says the Australian Woolgrowers and Graziers' Council. The state government estimates a loss of about $280,000,000 in primary production.

Throughout Australia, the drought will cost Australian farmers $400,000,000 in production losses by the end of June, says the federal bureau of agricultural economics.

Latest national income estimates show the growth rate of the Australian economy slowed virtually to nil in the quarter ended Dec. 31. And exports of wool, meat, wheat and butter will be smaller this year, giving Australia less foreign exchange.

Schools Festival

Young Thespians Face Trying Roles

By BERT BINNY

The fifth in the present series of 10 Schools Drama Festival programs took place before a fair-sized audience at Belmont Senior High School Wednesday night.

The program was representative of all the competing levels, starting with Langford Elementary School which presented The King's Creampuffs, a durable perennial among festival plays.

The play was well-set and lighted, particularly in the second scene, but the grouping and movement left a good deal to be desired.

INFLECTIONS

Philip Johnson's rather sinister play, Dark Brown, was chosen by Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School. This is a play with the minimum of action. The plot lies in the lines which, however, are well-contrived indeed. In consequence, practically all the effect depends on vocal inflections, pauses, crescendos and the like.

However, Wednesday night's cast was not equal to those peculiar demands. Colleen Sheridan as Mrs. Collins and Barbara Austin as Bella approached success most closely.

DIFFICULT

The plot here is exceedingly contrived and, in addition, exceptionally involved. Like Dark Brown, it is not a play for inexperienced casts. The plot lines, when discovered, require terrific pounding and when they don't get it the result is serious.

Dan Meakes, who played Perry, showed considerable promise. As in several other cases, the talent is there; all that is needed is skilled guidance.

OTHER PLAYS

Not many festivals go by these days without at least one play in the Chinese manner and, sure enough, a 1966 sample turned up Wednesday afternoon.

This was Dan Tothero's The Stolen Prince and it was presented by the host school, Sir James Douglas Elementary.

The performance was highly-commended by Mr. Risk, who noted "the right, conventional pace, unhurried but clear," as well as "a nice, effective set."

COMPLIMENTS

"It was enjoyed by the cast," said the adjudicator, who also complimented Adrian Chaster as Long Fo and Robert Hollistion as Hi Tee for their "concentration." Both were always a vital part of the show even though not necessarily in the immediate limelight.

As a delightfully tired, bored Property Man, Kevin Akins produced "more variations on the everyday yawn" than would seem possible.

It is a matter of proven certainty that the capabilities of younger performers are frequently and sadly underestimated and they have a lot more talents available than is commonly suspected. But these performers must have precise guidance and those talents require to be brought out and developed to the best advantage.

CHOICE QUESTIONED

Thus Westerham School's Hansel and Gretel required more preparation and more of that precise guidance. It suffered from a lack of definition.

Westerham School's second play was an adaptation from Alice in Wonderland but it is extremely doubtful if this Lewis Carroll classic is a sound choice for a children's play. It is often enough done but there is still question as to the wisdom of doing it. It is the kind of play that tends distinctly to bog down because of a talky script and the infrequency of exercise points.

"More inventiveness," said Mr. Risk of Wednesday's edition, "was definitely required."

MORE TODAY

The Festival passes the half-way mark today with performances at Colquitz Junior High at 2 p.m. and at Oak Bay Senior—not Junior as stated in the official program—High at 8 p.m.

Company Loses Costs Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Supreme Court decision which denied Perini Pacific Ltd. $200,000 in costs in construction of Iona Island sewage disposal plant was upheld by the B.C. Supreme Court. Perini, in an action started two years ago, contended Greater Vancouver Sewage and Drainage Board engineers caused "unreasonable" delays in construction.

West Coast Woos British Tourists

British tourists, a relatively rare breed in Canada, may soon be coming here in much greater numbers.

The first of a series of "scouting" parties composed of British tour operators left Victoria Wednesday after a short stop-over, during which its members met hotelmen, transportation representatives and provincial and municipal officials.

The visitors, heading for eastern Canada next, are studying the idea of running package tours to this country from Britain.

They are here at the invitation of the Canadian government travel bureau, which is keen to supplement the tourist flow to Canada, at present dominated by Americans.

Dick Colby, director of the B.C. government travel bureau, said future groups would be spending more time on the West Coast.

"The federal government feels it can't show these people all of Canada at one time, but while this particular group is concentrating on the east, it was decided it should still see the Victoria and Vancouver areas," Mr. Colby explained.

COST FACTOR

He said the Britons saw the cost of air fares as the biggest drawback at present.

They were "quite impressed" with Victoria, but said British tourists would typically not be wanting to stay anywhere long, but looking to see as much of the country as possible on the 14 to 21-day-tours.

Sooke Man Injured

Walter Conder of Sooke received minor injuries in a head-on collision on the Sooke River bridge Wednesday morning.

Ontario Man Sought Here

David William Brown, 27, of Brigden, Ont., has been missing since Aug. 18, 1965. He has brown hair, blue eyes, weighs 145 pounds and is five feet, four inches tall. He has a slight scar on his forehead.

Joint Trial Asked For Four Suspects

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood Wednesday asked that two men charged with armed robbery be remanded until two men similarly charged are brought to Victoria.

Mr. Owen-Flood made his request in central magistrate's court when appearing on behalf of Henry Gable and William Braumberger.

They have been charged with the Feb. 18 robbery of the Bank of Montreal, 1771 Fort, when $18,157 was stolen.

HELD IN EAST

Toronto police have reported they are holding Gordon Francis Duck and Harold Robinson Coullrer who have also been charged with the robbery.

Duck has been charged in Toronto with having counterfeit money in his possession and Coullrer with having offensive weapons in his possession.

HAVE COUNSEL

Mr. Owen-Flood told the court that he believed other counsel had been retained to defend Duck and Coullrer.

He thought the "other counsel" and the Crown would prefer to have all four men elect to be tried the same way and at the same time.

JURY TRIAL ASKED

Gable and Braumberger were due to tell the court Wednesday how they wished to be tried. Braumberger elected trial by judge and jury at his first court appearance but Magistrate William Ostler told Mr. Owen-Flood this would not be binding.

Mr. Owen-Flood then asked that Gable and Braumberger be remanded to March 17 with the understanding they will be remanded again on this date.

NOT OPPOSED

The Crown did not oppose this move which was allowed by Magistrate Ostler.

City police do not know yet whether Duck and Coullrer will have to face the Toronto charges before being brought to Victoria for trial.

Folk Group Seeks Home Base

The Victoria Folk Association is looking for a home, any home, where it can hold meetings twice a month.

The 40-member group, whose members range in age from 15 to 40, meets to discuss trends and styles in folk music, and how to get performing engagements for members.

Roger Hunter, 1320 Dallas, head of the association, said Tuesday that any place big enough to hold the 40 members would be adequate.

'Limit Penalty For Murder'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The John Howard Society of B.C. says the death penalty should either be abolished for murder or kept only for slayers of police or prison officers.

Directors of the society said in a statement they would prefer to see the end of capital punishment for murder, excluding such incidents as the assassination of a visiting head of state, treason, piracy and genocide.

Art Treasures To Be Shown

Hit Rock-Roll Band Playing Here Friday

Don and the Goodtimes, one of the U.S. Northwest's top rock and roll bands will play a four-hour dance and show at Schofield's Roller Rink, 108 Niagara, at 8 p.m. Friday.

The five-member band has performed on the Lloyd Thaxton Show, Hollywood A-Go-Go and Where the Action Is.

Its rendition of Little Sally Tease made national charts, and its latest, Sweets for My Sweet, is repidly climbing into the top 10 range in the U.S.

All this happened since the group formed only eight months ago.

On the same bill at their Victoria performance is the Victoria band whose trademarks are also long hair, lace and tails, the Victorian Sect.

No More Drinks For Jury

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Criminal district Judge Oliver P. Schulingkamp told the grand jury that the wide-spread habit of downing a few drinks with lunch — which the city pays for — will stop.

Why? Because another judge cited statistics for an eight-month period during which grand jurors drank $722.65 worth of "beverages," including 20 cups of coffee.

"If the rest of the beverages were iced tea," he said, "the jurors were apparently groggy from the over-consumption of tea and could not give fair consideration to their deliberations."

U.S. Tour Planned By Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — The Beatles will tour the United States in late August and early September, it was announced Wednesday.

They will perform in 14 cities, including New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

"Another likely but not certain city will be Washington, where the Beatles played their very first U.S. concert on Feb. 11, 1964," a spokesman said.

No other cities have been named so far.

The spokesman said Beatles manager Brian Epstein had been approached about the possibility of the Beatles making two appearances at New York's Shea Stadium but he was considering one performance.

It will be the Beatles' third lengthy concert tour of the United States.

High-Rise Will Rise

VANCOUVER (CP) — North Vancouver District Council has given first approval to an $18,000,000, 900-unit high-rise apartment project on a 21-acre site adjoining West Vancouver near the Capilano River. It is sponsored by a group of businessmen headed by Winnipeg financier Phillip Defilippi and will include seven buildings.

Wild Joys of Spain Royal Treat

By E. D. WARD-HARRIS

Rarely does a company match its advance billing but Jose Molina Bailes Espanoles is entitled to every superlative in the book.

At the Royal last night they slowly raised our temperatures until, with the aid of a Spanish element in the audience, the staidest among us threw reserve to the winds and applauded madly, whilst the less inhibited shouted their Oles and Bravos.

This young, lusty, sparkling troupe brings to the theatre all the sultry sensuality, dark passion and wild joys to be found in the hot, dusty squares of Spain.

These people will never need psychiatrists; no inhibition can co-exist with the abandoned language of the heels and the castanets.

Whether dancing in elegant, formalized, ritualistic style or in more frenzied fashion, disciplined precision born of incessant rehearsal prevails. Brilliant heel and toe and castanet work distinguished the company.

Molina, who is still in his twenties, has the good sense to show that Spanish dancing has an astonishing range, that along with the stamping there are stately compositions almost balletic in style, as well as delightful peasant jotas, and much more.

Molina, the brilliant Molina, is flawless in everything he does. And, endearingly, he never hogs the spotlight. All members of the troupe are allowed time to identify themselves.

Whilst Molina is the star, and rightly so, Luis Montero was exceptional both in solo and ensemble work. There is nothing to choose between the others; all are wonderful.

Flamenco singer La Trianera gave us a taste of those throbbing, mournful, almost Arabian tones which mark the singing of the Spanish gypsy; pianist Blanca Urmeneta, whom we never saw, worked like a Trojan, as did guitarist Ramon del Castillo.

But it was solo guitarist Francisco Espinosa who earned the biggest reception of all for two solo pieces which placed him firmly in the virtuoso class.

Authentic costuming, with obviously no expense spared, added to the flavor of as fine an evening's entertainment as Victoria has seen in many a year.

Relatives Not Listed

OTTAWA (CP) — Summer work employees are appointed from Civil Service Commission eligible lists and no records exist to show whether they have close relatives working for the same department, four cabinet ministers told Alexis Caron (L—Hull) in separate returns filed in the Commons.

ALEXANDER—In loving memory of John Alexander, who passed away March 10, 1962.

His loving face we hope to see again.
Tho' the days have passed away,

They miss you most who loved you best.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love, remembrance outlasts all.

CLARKE—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Bess) Clarke, who passed away March 10, 1960.

regret,
But we remember when others
forget.

—Lovingly remembered by Reg, June, boys and families.

TV TALK

By ROBIN JEFFREY

"Overstocked Agencies? This is Unbelievable Productions calling. We're doing some filming tomorrow and we're going to need a few things.

"Can you send us over a couple of dozen tigers . . . good deep-throated growlers, none of that sissy purring stuff?

"And we'll need 50 guys in suits of armor on horses, and about 50 housewives . . . what's that? Oh, you're out of housewives . . . sure, sure, I understand, you've got to feed them something.

"Well look, if you haven't got housewives, how are you fixed for Mongol hordes? . . . You've got five? That's great. Send us over a couple of hordes then.

"And special effects. We're going to need six tidal waves, two tornadoes, four earthquakes, and a 100-megaton H-bomb explosion. For tomorrow morning . . . that's right. I knew you could fix us up.

"What's that? No, no, we're not filming a movie epic. We don't go in for that low-budget Ben Hur stuff any more. Nothing but the biggest now . . . that's right, we're shooting TV soap commercials."

"Mommy, is this the kind that puts pi-ZAZZ in my smile?"

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

A feminine desire to play for safety seems to make the women more prone than men to the error of pulling trumps too early. Here's evidence—from a women's international Trial.

North's jump to four diamonds on three small trumps was justified by her two aces and singleton spade. South's strong "reverse" bid guaranteed at least a five-card diamond suit as well as a powerful hand, so a mere preference bid of three diamonds would have been much too timid and would probably have missed the odds-on slam contract.

Opening lead: Spade nine

East won the first trick with the spade king and returned a heart, which declarer—needing to preserve entries to dummy—correctly won in her hand with the king. How would you take it from here?

Declarer ruffed a spade and pulled three rounds of trumps before trying the clubs. When clubs broke badly, she was unable to establish the suit, and had to lose a heart trick even though West's queen fell.

Although the main chance to win the slam depends on a 3-2 club break, there was a way to preserve that chance while also guarding against the actual layout. Declarer should play only two rounds of trumps and should then shift to clubs without ruffing a spade. If both defenders follow, declarer does not ever need to ruff a spade; on the actual layout, South can ruff the third round of clubs, ruff a spade with dummy's carefully hoarded trump, and ruff another club. After the last trump is pulled, dummy still has the heart ace as entry to the established clubs—and South is home.

Ottawa Plans Committee To Probe Divorce Laws

OTTAWA (CP)—The government took the first step Wednesday to set up a special joint committee of the Senate and Commons to study and report on the question of divorce laws in Canada.

The committee would supercede a similar inquiry that was planned by the Commons justice committee.

Formal notice of the government's intention to seek parliamentary approval for formation of such a committee was given in Commons papers.

EIGHT BILLS

The notice proposes 24 MPs represent the Commons on the committee, and that it be empowered to call witnesses and employ the necessary personnel.

There are eight private members bills now before the Commons, proposing broadening of the grounds for divorce in Canada.

Senator Walter Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan), former longtime chairman of the Senate divorce committee, speaking on a Senate divorce bill Tuesday night, urged formation of just such a committee as the government is proposing.

NONE APPROVED

Senator Aseltine reviewed the history of other divorce bills in the Senate since 1938. None were approved.

The Senate bill, introduced by Senator Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario), chairman of the divorce committee, proposes extending grounds of divorce to include desertion, cruelty and insanity. The Senate hears divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland.

At present adultery is the main ground for divorce in most provinces, cruelty is an additional ground in Nova Scotia and in some provinces certain forms of perversion are also a ground.

Anti-Confusion Department For Albertans?

EDMONTON (CP) — Appointment of a commissioner to assist citizens who are bewildered by government methods and feel they have been wronged was recommended Wednesday to the Alberta legislature.

The recommendation was made in the report of a committee on boards and tribunals, headed by Edmonton lawyer Carl Clement, which was tabled Wednesday.

The committee was to study the power and functions of administrative boards and tribunals, whether they infringe on citizen's rights, and whether a tribunal to which aggrieved citizens could resort is needed. It was appointed by the legislature last year.

'A HELPING HAND'

In recommending a commissioner of the legislature, the committee said it learned of a number of instances in which a commissioner "could have lent a helping hand."

If appointed, a commissioner would report annually to the legislature and be accountable to it. His job would be to assist the ordinary citizen "bewildered by the complexities of departmental government who feels he has been done an injustice."

COMMITTEE UNANIMOUS

The committee said it was unanimous that there should be right of appeal to the Alberta Supreme Court on questions of jurisdiction or law arising from board decisions.

It said some boards, notably the public utilities board and the oil and gas conservation board, have "generally acceptable" procedures. However, there is no uniform standard and many tribunals have failed to establish acceptable procedures.

The committee said it could make no general rule on the right to appeal on facts, but there should be the right to appeal compensation awards for expropriation of property.

William Dickie (L — Calgary Glenmore), one of the committee members, dissented from the majority on the matter of appeals. He said he favored full appeals to the appeal court.

Up 6.4 Per Cent

Union Strength Shows Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade union membership in Canada increased 6.4 per cent to reach 1,588,755 early in 1965, a federal labor department survey shows. A year earlier it stood at 1,493,173.

The survey, issued Wednesday, said the total represented 29.7 per cent of all non-farm paid workers in the country. In 1964 this percentage was 29.4.

All figures are based on reports from union locals on January membership lists in the survey year.

CLC SHOWS RISE

Canadian Labor Congress unions claimed 1,181,147 members, an increase of 75,000 or 6.8 per cent. The CLC's Quebec based rival, the Confederation of National Trade Unions, reported 150,053 members for a jump of 28,500 or 23.5 per cent.

Currently the CLC puts its membership at 1,250,000 and the CNTU is claiming close to 200,000.

'BIG 10' STAY

The "big 10" list of individual unions remained unchanged between 1964 and 1965 although some of the positions were juggled. Together they accounted for 36 per cent of all union membership.

Still on top was the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) with 110,000 members.

The other nine, in order of size: Canadian Union of Public Employees, 84,800; United Auto Workers, 77,500; United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, 64,000; International Woodworkers of America 43,600; International Brotherhood of Teamsters, 42,400; International Association of Machinists, 41,200; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, 38,000; International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, 36,900; Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, 32,100.

TEAMSTERS 'OUT'

All of the big 10 are affiliated with the CLC except the Teamsters union which was expelled from the congress in 1960 for raiding.

Biggest numerical gain in the year went to the auto workers, up 14,000. The steelworkers added 8,000.

Sharpest membership drop was 3,600 by the 10th-place CBRT, reflecting its displacement by the CNTU as the bargaining agent for Montreal bus and street car workers.

The 110 international unions active in Canada accounted for 70.8 per cent of total membership, down from 71.1 per cent in 1964.

Target: Redistribution

Caouette Maps Revolt

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste Leader Caouette plans to lead an all-out backbenchers' revolt in the Commons against the electoral maps drawn up by 10 independent commissions.

He said in an interview Wednesday he is sponsoring a bill to repeal the 1965 act setting up the commissions and to turn the redistribution of constituencies back to a Commons committee.

The bill has been handed to the Commons clerk and is expected to be introduced Friday. Normally it would drop to the bottom of a list of 117 private members' bills and would be unlikely to come up for debate before the session ends.

But Mr. Caouette said his proposal has widespread support among Liberal and opposition MPs and he has opened talks aimed at getting priority for his bill through an all-party agreement.

A total of 158 MPs from all five parties and from all provinces, a clear majority in the 265-seat House, have signed 27 separate petitions for a debate to air objections to the maps proposed by the 10 redistribution commissions.

The redistribution debate must open within two months under an amendment to the redistribution legislation passed two weeks ago.

VOID MAPS

Mr. Caouette hopes his bill will come up before then and that the maps drawn up by the commissions, one for each province, will be declared null and void.

If his bill is not passed, his nine-man group will wage an all-out battle to block the commission reports, he said.

He charged that the Quebec commission, headed by Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet of the Montreal Superior Court, made "unfair, foolish and unsatisfactory" changes in constituency boundaries.

IGNORED SUGGESTIONS

He said the four-man commission ignored suggestions made by MPs and others at public hearings last year and came under the influence of a handful of high-ranking Liberal politicians.

The Creditiste leader is particularly incensed over a proposal to change the name and borders of his Villeneuve riding, even though its population is close to the average.

A new riding of Villeneuve will be created in the Northwest Quebec mining district and Mr. Caouette's home base of Rouyn-Noranda will be merged with the sprawling rural area to the south to form a new riding of Temiscamingue.

Mr. Caouette said the MPs themselves are the best qualified to redraw the electoral map in line with population shifts. This was the practice followed after every census beginning in 1901.

In Colombia Andes

Bank That Flies Gives Service To Cowpunchers

By CANADIAN PRESS CORRESPONDENT

BOGOTA, Colombia (CP) — Capt. Fabio Ramirez has unusual landing instructions as an air force transport pilot:

Don't break the bank.

The instructions make sense.

He flies a bank—the recently-inaugurated Aevobanco, an offshoot of the Bank of Bogota.

Aerobanco is bringing banking facilities to a 270,000-square-mile area of trackless cattle plains and jungle east of the Colombian Andes.

The vast territory, comprising 56.6 per cent of the land area of this country, but home to only 2.6 per cent of its 18,000,000 population, has been described by President Jorge Mejia Salazar of the Bank of Bogota as "economically still in the 18th century."

Until a few months ago it was terra incognita to bankers.

In a bucket-seat C-47 leased from the transport arm of the Colombian Air Force, Aerobanco now lands once a week at each of 10 far-flung cowtowns on the horizon-to-horizon llanos, as the plains are termed in Spanish.

Small Bank

The bank proper consists of a leather case about 12 by 12 by 18 inches, with a pouch on the end for a pistol.

Before each day's flying the aeroteller loads the case with the account records of every client in the towns to be visited that day, all documents necessary for opening accounts, plus chequebooks and cash sufficient to meet anticipated demands.

Coaxing llaneros, as the riders of the unfenced plains are called, into the chequebook era is a multifaceted task.

One facet: the schoolteacher in several lonely llano towns is conducting after - hours adult classes in name-writing.

The Aerobanco has had several cases of clients coming to deposit 20,000 pesos or more, yet scarcely able to fashion their signature on the documents. (Official rate for the peso is nine to the United States dollar. Free rate is about 18.50.)

Big Incentive

A prime incentive for the Aerobanco is the number of hoards of up to 500,000 pesos in cash which not a few llaneros are known to have stashed away in a trunk on their hacienda, where distances are not measured in miles but in horseback-days.

In addition to all orthodox banking services, Aerobanco will fetch and carry for its clients. This includes such chores as buying a spare part for a piece of farm machinery in Bogota, and delivering it on the next weekly flight; or taking out a newspaper subscription, or providing the services of an agronomist or veterinarian.

The llaneros are still pretty much in the 18th century in their herd and crop techniques, as well as their banking.

Is Ignored

One service offered by Aerobanco remains conspicuously ignored—the joint account.

The llanos remain, as they always have been, a man's country.

If and when the Aerobanco prys loose those 500,000 - peso nesteggs it will not be because their hacendado owners feel apprehensive.

Provided you can accept cattle rustling as a peccadillo rather than a misdeed, llaneros have a name for honesty compared to which the noblest TV western hero shapes up as a card-sharp.

The whereabouts of several of the 500,000-peso fortunes has long been common knowledge. No robber has tried to touch them.

Life on the llanos give singular aspects to the new banking operator.

Cattlemen and their cowboys ride together, sharing work and weather, the same cowponies and the same range rig—sandalled feet in conquisador-pattern stirrups, pants rolled pirate-high on the calf, open shirt, a black stetson and often a black gunbelt and packed holster.

Odd Group

When such a range - dusty group canters up to the table where the aeroteller has set his case there is no way for a stranger to tell who has the big deposit wadded in his belt and who are the cowboys with no more business in mind than to tether their horses outside the bar.

In Orocue, on the River Meta, such divergence of purpose does not split the party.

Big city bankers striving in their marble halls for a more relaxed image to coax new clients have a lot to learn from Orocue.

Though Aerobanco's llanos operation started only in late October, before Christmas cheques were making their appearance in cattle-buying negotiations which for centuries had been based on barter, cash or a llanero's word.

Expansion

Now the service is being expanded to the jungle region which extends from the edge of the llanos to the Amazon.

Cattle observe no weekend. Neither does the flying bank.

In Cravo Norte, a sun-scorched cluster of about 50 buildings which lacks even a road leading out of town, the aeroteller can be found Sundays. He does business amid the sacks of coffee and corn, and the dangling bridles, in the riverfront general store.

If the day's schedule has involved an early takeoff, his assistant manager may be found waist-deep in the river out front, shaving.

Nor does Aerobanco open for business with the hushed parting of brassbound portals. Ramirez sets the mangoes to shaking with a treetop pass over town, and the bank is open to its clients in just the time it takes him to circle and alight on the adjacent llanos.

Aerobanco is unusual in another way.

Is there another bank whose success depends on the staff taking off with the money?

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government received $1,385,837 from pari-mutual betting at Canadian race tracks in 1965, Agriculture Minister Green said in answer to questions from Robert C. Coates (PC—Cumberland). Of this $849,599 came from thoroughbred racing.

Garden Notes

Peonies Need Help

By M. V. CHESNUT

Because I garden for fun more than for profit or to impress the neighbors, I must confess that a lot of my gardening operations are a bit on the haphazard side — so haphazard, in fact, that my neighbor, Ernie, describes my garden maintenance as downright shiftless. He could be right, for there are a lot of preventive spraying, dustings and prunings that never seem to get done, for I can always think of something more interesting to do when these dull chores are due.

By sad experience, though, I have learned that at least one of these recommended preventive measures is not just a lot of book theory but absolutely essential — in my garden anyhow—and come hell or high water, my peonies are nursed like newborn babies when their little red noses come poking through the soil surface every spring, otherwise the flower buds dry up and I get no blooms.

This is due to botrytis, a fungus disease of peonies that is becoming increasingly common hereabouts, and every summer I get literally hundreds of letters from readers complaining that the plants fail to bloom. As there are no early symptoms, there is no way of knowing whether or not your plants are affected until the flower buds dry up without opening.

Fortunately, the botrytis disease never infects the roots of your peonies. The spores spend the winter on the old dead stems, usually down near soil level, and in the spring they re-infect the new young shoots as they push up through the soil surface. Fungus diseases are very hard to cure but fairly easy to prevent, and as your peonies have to "catch" the infection all over again every spring, we have an excellent chance to protect our plants and bring them safely through the danger period.

The protective measures against botrytis should really start in the fall by cutting away every scrap of old topgrowth and burning it, leaving no stubs sticking up to harbor the overwintering disease spores.

In the spring, first thing to do, before the first shoots emerge, is to houseclean the soil surface, making sure the ground around your peonies is as clean as your kitchen floor. Make sure none of last year's dead topgrowth remains, and rake up all fallen leaves and twigs, consigning all this litter to the incinerator. During this cleaning, you may actually see the disease, in the form of sooty black patches on this rubbish, especially near the base of old peony stems.

Follow this up by giving your peonies a square meal, and for this purpose I don't know of anything better than a mixture of equal parts bone meal and wood ashes; if there are bits of charred wood and charcoal in the ashes, so much the better. Each plant will take about four cupfuls of the mixture, scratching it into the soil surface around the outside perimeter of the clump. A good substitute for these materials is Sturdy, a Blue Whale liquid fertilizer formulated without nitrogen.

With the peony bed housecleaned and the plants fed a high-potash diet to increase disease resistance, the final move is to spray the emerging shoots and the surrounding soil with a mild household disinfectant to kill off any disease spores which may have escaped our attention. While a proper garden fungicide such as captan is the normal medication against most plant diseases, I have found that a simple household disinfectant from the bathroom shelf does a satisfactory job. Use Creolin, Creocide, Jeyes Fluid, Lysol, Dettol or the like, one tablespoon per gallon of water.

ART BUCHWALD And Airline Rate War

Normality at a Discount

The U.S. airlines have been promoting all sorts of special fares lately and it's very bewildering when you're planning to take a trip, particularly since there are so many restrictions involved.

I discovered this when I called an airline the other day and said I wanted two seats to California.

"Very well. We can give you a special rate if you fly between Monday and Friday and promise not to smoke over Salt Lake City."

"I promise. What rate can I get?"

"You don't happen to be an American Indian, do you?"

"No."

"That's too bad, because if you were an American Indian and left at four o'clock in the morning and returned at three o'clock the next morning, we could give you 33 1-3 per cent off."

"Gee, that's too bad," I said. "Do you have any other special fares?"

"We can give you 20 per cent off if you've been married for 50 years to the same person, provided you fly to California on your anniversary and return on the same day."

"That doesn't fit me. What else have you got?"

"There is our special weekend flight free. If you're a practicing neuro-surgeon going to or from a brain operation, you're entitled to a 10 per cent discount."

"Neuro-surgeons get all the breaks," I complained. "Don't you have any other special fares I could take advantage of?"

"Here's one," she said. "It's good from Monday evening till Wednesday noon. If you're an ambassador to any Scandinavian country and you're on home leave, you're entitled to first class meals in the tourist section of the plane."

* * *

"I'm afraid I wouldn't qualify for that. Incidentally, I'm travelling with my wife."

"Well, why didn't you say so?" she said excitedly. "Is she under 21 years of age?"

"I'm not sure," I replied.

"Well, if she was and you both left on a week day and neigher of you had sinus conditions, you would be entitled to a discount."

"That sounds good."

"Of course, if she was pregnant and you both came from a place that didn't have an o in it, you could get an extra 5 per cent, unless this happened to be your first child."

"I guess that eliminates us."

"You give up too easily," she said. "Are either one of you students?"

"No."

"If you were and happened to be studying animal husbandry I could give you each 45 per cent off, if you flew on Friday the 13th."

"I can't qualify for that one."

"We still have some other special discount flights," she said. "If you're a Rhodes scholar majoring in the humanities and you have two children, you can take our coach service any time after midnight on the Fourth of July for one-third less."

"Couldn't you just make out two tickets to California at the regular rate?"

"I'm sorry," she said, "I've never made out that kind of ticket. You'll have to talk to my supervisor."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Debbie Sweet, Tough

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Debbie Reynolds looks so sweet, but this girl has always had a hard head on those fragile shoulders. She has decided she will make only one big picture a year, of Radio City music hall calibre. Debbie, married to millionaire Harry Karl, is a girl who can afford to choose. If there were a contest as to which movie actress has the most jewels, Debbie would be pretty near the top. Karl, who makes shoes, loves to shower his wife with the most enormous diamonds. Maureen O'Hara would be in the first five. Maureen goes for emeralds and rubies, with diamonds on the sides. Barbara Stanwyck and Joan Crawford could light up a dark room, ensemble or alone. Sandra Dee is coming up. But most of the young stars today don't seem to care for gems or fine clothes, except on very special occasions. Old-time stars like Paulette Goddard and Merle Oberon have work-day diamonds and special-day diamonds. But not one of them can match Phyllis Diller's recent present to herself, a ring with 52 carats.

What do Cary Grant's daughter and Elizabeth Taylor have in common? The same birthday, that's what. Feb. 27. And with Cary as pop and Dyan Cannon as mom the little girl is likely to be just as beautiful. Let us pray she will have a calmer life.

Mike Todd, Jr., with six children to support and a penchant for long cigars, was saying in London that his dad's Around the World in 80 days has never stopped making money since it was released all over the world with the flamboyant Mike Senior and Elizabeth Taylor in tow to bring the glamor . . . By the way, when they get around to filming Richard Burton's version of Doctor Faustus, Miss Taylor—as Helen of Troy—will have some dialogue to speak. As you know, she was silent in the stage version at Oxford.

Christopher Lee, the villainous star of The Brides of Fu Manchu, has nine girls of mixed backgrounds and as many countries to woo and kill. Fu never places a hand on his victims, which is a pity because he is very handsome. He merely nods to an intermediary before his captive is garrotted or dropped into a pit of serpents. The series has become so successful that a third and fourth is being plannned, one for the Orient.

* * *

Neil Simon, who celebrated his Sweet Charity success by buying a town house in New York, has been visiting with Peter Sellers in London, about the original film he is writing for him.

* * *

Robert Ryan was discussing his drinking habits (don't get Robert wrong, he was never a drunk, but he was explaining how a habit can become dangerous): "After a day's work in the studio, I would take a drink or two to relax, then I was taking four drinks, then six, then eight. It was becoming the big event of the day. When I realized this I gave it up, practically. I simply got tired of bending my elbow."

Charity Begins...

DR. STUART ROSENBERG

Words are important not only for what they mean but for what they don't mean.

Take the word charity. The dictionary will tell you that charity is synonymous with almsgiving. But when the Hebrew Bible used that word it meant something entirely different.

Charity was first and foremost an attitude towards life, based upon righteousness and justice. What a world of difference between that and the dictionary definition.

If charity is but the offering of alms to the needy, it is an affair of the heart, a sweet sentiment of pity. But only a sentiment.

The fluttering heart may utter its heavy sighs. And for a fleeting flash we are seized by an overwhelming mood of mercy. So we drop our coins or write our cheques and we are done. We return quickly to our business as usual.

Some of us are overcome by our own mercy. We even talk about our "charity," and sometimes seek recognition for it. After all, we learn to tell ourselves, we really didn't have to do it!

But when the Bible speaks of charity it has something else in mind. Charity isn't optional any more than is justice.

You don't give charity, you live charitably.

You're not charitable because you're a big-hearted fellow who does more than he should. You're charitable only when you do what you know you must do. Charity isn't a gift, it's a deed.

"I was taught," one man complained, "that if I learned to do the right thing, I would gain the secret of happiness and achieve the serenity which goodness brings. I have not found this to be true. I am tired of doing the right things when I don't get rewards I believe I'm entitled to!"

"I see your difficulty," his friend replied. "There is something much deeper that you have not learned. It is not enough to do the right things. If you seek happiness and personal fulfillment, you must learn to enjoy doing them!"

Here is the real significance of charity: the joyful giver is grateful for not having to receive. He delights in taking tokens of his own blessing and putting out his hand in helpfulness.

But even giving, it has been wisely said, is not the real essence of charity; it is the delicacy of our feeling that counts. For the Scripture does not say, "Happy is he who giveth to the poor," but rather, "Happy is he who wisely considereth the poor."

Regrettably, modern philanthropy often misses the spiritual mark. Many people do acts of charity. But how many enjoy doing them? So many of us strike bargains with conscience, and "give to charity," as if it were a kind of trade or transaction arranged with an eye to the balance sheet.

Righteous acts of charity, done mechanically, unaccompanied by the thrill of helpfulness and the sense of humanity which come from participating in another's need, can only lead to boring and dull self-righteousness.

"I did my duty, didn't I?" One can hear on all sides this famous complaint of "unhappy saints." The point is: how did you do your duty? Listlessly and methodically? Only because you could not retreat from it? Or was there something singing within you? Was there an inner buoyancy, a spiritual delight which continues to glow even in the darkest hours?

False-Cheque Casher Faces Deportation

A United States citizen wanted by the FBI cashed seven false cheques in downtown Victoria last month and received goods and cash totalling $123.69.

Patrick Lee Strandley, 23, pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Wednesday to two charges of false pretences and was jailed for nine months.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said the FBI held a warrant for Strandley, who would be "subject to deportation following the disposition here." The warrant was issued in Clearwater County, Idaho.

MORE

Det. Walter Calwell said on Feb. 11 Strandley got a watch worth $19.90 at Little and Taylor Jewellers, 1209 Douglas, and goods and cash worth $15 from British Importers, 631 Yates, with false cheques.

The following day, again with false cheques, he got a drafting board worth $25.99 from Diggon's Willson Stationery, 1401 Government, and goods and cash worth $15 from Watson's Ltd., 1435 Douglas, and W. & J. Wilson Ltd., 1221 Government.

On Feb. 14, he used valueless cheques to get $15 worth of goods and cash from Old Country Shoe Store, 635 Johnson, and Dorman's Ltd., 1328 Douglas, Det. Calwell said.

NO ACCOUNT

Det. Calwell said the cheques were drawn on the Royal Bank of Canada and Strandley signed them Patrick Leo Hozeimer.

Strandley did not have an account at the bank under either name, court was told.

Mr. Birkett said Strandley had previous convictions for possession of stolen goods and theft over $50.

Swynarchuk pleaded guilty to getting a tire worth $29.65 and 6.8 gallons of gas by false pretences from a service station in Prince Rupert Sept. 14, 1965.

He used a credit card which had been reported stolen, court was told.

Swynarchuk told the court he was at present in William Head serving a two-year sentence for false pretences. He said he had been convicted in Burnaby last November and the charges were related to the stolen credit card.

Magisrate Ostler sentenced him to six months in jail, the term to be served concurrently with the two-year term.

Myrtle Butts, 115 pounds, had an argument with sister-in-law Dorothy Butts, 145 pounds, in Myrtle Butts' home Feb. 13.

Myrtle Butts, 623 Manchester, was found guilty by Magistrate Ostler of assaulting her sister-in-law causing bodily harm and was remanded to March 16 for a pre-sentence report.

Myrtle Butts told the court that her sister-in-law struck her on the shoulder so she grabbed her by the hair and "drove at her with my fist."

However, she said, she didn't know she had a beer glass in her hand.

Dorothy Butts said she was taken to hospital and received stitches to close cuts above her left eye, on her cheek and nose.

William Patrick Beatty, 2945 Admirals, was jailed for one month for attempting to steal gasoline from a house on Fulton Road Feb. 28.

He pleaded guilty last week and was remanded then for pre-sentence report.

A prank on the last day of Christmas examinations brought Alexander Archibald of Sidney to court on a charge of public mischief.

Archibald was convicted by Magistrate Ostler and fined $50.

Court was told that Archibald had claimed he had stolen the car in which he was involved in an accident Dec. 18.

LOANED

Constable Leslie Huckin said an investigation followed this claim but it was found the car had been lent to Archibald by a friend.

Archibald told police he had given the false information because he did not want to get his friend into trouble.

Nineteen-year-old Francis Paul Harrison was spoiled, and had no motivation and was not trying, said Magistrate Ostler.

Magistrate Ostler passed a suspended sentence and placed Harrison on probation and a good behavior bond for 18 months.

Robert Duff was asked to leave a house on Wilkinson Road Jan. 15 and police found him intoxicated and with bottles of beer in his overcoat pockets.

Duff, 537 Burnside East, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor and was fined $35.

A routine road check Jan. 29 found John Joe with a part bottle of beer at his feet.

Joe, 604 Wilson, pleaded guilty to being a minor in possession of liquor and was fined $40. Police also found two full cases of beer in the trunk of Joe's car, court was told.

New Future For 'Garden'

NEW YORK (AP)—Madison Square Garden, the famed sports arena soon to be demolished, will become the site of an elaborate "cinema centre."

The new film site, to cover a block-square area in midtown Manhatten, will include twin 39-storey office towers, film-making studios for motion pictures and television and six theatres, two for stage productions.

Appeal Election

The election was made last week at the first meeting of the 1966 executive.

Other top office holders are Ray Kulai, first vice-president; Irvine String, second vice-president; Glen Phillips, honorary treasurer; and Mrs. Margaret Strongitharm, honorary secretary.

Ralph Hutchinson is immediate past president.

Imports Hit Record High

OTTAWA (CP)—Imports rose last year to a record $8,638,600,000, more than 15 per cent above the previous high in 1964, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

Exports, previously reported by the bureau, amounted to $8,764,500,000 last year, up nearly 12 per cent from 1964.

Warmer Inside

MEADVILLE, Pa. (AP) — When Mrs. Charles Waltenbaugh pulled into a service station for gas after driving her son five miles to school, the attendant lifted the hood and found a live, full-grown rabbit perched atop the motor.

Cong Hordes Swamp 'Alamo'

SAIGON (UPI) — Hordes of Viet Cong overran an American Special Forces camp near the Laotian border Thursday and inflicted heavy casualties on an outnumbered American Green Beret and Montagnard tribesmen's garrison that battled gallantly down to its last bullets in an Alamo-like defence.

It was reported that some of the Americans and their allies, the wiry mountain tribesmen who make their home deep in Communist-controlled country, had been evacuated as the Viet Cong swept through the flaming outpost. There were no immediate details.

The Special Forces camp, at A Shau, situated astride a major infiltration route into South Viet Nam from Laos, about 325 miles north-northwest of Saigon, had been under heavy attack all day Wednesday and reported ammunition and medical supplies desperately low.

THROUGH WIRE

Attacking furiously behind mortars, automatic weapons and small arms fire, the Communists finally swept through the camp's barbed wire perimeter before dawn Thursday.

Up to two Communist battalions—between 1,000 and 1,200

Blast Rocks Three States

CORNING, Ark. (AP) — At least one car of a munitions-packed freight train mysteriously blew up near Corning early Wednesday with a thunderous shock felt in three states.

A metal and concrete grain elevator, dimpled by shrapnel, battered and shredded in spots, shielded the town of 2,565 from the full force of the blast.

Authorities report only one injury, not serious.

Enlarged Glands Cancer-Free

By HARRY NELSON

No cancer has been found in a group of children with enlarged thyroid glands living in the path of fallout from the Nevada nuclear test site, it was learned Wednesday.

The children live in Washington County, Utah, an area said to have received during atomic tests in the 1950s the highest amount of fallout of any part of the nation.

Last Oct. 27 the U.S. Public Health Service reported that twice as many children living in the area in southern Utah have lumps on their thyroid glands as do children living in a region that has received no fallout from the Nevada tests.

The lumps are not due to cancer, it was reported, but the cause is not yet known.

Forces to Go Below 100,000

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Strength of the armed forces is expected to fall to 100,000 or fewer but basic defence commitments will continue to be met, officials said Wednesday.

Basic commitments means Canada's contributions to the ground, air and sea commands of the North Atlantic Alliance and to North American air defence.

Since July 1, 1964, the armed forces have experienced a monthly net manpower loss of some 600 personnel.

RATE SPEEDED UP

This rate increased in January to 810 when manpower strength fell to 108,157 from 108,967 at Dec. 31, 1965.

Officials said losses are expected to continue for several months though the re-engagement bonuses announced Feb. 18 should slow the exodus.

NO END YET

Authorities said they don't know at what point the losses will be halted. One source said strength may drop off to some 95,000 by summer. February figures are not yet available.

The defence department attributes the number of drop-outs to good economic conditions. The Conservatives attribute it to poor morale brought on by the uncertainties surrounding integration of the forces command and trades structures.

BOOMERANGED

When Defence Minister Hellyer took over the defence portfolio in 1963, manpower strength was 123,270 servicemen. When integration began it was 119,098 and Mr. Hellyer said some 10,000 would be cut from the roster to make administrative savings. This reduction was achieved far ahead of schedule but hasn't stopped.

Officials said pay increases, especially for pilots, will be granted soon.

Honeymoon In Canada For Beatrix?

A source close to government and royal house said Wednesday they are going westward. He refused to confirm it was Canada but denied it would be the United States.

The princess spent her early childhood in Ottawa during the war years, when the royal family went into exile.

Among the early well-wishers of the bridal couple was a Canadian Pacific Airlines message:

It was signed by CPA President J. C. Gilmore.

The honeymoon has so far been the best-kept wedding secret in Amsterdam. Earlier speculations said Beatrix and Claus would fly to Tanzania where Prince Bernhard owns a farm. Others guessed it would be in the Mexican villa of former president Lopez Mateos.

Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard in 1937 decieved all reporters and turned up in the Carpathian Mountains for a skiing trip.

One unpleasant note was sounded when an angry mob of about 500 youths screaming "fascists" battled with police outside the Dutch royal palace only hours before the wedding.

Nightclub-swinging police stormed into the mob in front of the palace in dam square. A number of youths were reported to have been clubbed. None was believed injured seriously.

Bandits Nab $500,000 In Gems

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Four nattily-dressed, pistol-brandishing bandits held up a downtown jewelry firm Wednesday and escaped with an estimated $500,000 in gems.

The men, all wearing gloves and sunglasses, entered Davidson & Licht jewelry store and ordered all employees to file downstairs to a basement office. No customers were in the store.

The gunmen directed credit manager Emil Frederick, 57, to open the basement safe. They took about $300 from the vault.

The robbers forced owner Arthur Licht to go oupstairs and open a vault there. They stuffed hundreds of gems into a valise and went back downstairs. One of the bandits discovered that Licht had not opened all of the safe compartments.

They ordered him back upstairs to the vault where they took the rest of the loot.

The robbers escaped unnoticed into the crowd of downtown shippers.

A police spokesman said, "They obviously knew what they were after and where it was kept. They're probably out of the country by now."

Cardin Saves Pearson

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

In an interview Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin, who could smile again after his five-day ordeal, was asked why he withdrew his resignation.

"If I had left," he replied, "It is my view that Mr. Pearson would have left. And others. And the government would have fallen.

PARTY HAPPY

"Nobody wanted that to happen.

"That is why the party was so happy with the decision I took not to resign.

"I don't think the government can afford another election, nor do I think there is any alternative to our continuing to govern the country."

Mr. Cardin still disagrees with Mr. Pearson's action in allowing a partial judicial inquiry into the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

NOT RIGHT

But he was sure that Mr. Pearson thought it was the right decision when he took it.

"He was trying to satisfy public opinion that the government had nothing to hide in the case," Mr. Cardin said.

"I knew this, and so did anyone close to the problem. But I don't think it is right that we are pushed to set up all sorts of royal commissions and inquiries every time the opposition doesn't like our decision."

Mr. Cardin sent his resignation by messenger to the prime minister at noon Tuesday.

NOT OPENED

Mr. Pearson did not even open it. He knew what was in it. The two men had met the night before and they met again on Tuesday night.

Ottawa Can Pay Salaries

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

Parliament had finally approved the expenditures for 1965-66 and the financial crisis was over.

At precisely one minute before the House was to adjourn Wednesday the House approved the last estimated expenditure of the department of fisheries, ending a 22-day tumultuous debate of expenditures.

RUSHED THROUGH

Government House leader George McIlraith had warned that if the estimates did not go through Wednesday the civil servants could not have been paid on time.

So in spite of untimely delays in past debates, members of all parties rushed through the last multi-million dollars.

In about two hours they approved spending of the secre-

Cruelty Charges Prepared Against Baby Seal Hunters

By HARRY CALNEK

HALIFAX (CP) — A humane society officer said Wednesday he will lay criminal charges against three Magdalen Island seal hunters for "deliberate, sadistic, stupid cruelty" in killing seal pups.

Tom Hughes of Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society, said he did not consider the incident indicative of the entire seal hunt. But he said it involved 59 baby seals that were being skinned alive.

Another humane society officer, Brian Davies of Fredericton, and veterinarian Dr. Elizabeth Simpson of Ottawa, said they "could not conceive" of the hunt ever being humane.

SKINNED ALIVE

They said they observed seals being skinned alive and even when the pups were properly killed, they suffered "mortal terror" before their death.

In another development Andre Fleury of Montreal said in a telephone interview from Cap-aux-Meules, Que., that part of a film he produced on the hunt had been staged before the season opened and with permission of a federal fisheries officer.

The scenes staged before the season showed adult seals being shot with high-powered rifles, he said. The scenes showing pups being skinned alive were shot by cameramen accompanying hunters on the ice.

He said, however, that he felt these scenes were outdated and did not represent the hunt as it is today with government control and a quota of 50,000 pup skins. Fisheries officials stopped the hunt at 6 p.m. Wednesday when the quota was reached.

Mr. Hughes said he found nine seal pups "obviously alive and bleeding profusely from the nose and head and only partially stunned."

"We found another 50 not skinned but cut and bleeding from the throat and neck. They were alive. There was no need for it. It was just bloody, stupid, sadistic, cruelty.

PUPS TORPID

"At this time of year the pups are torpid. Many of them have been deserted by the mothers and are living on their blubber. You can roll them over with your foot."

Dr. Simpson, 26, a petite blonde who leaped from ice floe to ice floe to follow the hunt, said 95 per cent of the pup skulls she examined where the hunters, known as swilers, were being observed had been crushed and the brain damage was irreparable.

DIFFERENT STORY

"But when we went a half-mile away where they weren't being observed, I found 50 per cent of the skulls were not crushed.

"I definitely saw a baby seal being skinned alive. It lifted its head and looked at us. I don't think the hunters know it. I talked to them and most of them are very gentle men. They admit freely that they find it repulsive."

Dial-a-Taxman Proves Big Hit

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax collector at times is like the fat kid at school.

He tries to make friends by making little jokes of offering to help with homework, but all he gets is hollow laughter and suspicion.

"It makes you cry, almost," an official of the national revenue department's taxation division said Wednesday.

But some of the officials of this tax-collecting department are starting to smile through their tears at the success of an experimental service begun in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa, and soon to be extended to Brampton and Quebec City.

Taxpayers in these centres can call up their tax office on certain nights and pour out their hearts to a sympathetic expert.

"It's part of a long-range plan to take away the hesitation and fear that people have," an official said. "We want people to come to us with their problems."

Folks have been dropping into the tax office during day business hours for years, but it's hard for office workers to lick the lineup in their lunch hour and not everyone has access to a phone.

"We schedule the night services for the early part of the week—Monday to Wednesday—because it's usually during the weekend that the taxpayer has started to do his return."

The program has been a smash hit. In Calgary, where it ran for three hours on three nights last week, office staff had to be increased to 10 from three to cope with all the questions.

In Vancouver, 720 taxpayers rang up the first night. Ottawan's squeezed 178 calls into two hours.

Officials hope the phone service and the over-the-counter counselling stations to be opened in Brampton and Quebec City shopping centres will reduce the number of wrong returns—there were 1,018,998 for the 1961 taxation year.

The government refunded $14,000,000 last year to 350,000 happy people, many of whom were confused in making their returns and made mistakes in the government's favor.

The others who made mistakes in their own favor? Well, the tax fellows are more embarrassed, really, than mad at them.

NDPers Spray Richter, Charge:

Pesticide Threat Shunned

Richter

Hazzen

Agriculture Minister Richter was bitterly criticized in the legislature Wednesday for not taking comprehensive counter measures against the threat of pesticide contamination in B.C.

The attack was launched by Mrs. Lois Haggen (NDP, Grand Forks-Greenwood) who accused the minister of being more concerned with "glorifying" his own position in the cabinet than in assisting the owners of three farms in her riding which were temporarily closed because of contamination.

Leo Nimsick (NDP, Cranbrook) said that if there was danger of contamination elsewhere in the province, "we should stop using pesticides until we know where we stand."

WANT 'FAIR DEAL'

In the debate which raged most of the afternoon before the agriculture minister's salary vote was finally approved, Liberal leader Perrault said, "What the opposition is fighting for today is merely a fair deal for these farmers."

Randolph Harding (NDP, Kaslo-Slocan) repeatedly hammered the minister with questions about who was studying the pesticide problem, how many were at work on it and where they were conducting research.

David Stupich (NDP, Nanaimo-The Islands) told the House that all the minister had done in the Grand Forks agricultural crisis was to "urge the member (Mrs. Haggen) . . . not to say anything and maybe the problem would go away."

Mr. Richter shouted into his microphone: "There is no place in the world where there is knowledge of how to dissipate this from the soil.

'HACK, HACK, HACK'

"This is a far bigger problem to me than to you, because I have the responsibility. And all you've done is hack, hack, hack at me for the past 24 hours."

The minister said there was not a great deal of information about how the pesticide contamination, which affect's an animal's fat tissues, could be dissipated from the soil.

RESEARCH UNDERWAY

Trade Minister Loffmark told the House that the contamination problem "has to be attacked on a continental basis" and that the United States had given a grant toward pesticide research being carried out by the B.C. Research Council.

Opposition Leader Strachan charged Mr. Richter was "being hamstrung into taking no action by the pinchpenny attitude of the minister of finance."

'A MATTRESS'

He said the department of agriculture "has been used for years and years as a mattress into which to stuff surplus funds."

Recreation Minister Kiernan, a former minister of agriculture, rebuked the opposition: "I'm not going to sit here quietly and see this type of misinformed abuse heaped upon the minister."

FARMERS 'VICTIMS'

Dr. Pat McGeer (L. Vancouver Point Grey) said the Grand Forks dairy farmers were "victims of incomplete knowledge and inexact science" and were entitled to compensation.

Mrs. Haggen told the House that the information which she presented and which touched off the fiery debate could be found in the agriculture department's files as well as her own.

Island Dayliner Fate Awaits CPR Study

Fate of the E & N Railway's Dayliner service from Victoria to Courtenay will be determined by a study just started by CPR officials.

A spokesman in Vancouver said Wednesday it was much too early to determine what action would be taken with the diesel cars that make the return trip daily between Victoria and Courtenay, except on Sunday.

Another company official said it was difficult to figure the number of passengers carried aboard the Dayliner. "Let me put it this way: it is never crowded," he said.

A spokesman for the retail merchants group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said the volume of up-Island shoppers in Victoria was continually growing, but merchants believe the shoppers drive to Victoria by car or bus.

One man with relatives living up-Island said they used the Dayliner often when travelling, and almost always had it to themselves.

An up-Island resident suggested it would be a pity to scrap the service, as it was an excellent way to get to Victoria during the bad weather in the winter.

"We carry copies of their schedule and each year quite a lot go out," said Victoria Visitors' Bureau chief Mike Heppel.

Announcement of the study was made from Ottawa by CPR president R. A. Emerson, who said the line was one of several under study with a view to closure.

In addition to the engineer and conductor, about eight railway employees sell tickets for the line at its various stops. They are also employed on other company work.

Nanaimo Club Hears Viet Nam Expert

'U.S. Must Stay But Can't Win'

NANAIMO — The United States cannot hope to win the war in Viet Nam, but should not pull out, claims a former member of the Canadian delegation in Viet Nam.

"I don't subscribe to unconditional withdrawal of United States troops.

"There are a number of South Vietnamese who don't want communism and they can't be left now," retired RCN Commander Bob Dewhirst said.

Commander Dewhirst, a Victoria resident who represents a brewery company, was a member of the military component of the Canadian delegation to Viet Nam in 1964.

Solution to the problem must be through diplomatic negotiation, he maintained.

If the war is continued to be fought with conventional weapons it can only end in a stalemate.

North Viet Nam is not strong enough to push the United States out, but neither can America hope to win.

"For every U.S. serviceman landed in Viet Nam, the North Vietnamese can easily infiltrate equal numbers.

"The recent peace feelers put out by President Johnson was the first move to bring 'his war out of the jungle.

"But the initiative now rests with Ho Chi Minh", he said.

Nevertheless Ho Chi Minh is recognized as a national hero by the people in both the north and south, for his actions during the Second World War, and his part in the war of liberation from the French.

Ho is now 76, the commander said, and when he dies a power struggle could develop.

Hanoi is drab to the point of being ugly, he said.

"I've never seen people work so hard".

"No one is stariving and unquestionably the people are better fed than people in many parts of India", he said.

Cities Bargain

PORT ALBERNI — Proposals for a new wage agreement between outside workers and the Twin Cities, have been exchanged.

R. D. Foxcroft, secretary-treasurer of Local 727 released details of the outside workers demands Tuesday.

Local 727 includes civic workers and school board employees, but present demands cover outside workers only.

- A raise in the base rate to $2.44 per hour, with up to $3.08 per hour for tradesmen.

The present base rate is $2.15 an hour. Tradesmen employed by the cities include such classifications as blackasmiths, welders, pipefitters and similar trades.

- A change in holiday pay is asked, with three weeks holiday after one year, four weeks after 10 years and five weeks after fifteen years.

The present arrangement gives two weeks holiday after one years employment, three weeks after five years and four weeks after 20 years.

- Accumulated sick leave, at the rate of one day a month, requested. This is in comparison to the present agreement which offers $30 weekly sickpay after eight working days last through illness.

- Serverance pay to the value of accumulated sick leave on retirement.

- One additional statutory holiday annually.

The employees at present have nine, and are asking for Easter Monday in addition.

- A further comprehensive clause deals with technological changes and calls for a retraining program in the event of drastic changes due to automation.

- The employees also ask for a one year agreement.

- The clause covering accumulated sick pay in one of special interest to a great many of the employees, who assert that the Twin Cities are possibly the only municipality left on Vancouver Island who do not have such a plan.

Five Brought Down

Lions Shot Near Youbou

By H. F. REA

YOUBOU — A champion catch of cougar was brought in by Frank, Dolf and Harvey Holman, Russell Stewart and one hound.

There was a report that a cougar was seen walking down a local street, recently.

So you boys from Westholme went hunting, and brought in five cats.

"I've got a good hound, and he found them. He's a cross Blue Tick and Bloodhound," said Frank, who has now brought home 84 of the mountain lions.

The men were hunting on the hillside about six miles east of Youbou and got two grown females, a yearling and two young ones.

Snow has driven the deer off the hills and the cougar come after them.

"There are too many hunters and too many cougar for the deer, I think," said the veteran hunter.

New Law Concerns Bell

Naughty Geese Thorny Issue

COURTENAY — Another city alderman has expressed doubt regarding an amendment to the pound bylaw.

Following the notorious naughty geese episode which put a man in jail for a day and brought him back to court on a second charge, the city proposed to give the poundkeeper power to enter property in the city for the purpose of seizing and impounding an animal.

NEW WORDING

Ald. Bill Bell has proposed a further amendment before third reading. He suggested the words "for the purpose of seizing and impounding" be deleted and in place use the words, "under a warrant or court order".

City Solicitor T. G. Ryan said if further amendments are suggested, the matter should be taken under advisement. He also suggested it would be better not to read the bylaw again at this time.

At a previous meeting Ald. Harry Harris had expressed doubts about the pound bylaw.

Delegations appeared at a recent meeting to protest the pound bylaw.

MUCH POWER

Pat Fox, retired RCMP member and spokesmen for the Electors Association, told aldermen he was concerned with the power proposed to be given the poundkeeper without use of a warrant. He suggested this could bring the wrath of the public.

Speaking as a private citizen he said in the past he had been a peace officer for 25 years, and at no time would he have considered entering upon a persons private property to seize and impound animals belonging to a citizen. He said he would oppose anyone attempting to enter his property and asked, "But why put a person in the position of having to oppose bylaw?"

TOTALITARIAN

Mrs. Kay Stewart told council she suggested if entry is made on private property of a citizen against his will, it should be done with a warrant.

"You should not adopt totalitarian methods", she scolded aldermen.

LAWYER PAID

Mayor George Hobson replied, "We pay a solicitor to give us good legal advice. We would be negligent if we do not accept his advice. If we don't accept his advice we should get rid of him." he added. "You don't do these things with the idea of pushing someone around."

Ald. Harris remarked this situation was different from powers of other officers, as it allowed an officer to remove someone's property.

COUNCIL NOT NEEDED?

Another argument between Mayor Hobson and Ald. Harris ensued when the mayor said he did not want the council put in a position of an alderman arguing with the solicitor. Mr. Harris replied. "If we accept the advice of our solicitor entirely then there is no need for a council."

Mrs. G. Woodward also spoke against the bylaw, saying she was "very concerned."

Gold River Road Rugged

GOLD RIVER—The condition of the road to Gold River was discussed at a recent council meeting.

Coun. Frank Grobb remarked "There are some very blind corners and if you meet someone you either drive into the hill or over the side."

This was said in discussion of the road from Camp Eight to the new Gold River bridge.

Councillors recommend that the road should be paved and that blind corners and soft shoulders be eliminated.

It is also urged that safety barriers be erected along the side of the lake.

Letters will be sent to P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways; and John Squires, Alberni MLA, giving the council's recommendations.

Universities Fund

Courtenay Gives Most

COURTENAY — Residents of this city are leading British Columbia in giving to the Three Universities Capital Fund, which entered a second round of canvassing Feb. 28.

With an estimated population of 4,000, the Vancouver Island centre contributed $20,000 to the fund during the first phase of the campaign, an average of $5 a resident.

STANDARD SET

A similar level of giving by the 1,342,290 British Colqmbians in the 85 cities, towns, municipalities and districts outside Vancouver and Victoria would provide nearly $7,000,000 to the fund, officials pointed out.

"We're hoping Courtenay's outstanding example will inspire many other B.C. cities and towns to attempt to top this fine mark during the renewed campaign," said co-chairman Allan McGavin.

DOLLARS CRUCIAL

"We still have to raise more than $8,000,000 of our $28,000,000 objective. Every dollar is crucial important to ensure that the three universities complete building programs now in full swing.

"These programs will meet only the bare essentials necessary to accommodate the soaring number of young people who will be seeking, and can benefit from, university training.

TOP PRIORITY

"It is in everyone's interest that there be no shortage of opportunities. The recent Economic Council of Canada report said education—and particularly higher education—must have the top priority if this nation is to maintain and expand its high economic and social standards."

In the Courtenay campaign, chairman M. S. Wharram turned over $16,000 in cash and pledges. Corporation division chairman Harlod E. Woodland reported gifts ranging from $500 to $1,000 from professional people and business firms in the Courtenay area.

In addition, the city council approved the fund's suggested formula for municipal gifts, and recommended that a minimum of $3,485 be paid to the fund on a population basis over the next five years.

The formula is $1 a resident over five years. Courtenay has a population of 3,485 in the 1961 census, but an estimated population of 4,000 at Jan. 1, 1965.

Cars Invade Sandown After Split at Speedway

Racing is scheduled to start on May 7 at Sandown Park this year and continue into October, but the first four months will be devoted to car racing and the thoroughbreds won't start until September.

Officials of the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association, following a parting of the ways with Andy Cottyn, owner of Western Speedway, have announced that they will race in the future at the about-to-be-constructed Sandown Park Raceways.

STARTS SOON

Construction of a hard-top racing surface, of approximately three-eighths of a mile inside the present racing strip, is scheduled to start next week.

Installation of lighting facilities and extra stands will follow and everything should be complete by the scheduled date for the opening VITRA production on Saturday, May 7. Approximately $30,000 will be spent to prepare Sandown for car racing and VITRA and the Colwood Park Racing Association have entered into a five-year contract.

RACING NEWS ON PAGE 11

NEW STANDS

New stands, seating approximately 1,500, will be erected in front of and to the left of the current grandstand to bring total seating capacity to about 3,700. Twelve lighting standards will be erected around the track and the mercury color-corrected lamps, officials claim, will provide twice the lighting at Western Speedway.

"We think the facilities we will have at Sandown will be tremendous," VITRA-president Ron Midgley said.

WARMER TOO

He pointed to the seating, improved lighting and restroom facilities, the huge parking area and better traffic conditions provided by the Pat Bay Highway. And, he said, a survey has disclosed that the average temperature at Sandown is eight degrees higher than at Western Speedway and that precipitation is 40 per cent less.

Decision to strike out on its own was forced on VITRA, Midgley said, by Cottyn's refusal to renew contracts for 1966.

"It was quite a jolt to us to suddenly find that we had no place to race," Midgley said. "We tried to reopen negotiations and when this failed we went out and made an agreement with the Colwood Park Racing Association to use Sandown. We think we will be able to provide better racing with better facilities."

VITRA will operate as a non-profit organization and, says treasurer Bob Low, one of the immediate effects will be the raising of purse monies from 38 to 50 per cent of the gross.

"The quality of racing," Low said, "is always determined by the size of the purses. We will offer 50 per cent of the gross from the start and this will eventually go up to 70 per cent or higher. We anticipate being able to pay our construction costs in two years."

The move to Sandown, VITRA officials said, has made Western Speedway an outlaw track. VITRA has received the backing of all track racing associations in the Pacific Northwest with the exception of the midget groups.

However, there will be competition for racing fans. Cottyn intends to stage midget and jalopy racing at Western Speedway plus sports car races on his new one-mile circuit.

Bowling Deadline Nearing

Countdown for The Daily Colonist's Centennial Fivepin Bonspiel, scheduled at Gibson's Recreations, March 18-20, continued yesterday.

Three more teams filed entry for the $1,500 event and with the entry deadline not until midnight tomorrow, there was still room for 11 more teams to reach the bonspiel limit of 128.

Among the three latest entries were teams from Duncan and Lake Cowichan, bringing the total Up-Island entry to 20 teams in the field of 117 which have already entered.

Czech Forwards Big Target For Canada's Hockey Team

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP) — The Canadians have worked out a plan they hope will stop Czechoslovakia in a key game of the world hockey championship tournament here today.

The substance of the plan is an effort to tie up forwards whom Canadian team officials consider to be the mainsprings of the Czech squad, Vaclav Nedomansky and Josef Golonka.

Wednesday's Results

Finland 4, United States 1.

Today's Schedule

Czechoslovakia vs. Canada (4 a.m. PST)
Russia vs. Sweden (7 a.m. PST)

Although the Canadians decline comment on Canada's prospects of winning the championship, they at least were not so openly pessimistic as Czech coach Vladimir Kostka, who has been saying for the last two days that nobody is capable of taking the title away from Russia this year.

"Thursday's game between the Canadians and us will decide second place," Kostka said flatly.

TOP FOUR IDLE

While the top four teams in the eight-team championship group were idle Wednesday, the fight began to determine who is best in the bottom half.

This is likely to be decided by the game between East Germany and the United States Friday.

East Germany won a sparkling 4-0 victory over Poland Wednesday, forward Joachim Ziesche and goalie Peter Kolbe playing star roles.

GET SECOND WIN

It was the Germans' second win in five games and gave them a good grip on fifth place.

The Poles have lost five in a row.

Finland defeated the United States 4-1 in the day's only other game in the championship group.

The opinions of Czech coach Kostka that the Russians are unbeatable and that Sweden cannot make up the ground lost in its defeat by East Germany are shared by many observers here, who see a Czech-Canadian battle for runner-up honors as the only big question yet to be settled.

The Canadian leaders, Rev. David Bauer and coach Jackie McLeod, have consistently refused to talk about final placings or anything beyond the team's next game.

Their attitude was that there would be time to worry about the Russians after the Czech game was over.

Russians Seeking Game with Habs

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (CP) — The Russian national hockey team asked the governing body of world amateur hockey Wednesday for permission to play exhibition games against Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, British president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said federation rules emphatically forbid games between amateurs and professionals and he personally is doing everything he can to discourage any games between the Russians and Montreal or any other NHL team.

The Russians, world amateur champions for the last three years and overwhelming favorites at the 1966 championship here, apparently want to prove the contention of many amateur hockey enthusiasts that the Soviet national team can beat the NHL's best.

Montreal Canadiens won the Stanley Cup last year and currently are leading the NHL.

J. David Molson, president of the Canadiens, said the NHL club is not interested in an exhibition game or series against the Russian national team under present circumstances.

"As I have said in the past, the only way for the Russians and other European teams to improve is to call a spade a spade by coming right out and declaring themselves professional.

"We can't play these teams as pros against amateurs because they are not amateurs any more than any of our NHL or minor league clubs.

Hull, Hawks Blanked Again Gamble, Leafs Chasing Them

Bobby Hull is all but a cinch to get a 51st goal before the National Hockey League season ends but if he delays it much longer, Chicago Black Hawks are going to find themselves a third-place club.

The Hawks and Toronto retread Bruce Gamble are getting nothing but shutouts these days and the result has been that the Maple Leafs are now only four points out of second place with two games in hand.

Last night's scores: Boston 3 at Montreal 1; Detroit 0 at Toronto 1; Chicago 0 at New York 1.

Last night, continually trying to set up Hull for his record-breaking goal, the Hawks were shut out for the third consecutive game, losing to the Rangers in New York, 1-0.

Since Hull tied the record Wednesday of last week, the Hawks have been blanked by Gamble, Montreal's Lorne Worsley and Cesare Maniago and haven't scored a goal in their last 185 minutes and 58 seconds. About the only consolation they have is that they're still a long way from the NHL record of eight consecutive shutouts, suffered by the 1927-28 edition of the Hawks.

Hull spent 28 minutes on the ice last night but managed to get in only two long slap shots although he was out for three power-play chances the Hawks had.

The crowd of 13,010 started off cheering for him, then most of the fans rallied behind the Rangers, who played a strong game and took the points when Earl Ingarfield drove in a 10-foot shot to finish off a neat passing play.

Although Hull's frustrations are stealing the headlines from him, Gamble continued to star for the Maple Leafs with his third shutout in the five games he has played since being called from Tulsa of the Central League.

Gamble looked a bit shaky in the first period and was lucky once in the second when a flip shot got by him and hit a post but he settled down to play solid, sometimes brilliant goal. He beat Gordie Howe three times and was alert on a quick backhand by Andy Bathgate in four of his best stops.

In last night's other game, Boston Bruins were led by two Montreal products as they ended a seven-game losing streak by beating Canadiens, 3-1, on Montreal ice.

Goalkeeper Bernie Parent was brilliant in blocking 40 shots and Gillie Marotte, a 20-year-old junior who was turned professional in mid-season, turned in a fine game on defence and scored the trying goal in the second period.

After two rather listless periods, Canadiens came to life in the final 20 minutes. They peppered Parent with 18 shots and did everything but put the puck in the net on two power-play chances.

But Parent refused to yield and the Bruins won it in that hectic period as Murray Oliver scored in the second minute and John Bucyk made sure by getting the puck into an empty net in the last minute.

Outdoorsmen Oppose Townsite

A delegation of Vancouver Island outdoorsmen opposed to location of the Western Mines townsite inside Strathcona provincial park will present a brief to a special legislative committee at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Sparkplug for the group is Keith Morton of Comox, head of the Comox District Mountaineering Club.

A caravan will head toward Victoria early Friday morning, picking up along the way delegates from the Courtenay and Campbell River Fish and Game Club, the Island Mountain Ramblers, and Nanaimo, Duncan and Victoria outdoors groups.

COLOR SLIDES

During the same hearing, Colonist outdoors editor Alec Merriman will give the committee a 20-minute showing of color slides taken at Buttle Lake and Strathcona Park.

Committee chairman William Speare (SC, Cariboo) said Wednesday the committee would go into an in-camera session after meeting with the outdoors groups and Mr. Merriman, to deliberate recommendations to the legislature about the townsite location.

Employees Poisoned

CROFTON — Two employees of Crofton pulp mill are in good condition at King's Daughters Hospital after suffering chlorine poisoning Tuesday afternoon.

Raymond Sanders of Duncan and Ronald Lennox of Duncan were working on night shift when a chlorine line developed a leak.

Mr. Sanders was in the bleech plant laboratory.

Mr. Lennox was not in the immediate area but suffered effects when the wind carried the chlorine in his direction and aggravated an earlier attack.

Personel manager of the mill, Jack Gallagher, said in the mill's nine years of operation there have been very few cases of chlorine leakages.

Cowichan Farmers Boost Pay

Employment conditions have been favorable during the past month and local National Employment Service Manager R. S. Robinson said, "production in the logging industry was affected by snowfall but by month end the industry was back to normal."

A delay in the start of new construction projects resulted in a surplus of carpenters for the first time in many months.

YOUNG HIRED

With tree planting under way now, young men can readily obtain employment, Mr. Robinson noted.

Two successful career workshops have been held with some 30 counsellors offering advice and information to more than 200 students, and other workshops are planned.

Mr. Robinson said "NES services to the schools are often overlooked in spite of the very important role they play in all communities with NES offices.

"Not only is career counselling offered but also vocational guidance and assistance in planning entry to technical, vocational and other schools including university.

"A close liason is maintained with other community agencies as well as the schools, so that our special services officer can render possible assistance to young people."

The number of unplaced applicants during February totalled 1 460 men, but many of them are loggers who were laid off temporarily because of snow.

SNOW COSTLY

During January 776 men were unemployed but again many of them were loggers laid off because of snow. A year ago the total was 862 men.

A total of 149 women registered for employment compared with 167 last month.

A year ago there were 196.

Mr. Robinson said "many of these women have had little or no experience in the sales, clerical or service industries and some lack the necessary motivation to improve their academic education to take advantage of courses offered in the B.C. vocational schools."

Indians' Schools Discussed

DUNCAN—Indians and whites will join forces this afternoon and evening for a symposium on Indian education at Cowichan High School.

The topic is What Is the Problem? and UBC anthropologist Dr. Barbara Lane will be one of the guest speakers at 4 p.m.

TEEN-AGERS

At the dinner, when members of the Duncan AOTS Club will cater to 200 symposium participants at the Duncan United Church hall, business manager of the North Vancouver Band, Jim Nahamee, will be the speaker.

The symposium will come to a close with a panel discussion on the main theme at the Cowichan High School.

EXPERTS

Moderated by Cowichan School Board management committee chairman Wilf Peck, panel members are Dr. Lane; Mr. Nahamee, Mrs. Baker, Philip Paul of the Saanich Band and Victor Janzen from Nanaimo, superintendent of Indian schools.

The symposium is sponsored by the Cowichan District Teachers' Association.

Analyst watches Murray's test.

By AGNES FLETT

NANAIMO — Three men went on a binge this week, with a big audience watching.

There was no doubt about it, they were trying to get drunk. They made headway to the applause of onlookers.

The purpose was all very clear to the three when the experiment started: they were supposed to be testing a breathalyser. But after a couple of hours things got a bit hazy.

The navy upheld its reputation for hard drinking, when Capt. Mike Murray managed to down 15 ounces of whisky in the allotted time.

He was game to take a bit more, but the sober officials running the test said a stern "no."

He could still walk and talk, but admitted he was sleepy. He couldn't walk a straight line when tested.

His breathalyser reading was .15, an undisputed reading of intoxication.

He got hearty applause from the audience ("first time I got an ovation for drinking," he said wearily).

Mr. Thomas quit at 10 ounces. He claimed he didn't want any more, and his test was .08 on the machine.

Mr. Moffat took nine bottles of beer. He ended with a .07 reading.

A good crowd gathered to watch the two hours of imbibing. One watcher cried in anguish. "How long do we have to watch those guys drinking?"

During the drinking bout there was an explanation to the audience of the breathalyser and films of car accidents were shown.

All three could stretch out their arms and touch their noses. Only Capt. Murray could not walk a straight line.

But all had healthy breathalyser readings.

Scientist Demands Explanation

Free Drug Cut Hits Program

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO — Reduction in the number of mental patients eligible for free drugs has been criticized by a mental health official.

Dr. Alan Hourston, president of Nanaimo branch, Canadian Mental Health Association, wants to know why the service has been "cut off arbitrarily without so much as a public explanation."

Two years ago the mental health clinic on Fitzwilliam Street, adopted a policy of providing free drugs for mentally ill patients of any doctor in the area.

SMALL INCOME

This was done providing the patient's income was small enough that payment for the drugs would have meant hardship for the family.

Dr. Hourston, a scientist at the Nanaimo Biological Station, said everybody who could pay, paid.

"This program was pioneered by the Nanaimo Mental Health Clinic, and was certainly not usual.

"Everything was going along fine, then suddenly two months ago it was cut off.

HIGHER COST

"Moreover, this change in policy, apparently instigated by the department of health services and hospital insurance, under whose jurisdiction the mental health clinic operates, will probably result in far greater expenditure of public funds," Dr. Hourston said.

Since the Nanaimo program was initiated the committal rate to the provincial mental health hospital, and the suicide rate for this area, have both shown marked decreases.

SUICIDE RATE

The present policy has limited free drugs to patients of the clinic psychiatrist and ex-patients of the provincial hospital.

"It would be a practical impossibility for the clinic psychiatrist to attend to all the many people that require this type of treatment.

"It has been proposed to extend the number of psychiatric beds at Nanaimo Regional Hospital. Will these patients be denied free medication following their release because they are not committed to the provincial hospital?" he asked.

HELP NEEDED

Dr. Hourston maintained if only a few of the patients who formerly received free drugs are admitted to the provincial mental hospital, then the cost to the taxpayer will be much greater than the drugs formerly supplied by the clinc.

"Many of these people require professional help, which if secured at an early stage, enables them to carry on or return to their regular status in the community.

Coroner Russ Inkster said an autopsy will be carried out to determine the cause of death this afternoon, but Mr. Senini had been confined to his bed with the flu.

Treatment Plant

Gold River Gets Financing

By JULIE MORAES

GOLD RIVER — Council has learned Central Mortgage and Housing has approved a loan for the secondary sewage treatment plant.

The loan must not exceed two-fifths of the cost of the project.

THREE BIDS

Argos Installations — $111,777.

McCarter, Nairn and Associates and Associated Engineering, consultants in the development of Gold River townsite, recommended that A and B Construction be awarded the contract.

BOND NEEDED

Council agreed to accept the recommendation provided the consultants can negotiate a satisfactory performance bond, minimum of 50 per cent for installation of the Gold River sewage treatment plant.

Breakdown on the cost of the Gold River sewage system, with the total cost to be $575,000:

- The treatment plant, pumping station, main trunk and laterals cost, $390,000;
- Central Mortgage and Housing approved loan amount not to exceed two-thirds of cost, $230,000
- Gold River must give debentures for 75 per cent of amount and if work is finished by March 1, 1968, will receive 25 per cent forgiveness bonus, loan to be for 25 years.
- Balance of monies to be raised by debentures issued on market; these will be 25 year debentures guaranteed by the government, $340,000;
- To repay debentures there will be a user and frontage tax, at present included in householders taxes but separate bills to be issued with general tax billing;
- Estimate the winter works grant for the sewer system only to be approximately $40,000; this will help to ease the burden.
- The municipal clerk, David Wilson, estimates that it will take the full 25 years to pay off this debt.

Minister Quoted:

Council Aids Japan

PORT ALBERNI—The labor council here claims members of a delegation were told by a cabinet minister Japanese pulp mills are free of pollution, and they have been using the facilities of the B.C. Research Council.

This account of statements by Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston was given by the delegation to the labor council.

SURPRISE

They said "we were surprised to hear this."

Officers elected: Dan Connell, president; Walter Behn, first vice-president; Lawrence Sailor, second vice-president; Bob Hopkins, third vice-president; Morris Corbell, secretary-treasurer; Walter Allen, recording secretary.

Installation of officers will take place at the annual meeting April 15.

DUMP SITE

Labor council officials will contact Port Alberni city council and request relocation of the city dump, which is reported a serious nuisance to residents in the south end of Port, and a health hazard to the city as a whole.

Council will ask Port and the school board to build a sidewalk on North Park Drive, east of Tenth Avenue North, and along the high school grounds on Anderson.

Mrs. Walker Rode White Horse to School on Quadra

CAMPBELL RIVER — Mrs. Dora Walker's first impression of Vancouver Island came when she stepped off a coastal steamer at Comox in the early years of this century.

She was met by two husky loggers in a horse-drawn wagon.

"We've come to take you to the school at headquarters," one said. And they took her to her teaching job at the school, located at a rugged logging camp.

BIG CHANGE

She rented a room in a four-room tent in 1915, a big change from her life in London.

She went to teach on Quadra Island in 1917, boarded with the Pidcock family and travelled the mile and a half up a hill to school every day, riding her white horse.

LOVED B.C.

Mrs. Walker was born in Bristol, England, in 1880, and came to Canada in 1910 to visit her sister, Mrs. R. W. Robbins at Coldstream, near Vernon.

She fell in love with British Columbia and went to teach school in North Vancouver. She later taught at Kingcome Inlet, Comox Valley, and finally at Quathiaski Cove.

She met and married her husband, a Methodist missionary who farmed on Quadra from 1911 and served as a magistrate for many years.

The Walkers' wedding was the first in St. John's Anglican Church, Quathiaski.

Mrs. Walker was active in the work of the Anglican church, the Columbia Coast Mission and Quadra Island Women's Institute.

Her annual children's parties on the lawn of the family home, to which all children on Quadra were invited, highlighted many young lives.

DIES AT KELOWNA

She leaves three daughters, Mrs. F. W. (Phyllis) King, Kaleden; Mrs. R. L. F. (Ursula) Lewis, Lethbridge; Mrs. D. A. (Joy) Huntley, Campbell River; stepson R. J. Walker, Vanderhoof; stepdaughter Mrs. J. B. M. (Katie) Clarke, Keremeos.

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love, remembrance outlasts all.

CLARKE—In loving memory of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth (Bess) Clarke, who passed away March 10, 1962.

Nothing but memories as we journey on,
Longing for a smile from a loved one gone;
None knows the depths of our deep
regret,
But we remember when others
forget.
—Lovingly remembered by Reg, June, boys and families.

Cong Hordes Swamp 'Alamo'

SAIGON (UPI) — Hordes of Viet Cong overran an American Special Forces camp near the Laotian border Thursday and inflicted heavy casualties on an outnumbered American Green Beret and Montagnard tribesmen's garrison that battled gallantly down to its last bullets in an Alamo-like defence.

It was reported that some of the Americans and their allies, the wiry mountain tribesmen who make their home deep in Communist-controlled country, had been evacuated as the Viet Cong swept through the flaming outpost. There were no immediate details.

The Special Forces camp, at A Shau, situated astride a major infiltration route into South Viet Nam from Laos, about 325 miles north-northwest of Saigon, had been under heavy attack all day Wednesday and reported ammunition and medical supplies desperately low.

THROUGH WIRE

Attacking furiously behind mortars, automatic weapons and small arms fire, the Communists finally swept through the camp's barbed wire perimeter before dawn Thursday.

Up to two Communist battalions—between 1,000 and 1,200

Herbicides Join War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department reported Wednesday an estimated 20,000 acres of South Vietnamese crops had been destroyed with herbicides to deny food to the Viet Cong.

The 20,000-acre figure, however, does not include jungle and underbrush defoliated — treated with chemicals so the the leaves fall off — to deny cover to the guerrilla forces. Officials said they could not estimate the acreage involved in the defoliation program.

Blast Rocks Three States

CORNING, Ark. (AP) — At least one car of a munitions-packed freight train mysteriously blew up near Corning early Wednesday with a thunderous shock felt in three states.

A metal and concrete grain elevator, dimpled by shrapnel, battered and shredded in spots, shielded the town of 2,565 from the full force of the blast.

Decision Prevents New Election

CARDIN ACT SAVES PEARSON

Opposes Inquiry

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Justice Minister Lucien Cardin scrapped his resignation to save Prime Minister Pearson from immediate retirement and the country from another general election.

In an interview Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin, who could smile again after his five-day ordeal, was asked why he withdrew his resignation.

"If I had left," he replied, "It is my view that Mr. Pearson would have left. And others. And the government would have fallen.

PARTY HAPPY

"Nobody wanted that to happen.

"That is why the party was so happy with the decision I took not to resign.

"I don't think the government can afford another election, nor do I think there is any alternative to our continuing to govern the country."

Mr. Cardin still disagrees with Mr. Pearson's action in allowing a partial judicial inquiry into the case of spy-suspect Victor Spencer.

NOT RIGHT

But he was sure that Mr. Pearson thought it was the right decision when he took it.

"He was trying to satisfy public opinion that the government had nothing to hide in the case," Mr. Cardin said.

"I knew this, and so did anyone close to the problem. But I don't think it is right that we are pushed to set up all sorts of royal commissions and inquiries every time the opposition doesn't like our decision."

Mr. Cardin sent his resignation by messenger to the prime minister at noon Tuesday.

NOT OPENED

Mr. Pearson did not even open it. He knew what was in it. The two men had met the night before and they met again on Tuesday night.

Forces to Go Below 100,000

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Strength of the armed forces is expected to fall to 100,000 or fewer but basic defence commitments will continue to be met, officials said Wednesday.

Basic commitments means Canada's contributions to the ground, air and sea commands of the North Atlantic Alliance and to North American air defence.

Since July 1, 1964, the armed forces have experienced a monthly net manpower loss of some 600 personnel.

RATE SPEEDED UP

This rate increased in January to 810 when manpower strength fell to 108,157 from 108,967 at Dec. 31, 1965.

Officials said losses are expected to continue for several months though the re-engagement bonuses announced Feb. 18 should slow the exodus.

NO END YET

Authorities said they don't know at what point the losses will be halted. One source said strength may drop off to some 95,000 by summer. February figures are not yet available.

The defence department attributes the number of drop-outs to good economic conditions. The Conservatives attribute it to poor morale brought on by the uncertainties surrounding integration of the forces command and trades structures.

BOOMERANGED

When Defence Minister Hellyer took over the defence portfolio in 1963, manpower strength was 123,270 servicemen. When integration began it was 119,098 and Mr. Hellyer said some 10,000 would be cut from the roster to make administrative savings. This reduction was achieved far ahead of schedule but hasn't stopped.

Officials said pay increases, especially for pilots, will be granted soon.

Honeymoon In Canada For Beatrix?

A source close to government and royal house said Wednesday they are going westward. He refused to confirm it was Canada but denied it would be the United States.

The princess spent her early childhood in Ottawa during the war years, when the royal family went into exile.

One unpleasant note was sounded when an angry mob of about 500 youths screaming "fascists" battled with police outside the Dutch royal palace only hours before the wedding.

The gaily-decorated square was cleared within about 20 minutes. There were no reports of arrests.

'Liberal' Cap For John D

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, after holding forth at a press conference Wednesday night on indecision within the Liberal cabinet, was presented with a deer-stalker cap.

He donned the double-peaked, Sherlock Holmes-type headgear for photographers and termed it a "Liberal minister's cap—when you've got it on nobody knows which way you're going."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday night that dissension within the Liberal cabinet — such as that concerning the George Victor Spencer spy controversy—could bring about the fall of the government.

He arrived by plane for a few days of fishing before speaking at the British Columbia party convention here Saturday.

Bandits Nab $500,000 In Gems

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Four nattily-dressed, pistol-brandishing bandits held up a downtown jewelry firm Wednesday and escaped with an estimated $500,000 in gems.

The men, all wearing gloves and sunglasses, entered Davidson & Licht jewelry store and ordered all employees to file downstairs to a basement office. No customers were in the store.

The gunmen directed credit manager Emil Frederick, 57, to open the basement safe. They took about $300 from the vault.

The robbers forced owner Arthur Licht to go oupstairs and open a vault there. They stuffed hundreds of gems into a valise and went back downstairs. One of the bandits discovered that Licht had not opened all of the safe compartments.

They ordered him back upstairs to the vault where they took the rest of the loot.

Ottawa Can Pay Salaries

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

Parliament had finally approved the expenditures for 1965-66 and the financial crisis was over.

At precisely one minute before the House was to adjourn Wednesday the House approved the last estimated expenditure of the department of fisheries, ending a 22-day tumultuous debate of expenditures.

RUSHED THROUGH

Government House leader George McIlraith had warned that if the estimates did not go through Wednesday the civil servants could not have been paid on time.

So in spite of untimely delays in past debates, members of all parties rushed through the last multi-million dollars.

In about two hours they approved spending of the secre-

Cruelty Charges Prepared Against Baby Seal Hunters

HALIFAX (CP) — A humane society officer said Wednesday he will lay criminal charges against three Magdalen Island seal hunters for "deliberate, sadistic, stupid cruelty" in killing seal pups.

Tom Hughes of Toronto, general manager of the Ontario Humane Society, said he did not consider the incident indicative of the entire seal hunt. But he said it involved 59 baby seals that were being skinned alive.

Another humane society officer, Brian Davies of Fredericton, and veterinarian Dr. Elizabeth Simpson of Ottawa, said they "could not conceive" of the hunt ever being humane.

SKINNED ALIVE

They said they observed seals being skinned alive and even when the pups were properly killed, they suffered "mortal terror" before their death.

In another development Andre Fleury of Montreal said in a telephone interview from Cap-aux-Meules, Que., that part of a film he produced on the hunt had been staged before the season opened and with permission of a federal fisheries officer.

The scenes staged before the season showed adult seals being shot with high - powered rifles, he said. The scenes showing pups being skinned alive were shot by cameramen accompanying hunters on the ice.

He said, however, that he felt these scenes were outdated and did not represent the hunt as it is today with government control and a quota of 50,000 pup skins. Fisheries officials stopped the hunt at 6 p.m. Wednesday when the quota was reached.

Mr. Hughes said he found nine seal pups "obviously alive and bleeding profusely from the nose and head and only partially stunned."

"We found another 50 not skinned but cut and bleeding from the throat and neck. They were alive. There was no need for it. It was just bloody stupid, sadistic, cruelty."

PUPS TORPID

"At this time of year the pups are torpid. Many of them have been deserted by the mothers and are living on their blubber. You can roll them over with your foot."

Dr. Simpson, 26, a petite blonde who leaped from ice floe to ice floe to follow the hunt, said 95 per cent of the pup skulls she examined where the hunters, known as swilers, were being observed had been crushed and the brain damage was irreparable.

DIFFERENT STORY

"But when we went a half-mile away where they weren't being observed, I found 50 per cent of the skulls were not crushed.

"I definitely saw a baby seal being skinned alive. It lifted its head and looked at us. I don't think the hunters know it. I talked to them and most of them are very gentle men. They admit freely that they find it repulsive."

Dial-a-Taxman Proves Big Hit

By MARILYN ARGUE

OTTAWA (CP)—The income tax collector at times is like the fat kid at school.

He tries to make friends by making little jokes or offering to help with homework, but all he gets is hollow laughter and suspicion.

"It makes you cry, almost," an official of the national revenue department's taxation division said Wednesday.

* * *

But some of the officials of this tax-collecting department are starting to smile through their tears at the success of an experimental service begun in Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Ottawa, and soon to be extended to Brampton and Quebec City.

Taxpayers in these centres can call up their tax office on certain nights and pour out their hearts to a sympathetic expert.

"It's part of a long - range plan to take away the hesitation and fear that people have," an official said. "We want people to come to us with their problems."

* * *

Folks have been dropping into the tax office during day business hours for years, but it's hard for office workers to lick the lineup in their lunch hour and not everyone has access to a phone.

* * *

"We schedule the night services for the early part of the week—Monday to Wednesday—because it's usually during the weekend that the taxpayer has started to do his return."

The program has been a smash hit. In Calgary, where it ran for three hours on three nights last week, office staff had to be increased to 10 from three to cope with all the questions.

In Vancouver, 720 taxpayers rang up the first night. Ottawa's squeezed 178 calls into two hours.

Officials hope the phone service and the over-the-counter counselling stations to be opened in Brampton and Quebec City shopping centres will reduce the number of wrong returns—there were 1,018,998 for the 1964 taxation year.

The government refunded $14,000,000 last year to 350,000 happy people, many of whom were confused in making their returns and made mistakes in the government's favor.

The others who made mistakes in their own favor? Well, the tax fellows are more embarrassed, really, than mad at them.

men—participated in the attack on the camp manned by some 13 Green-Bereted U.S. advisers and 300 to 500 Vietnamese Montagnard irregulars about three miles east of the Laotian border.

Bad weather curtailed vital air support for the besieged camp.

'PUFF' SHOT DOWN

During the intense fighting Wednesday, Communist anti-aircraft weapons situated on mountains flanking the camp on three sides shot down an air force AC-47, the awesome 'Puff the Magic Dragon,' that fires 7.62 mm rounds at a rate of 6,000 a minute.

Three crewmen, and possibly a fourth, were killed in the crash. Three others were rescued by other helicopters before they were driven off by intense ground fire.

The defenders could only listen as the Viet Cong moved to within 300 feet of the camp's perimeter early Thursday and prepared for the final all-out assault.

It came about 3:30 a.m. Within an hour, the Communists had breached the defence. A flare ship circling overhead at 4:35, reported the camp in flames but some resistance from the communications bunker.

ALL ABLAZE

By 5:05 a.m. Thursday, the camp radio operator reported that everything he could see on the ground had been destroyed or was burning.

The operator, possibly one of the last defenders still holding out, asked for immediate air support.

With a ceiling of about 1,500 feet, American planes struck at the Communists around 6 a.m. in a desperate attempt to save the camp.

HAND-TO-HAND

At 6:15, the radio operator was still directing the rocket fire of the planes overhead. Then the radio went out.

A Vietnamese military spokesman reported that radio communications with the camp had been re-established once again about 10 a.m. and that hand-to-hand fighting was raging inside the camp.

While the heavy fighting raged, a U.S. military spokesman in Saigon disclosed that American forces had suffered more than 1,000 casualties—killed, wounded and missing—in a single week for the first time.

The record number of casualties was reported for the week ending Feb. 26. Revised figures reported Wednesday raised the original casualty report for the week from 109 killed and 747 wounded to 129 killed, 916 wounded and three missing for a total casualty count of 1,048.

In heavy new air raids against North Viet Nam, air force fighter-bombers used super-sensitive radar to pinpoint targets as they unloaded bombs and high-explosive rockets Tuesday on a half-dozen targets 80 to 135 miles west of Hanoi. Targets blasted included an ammunition dump, a petroleum storage area and a military area.

tary of state, the RCMP and the fisheries department.

Then the whole bundle went to the Senate—the house of sober second thought—for approval and royal assent.

"This is an outrage to the Senate," complained Senator Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Que.). He objected to the Senate being forced to do in two hours what it had taken the Commons so long to do.

Conservative Senator Wallace McCutcheon said the estimates would be held up until next week if the Senate gave them proper consideration.

In spite of other half-hearted objections, the Senators rubber-stamped the estimates and they were passed.

Consequently the log jam which had blocked all new bills and resolutions in the Commons had finally been smashed.

Already some $2,000,000 in pay cheques for casual employees and people working for contractors working for the government have been delayed.

In order to get the final estimates through the Conservatives waved their rights to talk on fisheries and the RCMP.

TALK LATER

However, they served notice that they would have plenty to say when these estimates come before the Commons and committees for the next fiscal year in a few months.

So ended one of the diciest money problems the government had faced in years.

Mr. McIlraith served notice the government intends to call several routine resolutions this week and have a supply debate—for this year's money—next Monday.

Following the supply debate the House is likely to tackle capital punishment.

Cardin Stays to Save Prime Minister

After the meeting with the prime minister, and a conference with Walter Gordon, Maurice Lamontagne and Rene Tremblay, Mr. Cardin began to weaken in his determination to quit.

He finally decided that he wouldn't go after a chat with Toronto Liberal Jim Walker wednesday morning.

Mr. Walker came with a "stick-with-us" message from the Ontario caucus of the party.

PARTY HARMED

The position of Prime Minister Pearson after the crisis is not as clear as that of Mr. Cardin, whose political star is rising.

The headlines of the past five days have harmed the party and Mr. Pearson, who humiliated his minister.

At the caucus Wednesday, Mr Pearson declared he would "stay on and fight."

But the affair, according to reliable speculation, has hastened his departure from politics.

'BELIEVE IN HIM'

Of Mr. Pearson, Mr Cardin said Wednesday night: "I like him and I believe in him.

"He is not going to let the ship down. No one is going to let the ship down."

In his office Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin, who had been silent for five days, gushed out answers to all questions.

This is the office where the drama was played out, where the key characters came and departed via a secret spiral staircase that leads from the corner of the third-floor office to the ground floor.

It's called the Sir John A. MacDonald staircase because Sir John used it for reasons only he knew.

The two ministers, talking over a crisis that could have wrecked the party and thrown the country into an election, sat in a booth in a downtown delicatessen called the Party Palace.

It was midnight. And they talked until one a.m. Mr. Sharp was the last minister to speak to him.

Wednesday night, Mr. Cardin was asked how he felt.

'GOOD INSIDE'

"Sometimes you feel tired and downhearted, but you feel good inside. That's how I feel today."

Mr. Cardin talked freely of the crisis.

If he had gone ahead with his decision to quit, it might have provoked a very serious split in the party involving other things than his resignation.

At least three Quebec ministers said they would not be able to stay in government if he quit.

Mr. Cardin was asked if he really believed that Mr. Pearson faced the danger of a general election in the Commons Friday when he reversed his decision on the Spencer probe.

"Yes," he replied.

Mr. Cardin said he did not know what was going on behind the curtains at the back of the Commons during the critical hours on Friday.

He had his hands full handling the Tory onslaught against his department during the justice department estimates.

"Mr. Pearson had information and was getting opinions from one and the other," Mr. Cardin recalled.

"I think he really felt that if there had been a non-confidence vote, we might have lost it.

RESPONSIBILITY

"He was concerned about his responsibility as prime minister, as well as leader of the party, to all the people.

"I don't think he could afford to have another election at this time. I am quite sure he was deadly serious about this."

Mr. Cardin was asked why Mr. Pearson was so concerned about the possibility of defeat, when he had won other votes in the Commons.

He replied that there were some Liberals (reports say six) who would not have voted with the government, unless it allowed an inquiry.

NOT SATISFIED

"Some of our own people," he said, "didn't understand what the issue really was.

"And the whole Spencer case, which is a very strange one, had not been explained to their satisfaction.

"No matter how hard you try, you can't always explain security cases to people."

Mr. Cardin said he withdrew his resignation, because he did not want to put Mr. Pearson in an awkward position.

"It is so easy to judge, in retrospect," he said.

"But when you are right in the middle of the battle, it would be very unfair to put Mr. Pearson in such a position."

Only on Tuesday night, Mr. Cardin said, was he made to see the real consequences for the party if he resigned.

In all, he had talked to more than half the cabinet about his predicament.

When he was alone, late on Tuesday night, he analyzed what he had heard. But he had always made a point of not making decisions at night, when tired.

MORNING DECISION

So it was Wednesday morning before he finally made a decision—to stay.

Mr. Cardin was asked how the crisis would affect his future in the cabinet.

"I don't think it will affect my future," he replied. "I propose to go on doing my job as best I can."

He said he was absolutely convinced that his original decision in the Spencer case was right.

He was the "Last person in the world" to try to guess the kind of treatment he can now expect from Tory leader Diefenbaker, who had called for his resignation

TREATED BADLY?

Mr. Cardin was asked point-blank if Prime Minister Pearson had treated him badly.

"Well," he replied, 'It was a bit of a crisis, a bit of a panic. I don't think the prime minister handled me badly. He was trying to do the best thing in the interests of everyone, particularly the country.

"I think it would be pretty small, under such conditions, if I felt personally hurt."

Mr. Cardin claimed that the Liberal party is now more united than it has been since it took power three years ago.

NOT PLANNED

He said he had never seen the party caucus like it was Wednesday.

"For an odd reason I believe there will be more co-ordination, more fighting, more spirit, a better understanding than we have ever had.

"Sometimes it takes a crisis to bring you together. But, believe me, this wasn't planned."

Mr. Cardin was asked about his political ambitions and the impact of his increased stature in the party.

NO AMBITIONS

"Political ambitions? No, I haven't any," he replied. "I would just like to finish my job.

"I wanted to go back home, if I had resigned, but I had nothing definite to go back to. I would have had to open up a law office."

His decision to stay did not mean he was counting on a long political career.

"Younger, more enthusiastic men are required for the new era, he said.

'TERRIBLE PERIOD'

But, at 47, wasn't he one of that breed?

"No," he replied. "I have been here for 14 years, during a period when Parliament has become cynical.

"We will go back to normal debates and practices and we are going to need imaginative, young men who have not lived through this terrible period."

Mr. Cardin said he did not mean to say he was against strong speeches in Parliament.

People like David Lewis, Andrew Brewin and T. C. Douglas made strong speeches, and he did not object to them at all.

CYNICISM

"They are part of our parliamentary process and we accept it.

"But that isn't what has been happening in the Commons in the past few years."

Without mentioning Mr. Diefenbaker and the Tories by name, he clearly meant them when he said that cynicism is destroying parliament.

"The only way t fight it," he said, "is to do it yourself, though you may detest it.

"That is what Parliament has become. But I believe it will change."

CHEERED AT CAUCUS

Earlier, at the party caucus, Mr. Cardin, widely cheered by the members, kicked off the session, followed by associate defence minister Leo Cadieux, speaking for the Quebec caucus, and Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Cardin re-stated his reasons for not wanting an inquiry in the Spencer case and appealed for strength in government.

He also said that he could understand Mr. Pearson's decision, and the responsibility he had to make that decision in the spur of the moment.

NOT EASY

He conceded that it wasn't an easy decision for the prime minister to take, to retreat, and perhaps it was the best one.

In his speech, Mr. Cardin said he would not resign.

The heat was off the prime minister, who spoke third, and gave a rally-round-the-flag speech.

He was going to stay on and fight.

X-Rays May Hold Off Crisis For Sufferers of Leukemia

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: My father is 70 and was discharged from the hospital with lymphatic leukemia. The doctor says it is just a mild case.

Could you relieve my worry by giving me some information about this disease? What is a mild case? What causes this? Improper diet, not enough rest, etc.? — J.H.G.

As you doubtless know, lymphatic leukemia, when it occurs in children, is usually acute, and is an extremely dangerous disease. Why should I mince words? It is a terrible disease because we do not know of any way to cure it, and we are only beginning to be able to be able to postpone its ravages for a time.

But when it occurs in an older person, it is not likely to be in the acute form. Rather, it more likely will be in the chronic type. While I dislike saying that leukemia is never "mild," I still can assure you that chronic lymphatic leukemia in an older person is quite different from the acute form which is so savagely rapid in a child.

For the older person with chronic leukemia, medication and when indicated the use of X-ray can keep the disease within bounds for years.

Diet and the amount of rest have nothing to do with the disorder, fundamentally. Naturally, with this, as with any number of other chronic ailments, an ordinary, healthful diet and adequate rest keep up the patient's strength. That's true for everybody — with or without a chronic disease. No fancy diet does any good. Rest, beyond the normal amount each night to restore one's energy, isn't required.

At 70, practically all of us have some sort of chronic ailment that needs to be cared for. We can't live forever. Just regard this chronic leukemia in that sense.

The cause of it? We do not know.

Dear Dr. Molner: I used to pare oranges because the inner peel contains rutin, which works with Vitamin C to help the capillary blood vessels. Recently I heard that rutin may have cancer-producing properties, so I've discontinued paring oranges. Is there anything definite about hisassertion. — C.V.T.

I am familiar with the rutin content of orange peel, but am aware of no evidence concerning the cancer factor. I strongly doubt that there is any. Some eye specialists recommend rinding the entire orange in a blender to provide the rutin-Vitamin C factor for patients with fragile eye capillaries. It seems to me that we should have definite facts, not a "maybe" before sacrificing the usefulness of rutin.
